GANG CHIEFS BRAG OF RICHES

TAFT TO REST IN ARLINGTON GRAVE TODAY

Capital Halts All Business for Rites.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 10.—[Special.] — Governmental activities were suspended today as preparations went forward for tomorrow's last rites over the body of William Howard Taft.

Both houses of congress adjourned until Wednesday without transacting any business beyond the adoption of resolutions expressing sorrow over the passing of the former President and chief justice.

Tributes were paid to his memory by Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.] in the senate and by Speaker Longworth [Rep., O.] in the house. Committees to represent the two houses at the funeral were named by Vice President Curtis and Speaker Longworth.

Supreme Court Adjourns.

The Supreme court, which was scheduled to hand down decisions today, adjourned after Associate Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, who celebrated his eighty-ninth birthday on Saturday, had touchingly referred to the deaths on that day of Mr. Taft and Associate Justice Edward Terry Sanford. Justice Sanford's vacant chair was draped with black crêpe.

The District of Columbia courts adjourned today out of respect to the memory of Justice Sanford and tomorrow will remain in recess as a tribute to former Chief Justice Taft. Government departments, with but few exceptions, will close at noon tomorrow for the balance of the day.

Guns Boom at Military Posts.

At American military posts throughout the world today, guns boomed at intervals as is customary following the death of a former President of the United States. Flags were at half staff on government buildings and also on many of the embassies and legations of foreign nations. Full military honors will be accorded to the man who as President was commander-in-chief of the army and navy.

Detachments from the army, navy, and marine corps, and the three large service bands, the army, navy, and marine bands, are to participate in tomorrow's ceremonies.

For the first time the funeral service of a former President will be broadcast over the air, both the National Broadcasting company and the Columbia Broadcasting system having nation-wide hookups.

Thousands Wire Condolence.

More messages of sympathy from all parts of the world arrived at the Taft home today. The telegrams received by Mrs. Taft since her husband died last Saturday have numbered thousands. The home at 2215 Wyoming avenue was filled with floral tributes sent by many prominent persons.

Tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock the body of Mr. Taft will be taken from his home to the capitol, where it will lie in state under the dome until 12 o'clock. En route to the capitol it will be borne on an artillery caisson and escorted by a squadron of cavalry. The body will pass by the White House, where Mr. Taft made his home for four years, and up Pennsylvania avenue, where he once figured in inaugural parades. The rotunda of the capitol, where the body of President Harding also lay in state, is not far from the supreme court rooms, where the former chief justice spent his final years of public service.

Public to View Body.

The catafalque on which the body will lie at the capitol performed similar service at the funerals of three other Presidents—Abraham Lincoln, James A. Garfield, and Warren G. Harding.

The public will be permitted to view the body as it lies in state. Two officers and 20 noncommissioned officers from the army and an equal number of enlisted men from the navy and marine corps will constitute a guard of honor.

An imposing military procession will be formed to escort the body from the capitol to All Souls' Unitarian church, where the funeral service is to take place. The procession will leave the capitol at 12 o'clock and is due to arrive at the church at 1:50 p. m. It will pass down Pennsylvania avenue by the White House and thence up 16th street to the church at 16th and Harvard streets, N. W.

The military escort will include the army and marine bands, the third battalion of the Twelfth infantry from Fort Washington, the first battalion of the Sixteenth field artillery from

MRS. M'CORMICK HITS AT CRIME AND 'ALLIANCES'

Deneen Is Dr. Jekyll-Mr. Hyde, She Says.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Ruth Hanna McCormick formally opened her Cook county campaign last night with a discussion of "the Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" motif which she avows makes Cook county politics resemble "a modern mystery story."

Among her themes were the "bipartisan alliances" between Senator Deneen's group and A. J. Cermak on the sanitary district and in the judicial election last fall, the popular uprising two years ago which elected State's Attorney Swanson, but the failure of criminals as yet to observe the slogan "crime on the go." Mrs. McCormick dwelt upon the "indictment mill," the sanitary district scandals, and the fact they have not reached trial, and upon the career, death, and funeral of Joseph (Diamond Joe) Esposito.

Assails Cermak Alliance.

She had a word sketch of Senator Deneen, who voted for the Jones 5 and 10, in "the 40-60 alliance" with the wet "Tony Cermak, whose campaign emblem in 1928 was a bottle opener."

"Is the senator 100 per cent regular in Washington and 40 per cent regular in Cook county?" Mrs. McCormick asked.

It was the first entrance of Chicago politics into the platform struggle over the Republican senatorship nomination at the April 8 primaries. Mrs. McCormick spoke over the radio and later at a dinner at the Hotel Sherman under the auspices of the Voters Progress club. One extended passage of her speech dealt with Mr. Esposito, whose funeral Senator Deneen has been describing to audiences in Egypt in the last week.

Wants the Whole Story.

"As the senator told it," she said, "it was a good story, and I am confident he will stick to it. But if the story of Esposito's funeral is submitted to me as an issue I hope the whole interesting story will be told, just as it was presented in the press at the time."

Mrs. McCormick, after speaking of the killing of "Diamond Joe," mentioned the bombing of the homes of Senator Deneen and Judge John A. Swanson.

"Nobody has been brought to trial for any of these three crimes," she remarked.

The uprising of the voters two years ago on the cry of "redeem Chicago" was used as a starting point by Mrs. McCormick in her discussion of local situations.

Chicago Not Redeemed.

"It would be idle to contend that Chicago has been 'redeemed,'" she said. "Gang murders have continued and the killers have enjoyed the same immunity from punishment which was theirs before the 1928 election.

"The use of bombs by racketeers and terrorists has not diminished. Highway robberies and other felonies are just about as numerous as they were before. To add to these vexed conditions we find the city and county entangled in a maze of debts. Viewing the 1928 election and events subsequent to it we can scarcely escape the conclusion that the responsibility for failure must be put squarely up to the political leaders who won control on the strength of promises to rescue the community from these evils.

"I have a good deal of sympathy for Judge Swanson, who was elected to the office of state's attorney in November, 1928. I believe he went into that important law enforcement office with the same civic ideals which had characterized his career on the bench. I do not believe, however, that Judge Swanson's best friends will contend that he has 'crime on the go.'

Cites Records of Courts.

"Grand jury investigations resulting in 3,990 indictments in Judge Swanson's first year in office brought only 695 verdicts of guilty. In 582 other cases there were verdicts of not guilty and thus 2,712 indictments were not finally disposed of. These figures were published in the Chicago newspapers at the end of Judge Swanson's first year in office. Many of these indictments are of major importance in connection with the program of rescuing Chicago and Cook county.

"None of the men accused in the sanitary district scandal has been tried. Hundreds of other indictments are lying in the vaults of the state's attorney's office and we read almost daily in the papers that new inquiries are to be started, with the purpose of

REGISTER TODAY

Polls Open 8 A. M. to 9 P. M.

Estimated registration 300,000
Chicago's present registration. 1,350,729

The only chance to register for the April 8 primaries is today. Electors who were not on the books a year ago, or who have since moved or have become of age or become citizens, have opportunity today to get on the polls lists.

The registration applies to Chicago, Chicago Heights, Berwyn, Cicero, Evergreen Park, and Summit. The law is ironclad that in these communities no man or woman can vote who is not registered in the precinct in which he or she lives. Since the last registration a year ago there have been two moving days. Saturday night is set for revision of the registry.

BISHOP GRISWOLD SERIOUSLY ILL, IS HOSPITAL REPORT

Information was received last night from the Evanston hospital that the Rt. Rev. Sheldon M. Griswold, Episcopal bishop of Chicago, is seriously ill there. Bishop Griswold went to the hospital some days ago to obtain a rest before his heavy Lenten schedule, and it is reported that while in the hospital he suffered a recurrence of an old ailment.

Bishop Griswold is under the care of Dr. Dwight F. Davis of Evanston. Last summer, while on his vacation near Sault Ste. Marie, the bishop became critically ill. His present illness is said to be of a different nature from that of last summer.

A call was issued yesterday for a special convention of the diocese of Chicago on May 13 for the purpose of electing a bishop coadjutor, who will have the right to succeed Bishop Griswold. Notices to this effect will be mailed today to the clergy and parishes of the diocese. The call was announced at the headquarters of the Episcopal diocese, 664 Rush street, last night, following a meeting of the standing committee of the diocese.

NATIONAL G. O. P. CLUB ACTS TO OUST DRY LAW

New York, March 10.—(AP)—The National Republican club at a special meeting tonight, by a vote of 461 to 335, adopted a resolution calling upon the Republican members of congress to vote for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

The National Republican club has about 2,000 members, about half of whom live in New York and the metropolitan district. The other half are scattered across the country. Its members include many leaders of the party, such as national committeemen, senators, and representatives. President Hoover formerly was a member.

Two years ago a similar resolution was defeated.

Girl, 18, Faints Six Miles Up, but Lands O.K.

Roosevelt Field, L. I., March 10.—[Special.]—Miss Elinor Smith established an unofficial world's altitude record for women today and in so doing sent her Whirlwind-powered Bellanca monoplane higher than most pilots, male or female, have ever flown.

This feat was only one feature of a morning of adventure for the 18 year old girl flyer, holder of the American women's duration record. At between 30,000 and 32,000 feet, the respective readings of her two altimeters, the girl became unconscious and the motor ceased functioning. She said later:

"Everything went blank and I passed out."

Fuel Line Freezes.

At the same time the engine began to sputter and slowed to a point where it lost its effectiveness because of a frozen fuel line.

Here the Bellanca took charge of the situation. With an unconscious pilot and a motor delivering little or no power, the plane settled into a gentle glide and started earthward. Nearly a mile of the six mile height slipped away before Miss Smith recovered.

"I looked at the altimeter and I had 27,000 feet," she said, "and the engine still was sputtering and popping. I knew that something must have happened to the fuel line because the motor had been performing perfectly before."

Decides to Land.

At first she thought she would again try to push the plane up, hoping to beat the record of 33,500 feet for commercial machines set by George Haldeman in the same plane at Bellanca field, Newcastle, Del., last week, but the motor failed to respond either to oxygen treatment or control adjustment and so Miss Smith decided to land.

There still was no mean task before her. Numb with cold and exhaustion, she had to glide the plane without power more than five miles down. She slipped the craft sidewise and glided in flat circles, gradually losing altitude and keeping to the east of the field. Shortly before landing the propeller stopped turning and she came in across the edge of the gully east of the field with a "dead stick."

Ben Zebora, her mechanic, and Mrs. Thomas Smith of Freeport, her mother, were the first to get to her. As Zebora climbed up to the window she shouted "I broke it! I broke it!"

Oxygen Tank Fails.

"At about 32,000 feet the oxygen tank went out of order, the tube frozen from moisture, I think, and the motor began to pop," Miss Smith said.

"It was awfully cold but I wasn't suffering much except for the trouble with the oxygen. I am sure I could have climbed much higher but for the trouble and the freezing of my gas line. The plane still was climbing well at 32,000 feet.

"There was not any sensation when I went out. I was perfectly conscious just before it happened. Then everything went blank as if some one had given me an uppercut.

Comes to at 27,000 Feet.

"I don't remember anything after that until I came to at 27,000 feet. I must have pounded my oxygen tank or hit the valve while I was partially out, because when I came out of it the oxygen was flowing into my mouth very fast."

The previous record for women was 23,996 feet, established at Los Angeles a year ago by the late Marvel Crosson, who was killed in the women's derby from Los Angeles to Cleveland last August.

Miss Smith's plane was the Bellanca Pacemaker, powered with the 300 horsepower Wright Whirlwind, a six place cabin monoplane.

MOVIE JANITORS ACCEPT OFFER; AVERT STRIKE

Danger of a strike which might have closed most of the Chicago motion picture theaters was averted when, early this morning, 450 members of the theater janitors' union, meeting in a hall at 426 South Wabash avenue, voted to accept the offer of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' association for a $2.50 weekly increase for janitors receiving less than $30 weekly and a $1 increase for those receiving more than $30 weekly.

Ralph J. O'Hara, business agent of the janitors' union, had threatened to call a strike in which, he predicted, the motion picture operators' and the engineers' unions would join.

Woman Fatally Injured in Fall from Street Car

Mrs. Archangela Emma, 65 years old, 4563 Turner avenue, was injured fatally last night when she fell from a street car step at Kedzie avenue and 45th street. Mrs. Emma was preparing to alight when the car stopped suddenly, throwing her to the pavement. She died a few minutes later at the Holy Cross hospital of a skull fracture.

Scout Ideals Are Lauded by President

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 10.—[Special.]—The great importance of teaching civic responsibility to the youth of today, along with the ability to read and write, was stressed by President Hoover tonight in a short address at a dinner given by the Boy Scouts of America.

Four hundred business and professional men, gathered in Washington to commemorate the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the Boy Scout movement and to launch a big expansion program, listened while the President spoke of the necessity for training the boys of impressionable age in the duties and obligations of citizenship, "if the country is to continue as a successful democracy."

Training for Democracy.

Mr. Hoover spoke in the highest terms of the Boy Scout movement, asserting that it is one of the most valuable educational and training forces for democracy in the nation. The President also praised the leaders of the Boy Scouts for offering the boy of today an opportunity for real adventure and of directing his interests toward "constructive joy" instead of "destructive glee."

President Hoover credited the Boy Scout movement with making better citizens and predicted there would be no more failures in citizenship if every man who went to the polls was "a good Scout," and every official who was elected had been a real Boy Scout.

Mr. Hoover suggested that another "R," that of responsibility to the community, should be added to the other three—readin', 'ritin', and 'rithmetic."

Suggests Another "R."

"We assure ourselves that the cure of illiteracy and the fundamentals of education to be the three R's—'readin', 'ritin', and 'rithmetic,'" the President said. "To this we must add one more R, and that is responsibility—responsibility to the community—if we are not to have illiteracy in government.

"The conviction that every person in the republic owes a service to the republic; that the republic rests solely upon the willingness of every one born in it to bear his part of the duties and obligations of citizenship, is as important as the ability to read and write—that is the only patriotism of peace."

Pays Tribute to Taft.

Before beginning his prepared address the President paid a warm tribute to the memory of William Howard Taft, a vice president of the Boy Scout organization up to the time of his death.

"We meet this evening under the cloud of deep sadness," the President said. "Since many of you started your journey to Washington the most beloved of Americans has passed into the great beyond, and in determining not to cancel this occasion your committee has acted in the spirit of William Howard Taft.

"With a lifelong openhearted devotion to boys, the first honorary president of the Boy Scouts would, had he known it, insisted that your work should go forward.

"This occasion commemorates the twentieth anniversary of the Boy Scouts, and it is indeed in keeping with the true tribute to his great spirit, whose name graced your first anniversary."

Head Urges Expansion.

William W. Head, president of the Boy Scout organization and head of the Foreman State National bank of Chicago, together with Secretary of the Interior Lyman D. Wilbur, were the only other speakers. Mr. Head called for expansion of the Boy Scout organization in the interests of better citizenship, asserting there is need for a citizenship which understands the functions of government and which supports a government that fulfills these functions, a citizenship which is intelligent, just and tolerant.

BIG SHOTS TELL STEGE OF THEIR BIG BUSINESS

Allows Saltis to Go to Oberta Rites.

Money talked at the detective bureau yesterday — with Joe Saltis, George (Bugs) Moran, and Julian (Potatoes) Kaufman, gang leaders, personifying money. Saltis talked about his $100,000 farm. Moran talked about the $125,000 he has invested in a cleaning and dyeing establishment. Kaufman casually mentioned that he still has $600,000 or $700,000.

The appearances of the three at the detective bureau were on official business. Saltis made arrangements so that he wouldn't be arrested while attending "Dingbat" Oberta's funeral; Kaufman and Moran were there because they were arrested as hoodlums.

Saltis Calls on Stege.

Saltis was the first visitor. Chief of Detectives Stege had announced he would arrest Saltis upon the return to the city of the man who made the beer that made the south side famous. Saltis was presumed to be returning to avenge the murder of Oberta, which occurred last Wednesday night. Sam Malega, chauffeur and bodyguard for Oberta, was killed at the same time, and yesterday he was given a funeral befitting a minor gangster. Oberta is to be buried today.

"I want to go to the funeral of Oberta," Saltis informed Stege. "I picked him up as a newsboy and I made a man of him."

Stege wanted to know what Saltis knew about the murder and Saltis said Oberta had a lot of enemies and had been in trouble many times.

"I hear he has been hoisting beer trucks," Saltis volunteered. "If that's true it's his own funeral. But he was my friend and I brought my wife and kids back here for the ceremony. If you want to arrest me, do it after the funeral. If you don't arrest me I'll get out of town tomorrow and never give you any more bother."

Stege inquired where Saltis has been keeping himself.

Brags About His Farm.

"O, I've got a great farm up in Saltisville, Wis.," the gang chief bragged. "I'm out of the racket and not going back. I got mine all in one pile and I got $100,000 sunk in the place. I got a nine hole golf course and a clubhouse that sleeps 26 people. Any of you fellows [newspaper reporters] are welcome to come up whenever you like."

Stege asked how the place came to be named Saltisville and the beer lord said there were only 42 people in the township, and that 26 of the voters were working for him. At the next election, he said, he's going to hire five more voters and then with himself he'll have a majority vote and the right to name the town whatever he pleases.

Stege finally agreed to let Saltis attend the wake and the funeral.

Stege Hears Other Gangsters.

Within a short time the other "big shot" gangsters were arrested and their lawyer, Milton D. Smith, went to Stege's office to ask if a writ was necessary to have them released.

"Bring them in and we'll talk to them," Stege directed, and with Assistant State's Attorney Harry S. Ditchburne he interviewed Kaufman, Moran and Leo Mongoven, who is Moran's bodyguard and who was arrested with "Bugs." Kaufman was indignant.

"Can Drury and Howe [two policemen] arrest me every time they see me?" he demanded. Stege said he guessed they could. He said that the state's attorney and his spokesmen keep demanding that the "big shots" of gangdom be arrested.

Moran and Mongoven had no complaints. As one who saw all the other leaders of the old Dean O'Banion gang go to violent deaths leaving him chief of the gang Moran was philosophical about being arrested. Mongoven had been in trouble so often that he was used to it.

Moran Recites His Charities.

"But we are not doing anything wrong," Moran protested mildly. "You'd be surprised how much money I'm paying out to fellows that are broke and it's only me that keeps them out of trouble. I put up a trust fund for the father of the Gusenbergs [the two brothers who were killed in the Valentine day massacre with five other Moran gangsters]."

"Why don't you put all your hoods to work in that big cleaning plant of yours up north?" Stege inquired, and Moran replied that he had done so for many of "the boys."

"But if it's orders, well, I guess we better stay out of the loop," he agreed.

"There's got to be a stop to this so far as I'm concerned," Kaufman asserted. "I'm no ex-convict or bootlegger. My father left me my money. My kids are getting so big now that I don't want them to be always hearing that their father was picked up as a suspect in this or that."

Deputy Chief Egan came in then to inform Stege that "Big Dave" Earsman, notorious safe blower, terrorist, and gangster, had just died a natural death in the Jackson Park hospital.

"Well," ejaculated Stege, who forthwith called the coroner's office to make certain there were no bullets concealed in Earsman's body.

William Marks, 31 years old, 3721 Flournoy street, a Moran gangster, was arrested last night with three companions, also well known to the police, after a long chase over west side streets, during which three shots were fired. The others were William Francis, 27 years old, 706 Buckingham place; Walter Lutz, 27 years old, 918 North Wells street, and George Bertichini, 28 years old, 119 West Ontario street.

THRONGS AT OBERTA BIER

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

After its own fashion, his own world took leave last night of John Oberta, whose career as a hoodlum was ended by an assassin's gun last Wednesday. Men, women and children who had known him in his own district, "back o' the yards," massed themselves four deep for half a block down the street from the doorway of 5544 South Richmond street, where he lay in his massive coffin of silvered bronze—an indication of the throngs expected to attend the funeral services at 9:30 o'clock this morning at the home. The last rites of the Roman Catholic church have been denied for the slain gangster. Burial will be at Holy Sepulchre cemetery.

Each hour brought more scores to swell the line that has been a fixture in the block most of the time he has lain in the small bungalow.

Mother Delays Funeral.

Oberta's funeral was delayed until this morning because of the unwillingness of his mother to part with the body of the son she idelized.

Elaborate floral displays are not new to Chicago gangland funerals, but nothing to date equals the lavishness of the momentoes that fill all the available space about "Johnnie" Oberta, experts on gang funerals declared last night. One piece that will cover the casket when it is borne to the cemetery this morning eclipses every other. It is a blanket of orchids.

Pink roses are worked in with the lavender of the orchids in the piece that hung last night on the wall at the foot of the bier. In the center is a cluster of Easter lilies. The piece is the last tribute of Oberta's widow, the former Mrs. Tim Murphy.

"Close the door," was a quick order given last evening, and the steady stream of callers was halted as the house was cleared. A heavy, black haired man strode in through the kitchen door, his heavy overcoat unbuttoned, hat in hand. With a companion he stepped to the casket and stood in silence for a few minutes. Joe Saltis, who shaped the destinies of Oberta, stood there with the candlelight flickering on his face.

NAVY PARITY WITH BRITAIN TO COST U. S. 750 MILLION

London Pounds at France to Reduce Figures.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 10.—While Secretary of State Stimson, Prime Minister MacDonald, and Foreign Minister Briand continued their dickering over a political clause to be incorporated in the naval limitation treaty being negotiated here the French and British experts, with American observers in attendance, began today to bend their efforts toward a compromise between the British and French tonnage demands.

A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, represented Great Britain, Jaques-Louis Dumesnil, new minister of marine, represented France, while Ambassador Dwight Morrow, J. Theodore Marriner, and Commander Harold C. Train did the observing for the United States. America is being represented at these meetings by observers only, for the reason that the question at issue concerns Great Britain and France primarily, and the United States only indirectly.

Britain Fights French Figure.

France is demanding 725,000 tons of ships by 1936, an increase of about 250,000 tons over what she now possesses. The British contend that unless France comes down to 600,000 tons Great Britain will be compelled to exceed the Rapidan agreement, restricting her to fifteen 8 inch gun cruisers and 339,000 tons in all cruisers. Then America will have to go up on its cruiser allotment to attain parity with Great Britain. These negotiations will be continued tomorrow.

Even if it proves possible to keep the tonnage levels down to the point contemplated by the Anglo-American understanding, it is going to cost America $750,000,000 for a navy building program designed to achieve even that approach to parity represented in Mr. Stimson's proposals.

U. S. Admits Inferiority.

Mr. Stimson's secret proposal that America be allowed to build one battleship equivalent to Great Britain's Rodney was an admission of the inferiority of the American to the British capital ship fleet. Under the Stimson plan, Great Britain would scrap five battleships and build none, while America would scrap four and build one. Then each would have fifteen of approximately equal strength.

If Mr. Stimson succeeds in gaining battleship parity it will mean the building by the United States in the next five years of a 35,000 ton ship of the Rodney class, costing $40,000,000. America now has 200,000 tons of cruisers built or in the process of building. The Stimson proposals call for 127,000 tons more to build, which will cost about $200,000,000.

Short in Aircraft Carriers.

America now is 45,000 tons short of the limitation of 135,000 tons in aircraft carriers which was imposed by the Washington conference treaty. To build that tonnage will cost $60,000,000. Nearly all of America's destroyers will be obsolete in 1934. To replace 150,000 tons, which is the limitation Mr. Stimson proposes, it will be necessary to build at least 50,000 tons before 1935, at a cost of $150,000,000.

The building of this $750,000,000 navy will be necessitated by the failure of America to build gradually since the Washington conference, as the other powers have done. Great Britain has her navy built and refuses to scrap any of it except battleships which were to be scrapped under the Washington treaty anyway.

Saves Money on Battleships.

The whole Stimson program boils down to saving money on battleships and spending money on auxiliaries. But for the extension of the battleship building holiday for five years, which all the powers have agreed upon, American warship construction to gain parity with Great Britain would cost well over one billion dollars.

The postponement of replacement of the eight battleships to be laid down under the Washington treaty before 1935 will save America $320,000,000.

Italy Sees Naval Conference Flivvering; Boosts Estimates

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, March 10.—Italian disbelief that the London conference will result in any naval armament reduction, or any change in the present status of naval competition, was given concrete expression today in a report to the senate by Senator Mayer of the finance committee.

Senator Mayer's report proposes the conversion into state law of the decrees enacted last October authorizing an increase of $10,000,000 in naval construction charges in the budget estimates for the next two fiscal years, 1930 and 1931.

This means that Italy plans to spend $20,000,000 more on naval construction during the next two years than was originally foreseen. The senate will take up Senator Mayer's report tomorrow, and it is sure of authorization.

Two 10,000 Ton Cruisers.

It is explained that the new $20,000,000 credit is for completion of the new building program authorized in January, 1929, consisting of two new 10,000 ton cruisers, two Condottiere type cruisers of 5,000 tons, four destroyers and five submarines.

Senator Mayer's report says that Italy had hoped that her point of view, as outlined at the London conference, of a willingness to coöperate in a general armament reduction would have received complete acceptance, but that since the other countries are not effectively reducing their armaments Italy also must watch out for its vital interests in the Mediteranean.

At the time the new Italian program of thirteen ships was authorized a year ago, it was explained that this step was necessary to keep pace with France in the Mediterranean armament race. Italy's admirals contended that these new ships were necessary, unless Italy wished to surrender its Mediterranean communications to the control of other powers. The Italian program, which means Italy will spend $100,000,000 on its navy within four years, followed the announcement of new French constructions.

Italy Also Demands Security.

Any five power political accord into which France wants to draw the United States and Great Britain to give equal guarantees for Italian security, and the Italian delegation will make its agreement to such an accord conditional on this, it was learned today. The Italians interpret the repeated French demands for security guarantees as voicing French suspicions against Italy.

At the same time the deepest skepticism is growing over the political accord trend the London conference has taken. This is openly designated here as clever French diplomacy seeking to maneuver the United States out of her isolationist policy into active participation in European affairs.

N. Y. POLICE ACT TO DRIVE EVERY RED OUT OF JOB

New York, March 10.—[Special.]—Police Commissioner Whalen today struck his first blow in his plan to drive all active Communists from their jobs in shops, factories and commercial establishments. He supplied twelve heads of industrial corporations, who called on him at police headquarters, with a proscription list of 300 names of Communists who have been operating in their places of employment as organizers, agitators and propagandists.

While Commissioner Whalen was thus carrying out his threat of the day before, William Z. Foster and all four of his lieutenants accused of provoking the Union square riot on March 6 again were in jail, arrested on felony charges, after they had obtained their release on bail.

He will be one of a contingent of federal prisoners.

HEAR U. S. BOWS TO JAPAN ON BIG CRUISER RATIO

Would Pledge Not to Build More than 15.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 10.—Senator David A. Reed was reported tonight to have agreed with Tsuneo Matsudaira on Japan's demand that America limit itself to fifteen 10,000 ton cruisers while Japan retains twelve, under the treaty which the five power naval conference is expected to adopt. The actual agreement is that America is to have the right in the five power treaty to build eighteen cruisers, but will exchange notes with Japan pledging itself only to build fifteen within a certain time. The text of this agreement was under consideration when Senator Reed and M. Matsudaira met this afternoon.

Secretary of State Stimson in a conversation with Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, was reported to have told the wily old Frenchman that he personally was for France's demand for a mutual security pact which would obligate the United States to fight in wars of France's making, but could not say so publicly yet because of opposition in the United States senate. He promised M. Briand, however, to do all in his power to induce the British to agree.

Britain Answers "No!"

The answer to this proposal was seen in Mr. Macdonald's broadcast to the United States last night in which he declared that the British would not agree to any entangling military alliances. The speech was made after a series of three cornered conversations between America, Great Britain, and France had been concluded and M. Briand had made his demand specifically and definitely.

The immediate result of Mr. Macdonald's firmness was seen today when M. Briand changed his ground and told Mr. Macdonald privately that he had lost hope of a military defense act and would be content if America and Great Britain agreed to a treaty promising to withhold help from an aggressor. Mr. MacDonald was noncommittal on this on the ground that it would be hard to decide who was the aggressor and what constituted help.

As a matter of fact, it opens again the old question of freedom of the seas. Is America going to allow the league of nations or some combination of foreign powers to decide from whom it is to withhold help, and if so, what is contraband, observers asked. Mr. Stimson, however, it is stated, when M. Briand put the new plan before him welcomed it and promised his support.

Another evidence that M. Briand is changing his ground was seen when the American, British, and French delegation met today at St. James' palace. It is understood that this meeting was called to consider "political questions," which meant M. Briand's demand for a security pact. Instead, it was switched immediately to consideration of figures, tonnage, and the numbers of ships in the various categories. After a general discussion it was decided that these technical questions must be threshed out by a committee of experts.

A formal meeting of the heads of the delegations called for 3 o'clock this afternoon was postponed until 5:30 p. m. tomorrow.

See French Bluff Failing.

The action of the three power meeting in reverting to figures this morning was taken everywhere as an indication of the failure of the French bluff. Just what the French intend to do about it is not clear. In circles close to the French, it is stated that M. Briand may retire from the conference and return to Paris, leaving expert watchers.

If this happens, the suggestion is made that the four powers may continue to frame a pact, assuming that France will never carry out its bluff to build 700,000 tons of warcraft. No one believes the French parliament would ever appropriate money for this huge navy.

FRENCH PRESS RAPS 'UNEDUCATED MASSES' OF THE MIDDLE WEST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 10.—A Frenchman who has had his finger in every important diplomatic pie in Europe for almost 20 years and is yet almost unknown to the world at large will show up at the naval conference in London tomorrow. He is Philippe Berthelot, general secretary of Quai d'Orsay. He wrote Serbia's historic reply to the Austro-Hungarian ultimatum in 1914, the Locarno pact, and a dozen other documents that have shaped the modern world. He is going over to be on hand in case Foreign Minister Briand does succeed in wrangling things so that some sort of a draft for a security pact will be brought up for discussion.

Scornful attacks by the French press on Prime Minister MacDonald's radio speech to America are mostly centered on the prime minister's expressed abhorrence of "military" entanglements. Mr. MacDonald is assailed for talking the way he did when the "American elite" were coming to realize that participation in European affairs is inevitable.

Gueste Gavain, in a bitter editorial, says: "Any encouragement for the navy department at Washington and any flattery for the uneducated masses of the middle west will inevitably work against the policy of world peace. The exaltation of tendencies to megalomania of the American masses would be funereal both to America and Europe. The economic crisis in America now shows the troubles that are bound to result from unilateral methods. The same is true in politics."

Couple Married 43 Years Decide Against Divorce

Charles Brod, 71 years old, a cobbler, 3152 West 13th street, and his wife, Mrs. Bessie Brod, 66 years old, yesterday appeared before Superior Judge Lewis to ask dismissal of his suit for divorce and her cross bill for separate maintenance. They declared that after 43 years of married life a divorce would be too much of an experiment. The Brods were married in 1896 in Russia.

PROMISES FAIL, ASK COURT FOR CITY HALL ROLLS

Prosecutors Act Today in Fraud Inquiry.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Henry Mason, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell; Marty Lawless, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; Dewitt Brent, larceny sentenced to 1 to 20 years in Pontiac reformatory by Judge D. J. Normoyle. William Richard, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Harry B. Miller.

William Patullo, murder, committed to the Chester asylum for the criminal insane by Judge John J. Sullivan.

The state's attorney's office, dissatisfied with the degree of coöperation given by First Assistant Corporation Counsel James W. Breen in accordance with his promise in court last week, will ask Chief Justice D. J. Normoyle of the Criminal court this morning to issue a subpoena duces tecum for the records of the office of Commissioner of Public Works Richard Wolfe. This plan was decided on last night, it was reported, by the three assistant prosecutors in charge of the inquiry which is to take in every city hall department.

Assistant State's Attorneys Homer Dodge and Grenville Beardsley went to Wolfe's office yesterday to demand a showdown on the records. They refused to issue a statement after the conference, but it became known that they are not satisfied that the city hall officials are really trying to cooperate as had been promised Judge Normoyle last week when the request was made for the subpoena.

Get Only Promises.

At that time the hearing on the subpoena was continued until today. Attorney Breen said then that he would voluntarily turn over any records and that if any crime was committed he was as anxious as any one else to know about it. Since then the assistant prosecutors have had nothing but promises, no pay rolls or photostatic copies.

The one point which decided the prosecutors that they would forget about the city hall promises and conduct their investigation the same as any other inquiry was the demand by Breen that he be allowed to be present when any city employé was questioned. He was told, it is reported, that such a request was preposterous and that if necessary the employés wanted as witnesses would be haled before the grand jury where no lawyer could be present.

Garage Records Revealed.

Assistant State's Attorney Harold Keele, who has been devoting his time to the angle involving the murder of Thomas Coughlin, 65 year old watchman, at Patterson's garage, 1309 Harrison street, was as much puzzled yesterday as he was when he started the inquiry on Saturday night.

The two murderers had announced themselves in search of records, not money or valuables. Patterson worked for the department of public works by hiring out trucks to the vehicle tax repair division. The only records he had in his place were those showing that he had received his money for the work rendered the city. He gladly showed all his records to the prosecutor, who could find no clew as to any reason why gunmen should want them.

Names Neighbor as Pants Thief; It Costs Him $500

On July 14, 1928, George Raven of 9121 St. Lawrence avenue lost his trousers. The loss cost him $500 yesterday, when a jury in Superior Judge Oscar Hebel's court returned a verdict for George's sueing neighbor, Charles Schroeder. The latter testified that Raven had accused him of stealing the pants, the pockets of which contained a sum of money, and of offering as proof the fact that Schroeder had paid his garage rent the day after the pants vanished. Schroeder had asked $25,000 for damage to his reputation.

EX-CONVICT KILLS 2 BOYS AND SELF WITH STOLEN CAR

Auto Overturns as It Hits Pair.

Elkhart, Ind., March 10.—[Special.]—An ex-convict, riding in a stolen automobile, was killed near here tonight when the car rolled over three times after striking and killing two boys who were playing in the road.

The accident occurred on U. S. route 20, just west of the city limits, when Paul Hendershot, 15, and Ivan Swan, 7, stepbrothers, darted into the path of the car, driven by John Thompson, 25, of Edgerton, O. Thompson turned the car in an effort to avoid striking the lads but hit them both, killing them instantly. As the machine swerved at a high rate of speed it rolled over into a ditch beside the road, flinging Thompson nearly 100 feet. He was dead when witnesses reached him.

The car in which Thompson was riding had been stolen earlier in the evening from in front of the automobile agency of Z. F. Bowerman in Mishawaka. Thompson's brother, Dean, of Elkhart, said his brother had served five years in an Ohio penitentiary for burglary.

The automobile was demolished and the three men were dragged 150 feet in the wreckage.

COUNTY TOLL MOUNTS.

Harry Zwister, 53 years old, 10058 Lafayette avenue, an insurance salesman, was killed instantly when he drove his automobile into the path of a west bound Michigan Central passenger train at 125th street and Cottage Grove avenue. His machine was dragged 100 feet and demolished by the train. It is believed that Zwister was unable to see the train because of a turn in Cottage Grove avenue in the approach to the tracks.

Zwister's death and one other raised the 1930 Cook county motor toll to 174. The other victim:

Daniel Roderich, 12 years old, 1334 West Van Buren street. Crushed to death by a truck backing into a garage at 1314 Studio place. The boy stepped between the door of the garage and a large boiler, and was pinned when the truck backed against the boiler. The driver, Morris Annenberg, 1309 Shakespeare avenue, was not held.

TWO DIE AT DE KALB

De Kalb, Ill., March 10.—[Special.]—Wilford Reed, 40 years old, and George Ireland, 35, were killed, and James Holderness, candidate for alderman in the 5th ward of De Kalb, was injured, perhaps fatally, here tonight when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by the Los Angeles limited of the Chicago and North Western railroad. The three men, all employés of the American Steel and Wire company here, were returning to their homes from a bowling match when the car drove onto the tracks at the 6th street crossing.

QUIZ SUSPECT ON SLAYING OF MRS. LAVANDER

Two Identify Prisoner as Prowler Near Scene.

A middle aged ex-convict, arrested Sunday morning for pilfering in a cloakroom of St. Hilary's Catholic church, was under suspicion last night in connection with the murder of Mrs. Agnes Lavander.

Two witnesses have identified him as the furtive man with the clawed cheek, whom they saw lurking in the vicinity of the Forest Glen station of the St. Paul railroad, where Mrs. Lavander was shot to death as she awaited an evening train on Feb. 17.

The suspect is Harry Fisher, 46 years old, father of three children. His home at 4956 North Harding avenue is approximately a mile and a half southeast of the Forest Glen station. He told police he was a house painter, unemployed since last November.

Has Prison Record.

Fisher's record shows he served a penitentiary term at Jackson, Mich., in 1912 for robbery, a term of six months in the Bridewell for indecent exposure in 1921, and a term of one year for the same offense in 1923.

A nun of the teaching staff at St. Hilary's school brought about Fisher's arrest. The nun was in the sacristy of the church, at Bryn Mawr and California avenues, when Fisher entered. She notified Summerdale police and Patrolman Adoph Meyer and John Steffen seized Fisher as he left the sacristy with the coat of the Rev. Thomas J. Burke, pastor of the church, who was celebrating mass at the time.

Fisher was paraded at the detective bureau showup Sunday afternoon. No one identified him, but Deputy Police Commissioner Stege remarked his resemblance to the only suspect who had been definitely described in the Lavander murder.

Recognized as Prowler.

Miss Ruth Finnern, 5078 Balmoral avenue, daughter of the Rev. George W. Finnern, pastor of the Immanuel Pentecostal church, identified him as the man she saw lurking under the Forest Glen railway viaduct at 7:15 p. m. on Feb. 17. Mrs. Lavander had been last seen alive about that time.

Harry N. Appotz, agent at the Jefferson Park station of the Chicago and North Western railway a mile west of the Forest Glen station, identified him as the agitated man who, 24 hours after the murder, appeared at the station and demanded information concerning west bound trains.

The clothing Fisher wore last night was identical with that of the man with the scratched face, Appotz said, with the exception that in the first instance the man wore a cap. Fisher denied ever owning a cap. Mrs. Fisher declared her husband formerly wore a cap, but had discarded it.

HOWARD COLE'S FIFTH WIFE GETS DIVORCE IN RENO

Mrs. Faith Baird Cole, fifth wife of Howard G. Cole, a former Chicagoan, was granted a divorce on grounds of cruelty and awarded a settlement of $250,000 yesterday at Reno, Nev., according to a dispatch. Mrs. Cole, the former wife of William Gardner, millionaire of Waco, Tex., was married to Cole at Long Island, N. Y., in 1923, and now lives in Brooklyn.

Cole, who amassed a fortune 30 years ago by deals in southern timberlands, took as his first wife Hattie Dunwody, who divorced him in 1909 for infidelity. Although the decree forbade him to remarry before two years elapsed, Cole, within two months of the divorce, married Mrs. Jarvis Hunt, divorced wife of a Chicago architect, a society leader and horsewoman.

The second Mrs. Cole died in August, 1917, at the $200,000 estate at Madison, N. J., which Cole had given her as a bridal gift.

FIRE AND PANIC KILL 105 AT WAR MOVIE IN COREA

Small Children Die as Film Ignites.

SEOUL, Corea, March 10.—(AP)—Fire and panic killed 105 persons at the Chinkai naval base in southern Corea today during a celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the capture by Japan of Mukden, Manchuria, in the Russo-Japanese war. Only two adults lost their lives, the 103 others being children of primary school age or under.

Ignition of a motion picture film, reproducing scenes of the war of a quarter century ago, which was being displayed before an audience of about six hundred in a warehouse at the base, started the fire and resultant panic. Most of those who died were trapped in the blazing building. More than a hundred of those who escaped were injured.

Blaze Lasts Two Hours.

Naval fire fighters prevented spread of the flames to a near by ammunition dump. The fire lasted from 3 to 5 p. m. The warehouse was totally destroyed. There was only one exit, and it was small, and it soon became choked with bodies of those seeking to escape.

Those gathered in the big warehouse for the patriotic exercises were virtually all Japanese naval officers and men and their wives and children.

This was "army day" in the series of quarter century celebrations of events in the Japanese-Russian conflict, and was so observed throughout the Japanese empire. "Navy day" will be celebrated May 27, the anniversary of Admiral Togo's destruction in the Sea of Japan of the powerful Russian Baltic fleet.

Overlooks Scene of Battle.

TESTS FOR INTELLIGENT PEOPLE—A SERIES

How can a chair attain a value of $8500?

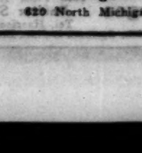
WHEN a chair is so distinguished in craftsmanship and so graceful in proportion that it wins the admiration of generation after generation of connoisseurs, its value continually increases. The Gillingham chair, for which Danersk paid $8500 at the sale of the Reifsnyder collection, is typical.

Danersk craftsmen, in re-creating this chair, have faithfully followed each minute detail of the Gillingham piece, and have captured the same rare beauty which gives ever-increasing value to the original.

Would you like to see what an $8500 chair looks like? Pictured below is its exact counterpart, the Danersk Gillingham chair—and the pleasure of owning the Danersk piece calls for only a very moderate expenditure.

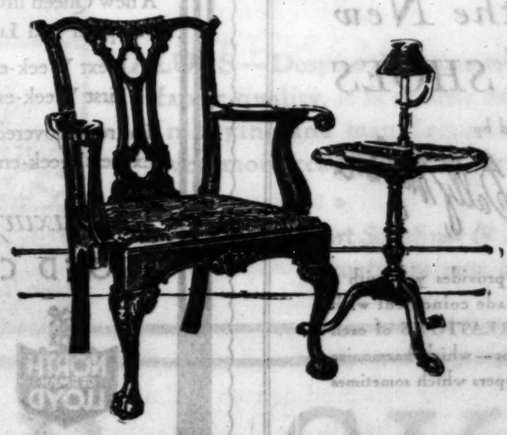
Who was the "American Chippendale"?



James Gillingham, born in England more than one hundred and fifty years ago, later a resident of Philadelphia, was not only the foremost American chair-maker of his time, but also America's leading exponent of the Chippendale style. The unusual beauty of proportion and subtle refinement of carving, characteristic of his chairs, are faithfully preserved by the Danersk Scotch and English craftsmen.

How can you recognize hand work in chair carving?

The back, arms, legs, and other sections of an ordinary chair are carved separately — before they are assembled; this means that the carving of each section must end abruptly at the joint. A truly fine chair, such as the Danersk Gillingham pictured below, is carved after the chair has been assembled, thus permitting the carving to flow over the joints in a continuous, uninterrupted and beautiful design.



Together with hundreds of other Danersk pieces for every room of the house, the Danersk Gillingham chair now stands in our showrooms. Come in and see it; not only will you be pleased with its pedigreed beauty, but pleasantly surprised at the moderateness of its price.

O'BRIEN WIDOW GIVES $3,500 TO AID DORR APPEAL

Puts Her Insurance Into Defense Fund.

Genevieve O'Brien, who was acquitted of killing her husband, William J. O'Brien, has not entirely deserted Howard Dorr, Mrs. O'Brien's former sweetheart, who now is under a life sentence for the death of O'Brien. During the trial of Dorr, Mrs. O'Brien refused to take the stand in his behalf.

A sum of $3,500, the remainder of the $5,000 in insurance which she collected for O'Brien's death, following her acquittal, has been turned over by Mrs. O'Brien to a defense fund for Dorr to enable him to appeal his case to the Supreme court.

Tries to Visit Jail.

Moreover, Genevieve, dressed so as to conceal her face as much as possible, recently tried to enter the county jail, where Dorr is held. She told jail authorities she was a newspaper reporter, but was detected and denied admission under the rule that a person confined in the jail cannot reenter it within 120 days after his or her release.

Dorr probably will be taken to the penitentiary this morning to start serving his life sentence. Judge Harry B. Miller of the Criminal court yesterday refused to grant an additional stay of mittimus to the slayer.

Jail officials declare they will be glad to be rid of Dorr, whom they call a trouble maker. He was in solitary confinement for joining in a recent jail breaking plot.

Harper W. Moulton, a fellow insurance worker of Dorr's, was questioned March 1 by Chief of Detectives John Stege. It was learned yesterday, concerning a form letter he sent to 2,000 insurance men in Chicago appealing for funds to aid Dorr in his attempt to appeal his case. After the questioning Moulton agreed to return $100 he had collected, Chief Stege said.

Form Defense Committee.

The letters were headed "The Dorr Defense Committee," with offices in Room A-1526, Insurance Exchange building, and signed by Moulton. They pointed out that Genevieve O'Brien is free, while Dorr was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment, and claimed that he was innocent of the murder.

Dorr recently consulted with Sam A. Hoffman, who defended Genevieve in her trial, in an effort to engage him as counsel to appeal his case, but Hoffman declined to do so on the grounds that it would be unethical, he said.

Mrs. O'Brien is expecting the birth of a child this month.

Drive on Autoists Lacking '30 License Opens Monday

A drive on motorists who have not obtained their 1930 state and city automobile licenses will begin next Monday, Commissioner of Police Russell announced yesterday. According to figures given to the commissioner yesterday there are 146,000 passenger automobiles and 20,000 trucks for which 1930 city licenses have not been obtained.

ASSESSORS DODGE TASK OF TRIMMING WASTE OFF PAY ROLL

For the second time in three days the board of assessors yesterday delayed pruning needless employés from its staff. After a three hour conference was concluded without mentioning the reduction, J. L. Jacobs, county efficiency expert, assailed the board for failure to sacrifice political patronage in the face of the county's financial difficulties.

The reduction was demanded by the Strawn citizens' committee after Jacobs submitted a report declaring that the assessors' office is loaded with dead timber as the reassessment is nearing completion. The committee asked the assessors to make drastic cuts, threatening to refuse to approve pay rolls unless the board acted immediately.

The assessors met Saturday and cut 144 out of 253 employés from the staff of Harry S. Cutmore, director of the reassessment, but left their own job holders intact.

"The inaction of the assessors is not strange in the light of the repeated refusal to economize in the past," Jacobs said. "They have 102 regular employés on their pay roll, none of whom had anything to do with the reassessment. In the quadrennial year of 1927 the staff had only 87 employés on the regular rolls. The office is loaded with incompetent and inefficient help. A cut of 50 per cent would not impair its efficiency."

Packing Firm Head Rescues Engineer, Auto Gas Victim

Einar Nielson, 29 years old, an electrical engineer of 5834 Harper avenue, was overcome by carbon monoxide gas last evening while repairing his car in a garage in the rear of 5837 Blackstone avenue. He was found, unconscious, by John T. Agar, millionaire president of the Agar Provision company, packers in the Union stockyards, from whom he had rented the garage. Agar summoned Police Sergeant Edward Barry and his squad, who were passing. Nielson was taken to the Illinois Central hospital and revived by an inhalator squad.

MILLIONS WASTE SHOWN IN UPKEEP OF CITY SCHOOLS

N. E. A. Proves Teachers Are Sacrificed.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

An indictment of the Chicago public school system is contained in a bulletin issued yesterday by the National Education association.

It shows that Chicago underpays for instruction and overpays for cleaning and operation of school houses. It declares that Chicago cheats the teachers out of money to give it to employés who operate the plant. Some of the cash taken from the teachers is slipped to the bosses and subordinates, technically called "administration," according to the report.

Relief Paid to Schools.

The city school system is one of the beneficiaries of the Strawn committee's relief campaign in which citizens subscribed $75,000,000 to tide local government bodies over their financial crisis. The committee has already turned over $4,750,000 to the public schools and stands ready to supply $4,400,000 more for current pay rolls. The relief funds have been turned over to the schools, as well as to other local governments, without any trimming of pay rolls.

The Education association's bulletin contains a tabulation of school costs for 1928-'29—the last completed school year—in 10 cities having more than 500,000 population.

Figuring the cost per pupil for instruction on the basis of the average daily attendance in full time day schools, there are only three of the 10 cities which spent less for instruction than Chicago. The average for the 10 cities was $97.69 while the cost in Chicago was $83.97, which puts Chicago 14 per cent below the average. If the teachers had obtained the average, their pay would have been $43,450,000 instead of $37,571,000—a loss of $5,879,000.

New York Comparison.

If New York City is considered the standard—as the city administration so frequently claims—then the teachers last year were denied $12,855,000. Their pay would have been $50,427,000 instead of $37,571,000. There were no curbs on the Chicago school board last year except those they placed upon themselves. They went to the legislature, asked what they desired, and obtained it.

In the ten cities—New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, St. Louis, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Baltimore, Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Chicago—were 2,502,699 pupils in average daily attendance. Of these, Chicago had 428,514, about 17 per cent of the average total.

Of the $252,358,920 paid out for instruction in those ten cities, Chicago contributed $37,571,743, or about 14.8 per cent.

Chicago Excess Shown.

When it came to "operation of plant"—a budgeting term referring to jobs—Chicago, with 17 per cent of the pupils, paid out 28.3 per cent of the total for the ten cities for operating its schoolhouses. To operate all of the schoolhouses in all of the cities there was expended $28,448,334. Of this Chicago spent $7,494,792. If it can be assumed that the average for the ten cities was sufficient, then Chicago wasted $2,622,000 on operation of plant. If New York is taken as the measure of efficiency, then Chicago overpaid $3,715,000 for plant operation.

New York with 947,534 pupils, spent $8,359,185 for operation of plant, while Chicago with 428,514 pupils spent $7,494,792 for the same purpose. On the Philadelphia basis of plant operation Chicago should have spent $5,522,468 instead of $7,494,792— a saving of $3,972,000.

Council Acts on Relief Today.

It was reported yesterday that President Caldwell has not asked the Strawn Citizens' committee for money with which to pay the teachers, whose pay roll was due last Friday. However, the Strawn committee assigned $4,400,000 to the schools to be financed by the city.

The council finance committee meets this afternoon to decide whether it will accept the Strawn committee aid tendered last Saturday on the condition that the city finance the school board. If committee action is favorable, the city council may give its approval tomorrow and another pay day should arrive Thursday. The $9,215,000 available is allotted as follows in comparison with the Strawn allotment of March 2:

	March. 2.	March 12.
Public schools	$ 4,750,000	$4,400,000
City corporate	4,500,000	3,890,000
County	2,750,000	675,000
Sanitary district	340,000	250,000
Totals	$12,340,000	$9,215,000

Accrued interest on the tax anticipation warrants bought by the Strawn committee will add about $1,005,000 more to the aggregate.

"The real bargain in bonds or building materials is the investment that has permanent worth" . . .

ROBERT O. LORD

ROBERT O. LORD
President, Guardian Detroit Bank
Detroit, Michigan

BUILDING a home is like building an estate. The important thing is the selection of lasting values. When the careful buyer makes an investment, he looks to the future as well as the present. That is why many such bankers as Mr. Lord advise you to build your home to last—with Copper, Brass and Bronze.

Brass or Copper Pipe, Copper flashings, gutters and downspouts and solid Brass or Bronze hardware and lighting fixtures are permanent. They cannot rust. They give excellent service without repair or replacement for the life of the house.

Although these rust-proof materials cost a trifle more in the beginning, they invariably prove an economy in the long run. With them the first cost is the last.

The Building Service Department of the COPPER & BRASS RESEARCH ASSOCIATION, 25 Broadway, New York, will be glad to advise you without charge about the uses and proper application of these metals.

WOMEN CLASH AS 5 ARE INDICTED FOR KIDNAPING

"Well, if she couldn't hold him, can I help it? If she didn't have the stuff in her to keep her husband, what is she squawking about?"

The lips of Mrs. Myrtle Thoren, 26 years old, alias Mrs. Myrtle Gorman, alias Mrs. Myrtle C. Gorman-Resnick, curled, and her pretty profile with its border of blond hair was slightly marred as she made that comment.

Mrs. Gorman posed as Mrs. Norman Resnick when she was arrested Sunday night with Norman Resnick and other members of a band of alleged kidnapers. A true bill for conspiracy to kidnap yesterday was voted against her by the grand jury.

Five Reported Indicted.

Resnick and four other men, all under 30 years old, were reported charged with kidnaping for ransom and with conspiracy to kidnap in true bills voted yesterday. The kidnaping victim, who was threatened with red hot pokers in order to obtain a $5,000 ransom, was Mrs. Gorman's former husband, Theodore Kopelman, insurance broker of 548 Surf street.

Her philosophy concerning the question of "holding" husbands was brought forth when she alluded to Mrs. Helyn Conner Resnick, 21 year old wife of Resnick and a clerk in an insurance office.

Mrs. Resnick, a small, red haired girl, presented herself at the office of Chief Investigator Patrick Roche yesterday in order to tell what she knew of Mrs. Gorman, who, she charges, lured her 22 year old husband away from her and caused his present trouble. Mrs. Gorman posed as the widow of Pete Gusenberg after he was slain in the St. Valentine's day massacre last year.

Two Women Face Each Other.

The two women faced each other last night in a dramatic meeting in Roche's office.

Helyn Resnick was seated in the office when a detective brought Mrs. Gorman in. Expensively dressed in clothes of the latest fashion she entered with her fur collar hiding her face, but lowered it when Helyn cried:

"You should hide your face, even if it is beautiful! You should be ashamed of yourself—a woman of your age, roping in young boys! O, you have made me suffer enough!"

"Did you ever see this woman before?" Mr. Roche asked Mrs. Gorman.

"Yes," she said sullenly after a long silence. "Once."

"Where?"

"Didn't Know" of Marriage.

"She came up to my apartment to complain about my taking Norman away from her," she said scornfully. "But how did I know she was his wife?"

She received a letter from Mrs. Resnick later saying that she was only his sister, she said. Helyn had explained to Mr. Roche that she wrote the letter the afternoon of her visit to the Gorman woman, after her husband twisted her arms and struck her and compelled her to sign what he dictated.

"You didn't believe that letter; you lie when you say you do, and his mother called you three weeks ago and pleaded with you to let him go, to come back to his wife," Helyn told the woman.

Helyn later described her first meeting with Myrtle. Her husband had left her the night before after telling her "I'm a bum now, and don't want you to be implicated." She related that Mrs. Gorman told her she was a fool for caring for a man who had left her.

"'My dear,' she said, 'that boy of yours is madly in love with me. It amuses me. I'm tired of old men who shower money on me. He's young and clever and I can use him. It's too bad you don't know how to handle men.'

"When I told her if my pleadings would do no good, I would sue her for alienation of affections, she said, 'If you cross me, you'll find yourself at the side of the road in a ditch. I'm not looking for publicity and I won't have it.'"

Wants Husband Punished.

Mrs. Gorman owned a Packerd and a Cadillac in addition to the Cadillac coupe which Resnick bought for her with some of his recently earned "easy money." Mr. Roche said that he is convinced the same gang is responsible for some similar kidnaping crimes he has heard of which never were reported to authorities.

Helyn said, with tears in her eyes, that she hoped her husband would get a heavy penalty, and that if justice deserved it, the death penalty. "He said the last time I saw him that he didn't love her, he loved only me, but that he couldn't break away," she said. "He wouldn't take my warning, though. He loved money and she used to buy him expensive clothes. He has to learn his lesson some time."

Those named besides Resnick in the kidnaping for ransom true bills are Sam Gold, 1435 South Kedvale avenue; Irving Sandler, 2847 Washington boulevard; Charles [Chick] Hadesman, 3417 Roosevelt road and Seymour Pellar, 4248 West 14th street. The crime is punishable by death.

The same men were named with Mrs. Gorman in the conspiracy to kidnap indictment.

The arrests were made after Roche had been informed of the kidnaping by Attorney Walter Walker, representing the "secret six" of the Chicago Association of Commerce campaign against crime.

Kopelman has been given a strong police guard and other witnesses are being protected to secure what the state calls an "airtight case" against those indicted.

Morris' Wife Turns to U.S. Law to Foil French Code

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 10.—One of the laws of the state of Illinois which assure a wife's complete independence was invoked today in a tribunal of the Seine against Col. Nelson Morris of Chicago.

The French laws, as laid down by Napoleon and only slightly changed since, do not allow a wife such independence. That is why the Chicago millionaire happens to be suing the Palace theater for $7,820 damages for letting his wife, Jeanne Aubert, show her pretty legs on the stage there without his consent, and $195.50 for every day she continues to appear.

Cites Illinois Law.

When the case came up today Attorney Levy-Oulmann pleaded for the theater that as much as Jeanne Nelson, was the wife of a citizen of Illinois, the forward looking legislation of that state which allows a wife to choose her own career, sign contracts, and generally act like an independent being should be observed. He said, too, that any way the theater was acting in good faith when it engaged the ravishing star, whose famous song hit, "But You Should See My Aunt," is still hummed in France under her maiden name.

For Mr. Morris, Attorney Rosenmark argued that Jeanne is French, despite her marriage, and that so long as the couple live in France the French laws, which subject the slightest manifestation of a wife to the whims of her husband apply to them.

Contradicts Former Citation.

In other hearings where the family affairs of Jeanne Nelson came before the French courts, Attorney Rosenmark insisted that the dancer could not divorce his client in France because they were married in America.

Mrs. Nelson's lawyer, Paul Bonnour, failed to show up today, so the final arguments and judgment were postponed for a week. He is planning to counter with a demand for $3,910 damages from Mr. Morris for disturbing Jeanne's peace of mind and hampering her work.

MRS. McCORMICK MAKES ISSUE OF CHICAGO POLITICS

Opens County Drive with Blast at Alliances.

adding to the already great store of indictments.

"I do not believe that such a method can be justified. I believe that no system should be tolerated which permits those in control of a law enforcement office to pile up indictments against citizens, at the same time threatening them continually with the return of new indictments."

Mrs. McCormick read from a statement issued Dec. 20, 1929, by Frank J. Loesch. "In this he rebukes Senator Deneen for the senator's failure to stand against the alliance between corrupt politicians," she said, following with a series of quotations, among them one in which Mr. Loesch said: "I believe what I have said represents the disappointed feeling of our citizens in Senator Deneen's political trading proclivities."

Discusses Party Regularity.

After declaring that her candidacy is free of "all factional alliances or entanglements," Mrs. McCormick took up "party regularity versus bipartisan alliances."

"In his speeches downstate," she said, "my opponent has been emphasizing his party regularity.

"The senator's factional group won its fight for positions on the sanitary board in 1928 and soon afterward the senator, as a Cook county political leader, had made a 40-60 deal with Mr. Cermak, Democratic leader, whereby the Democrats and the Deneen Republicans were to share the patronage, the contract making power and the administration of that great tax collecting body. Do not such bipartisan alliances defeat the very object which the senator has described as so desirable. It divides between two parties the responsibility of good or bad conduct of the sanitary district. The senator said in his Greenup speech:

"'The only way to get majority rules is to fight it out between two parties and let one win. I don't believe in going in as Republican, then turning Democrat and then asking the Republicans to support me.'

Recalls Judicial Campaign.

"Is the senator referring there to Washington or to Cook county? In the judiciary campaign last September the people witnessed another political deal between Mr. Cermak and the senator. They agreed to have the sitting Republican and Democratic judges run on one ticket and they agreed that this ticket should be known as the Democratic ticket."

Taking up the death of "Diamond Joe" Esposito, Mrs. McCormick, after reading excerpts from a stenographic transcript, said: "My opponent, injecting 'Diamond Joe' into this primary, describes him as a martyr, who died in defense of law and order."

"Chicagoans," she continued, "have been regaled with many colorful descriptions of funerals of gangsters and my opponent for the senatorship has added to this picturesque literature a chapter on the regal homage paid to 'Diamond Joe' at his funeral. As he told it, it was a good story, and I am confident he will stick to it.

"But in the files of the judiciary committee of the United States senate is a document which tells an entirely different story of the life and death of Esposito. This document was placed in the hands of Senator George W. Norris, chairman of that committee, by the Vice President of the United States, who had received it from the head of the Immigrant Legal Aid society, an Italian organization. The society asked for an investigation of the association between Senator Deneen and Diamond Joe and described Esposito as 'one of the worst criminals who preyed on our community to the day of his death.'

Tells of Esposito Record.

"The document sets out that immigrants, upon establishing their new homes in America, are influenced by environment and association, and that when they observe that friendly relations continue between lawbreakers and public officers they are liable to acquire a contempt for the law. This senate document relates that Diamond Joe shot and killed a fellow Italian while his victim was sitting helpless in a barber chair. It is related that Diamond Joe ran away, but later returned to the city and the murder case against him was nolle prossed. It related also that Diamond Joe's west side café was padlocked after he had been denounced by Judge Carpenter of the federal bench.

"On the afternoon of March 21, 1928, Diamond Joe was shot to death on the street near his home. Five days later the homes of Senator Deneen and Judge John A. Swanson were damaged by bombs. Nobody has been brought to trial for any of these three crimes. When the chief of detectives, Michael Grady, had investigated the Diamond Joe murder he said, 'No question about it. It is the booze game, and Joe has crossed somebody.'

OFFICIALS LEAVE TO ATTEND FINAL DIVERSION HEARING

Headed by Col. Robert I. Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, a party of engineers and lawyers left yesterday for Washington where final hearings on the Chicago water diversion case will be held this week by the United States Supreme court. William R. Dawes, former president of the Business Men's association, and William P. Sidley and Cornelius Lynde, attorneys retained by the association to protect Chicago's interest in the long drawn out case, were also in the group. They will cooperate at Washington in the defense to be presented by counsel for the Sanitary district board.

1,000 PAY $100 EACH FOR SNOW G. O. P. BANQUET

Primary Fight Opens with Reassessment Attack.

Nearly one thousand adherents of the Snow-city hall primary ticket paid $100 each to attend a dinner last night in the Palmer house as a sendoff for the political campaign. The banquet was for the announced purpose of honoring the Republican county central committee's chairman, Bernard W. Snow. Mayor Thompson did not attend the banquet.

The principal speakers attributed the local governmental financial difficulties to the tax reassessment. Bipartisan deals also were blamed for "the degradation of party standing and the scandalous misuse of public funds."

The criticism of the reassessment was made chiefly by Chairman Snow and Ald. Oscar F. Nelson, the mayor's floor leader in the city council.

Blames Special Interests.

"Special interests are trying to control the parties," said Ald Nelson. "They don't come out into the open. They not only want to control politics but every activity of the local governments. They care nothing for the reputation of the city. Study the tax situation and you will find these same special interests at work."

The program started when Toastmaster Foster F. Nims, a past president of the Hamilton club, introduced the candidates amid loud applause. The speeches were interspersed with vaudeville acts. When Chairman Snow was finally introduced at the end of a long program the crowd of 1,000 had diminished.

"I know perfectly well that the standing of organized politics, Republican as well as Democratic, is low with the voters of Cook county," Mr. Snow said. "These bipartisan arrangements are at the bottom of the scandalous misuse of public funds in every governmental branch. The shameful record of the sanitary district is the full fruiting of bipartisanism.

Will Represent Voters.

"If the present Republican leadership is confirmed by the voters next April by the nomination of the candidates we recommend our organization will represent the great mass of voters as against the selfish purposes of any seekers of privilege.

"Under the cloak of reform, the reassessment of real estate in Cook county became a deliberate effort to shift a heavy burden of real estate taxation from the great income producing establishments of the loop to the shoulders of small property owners in outlying districts."

Of the $100 paid by each of the guests, most of whom were precinct workers and public employés, $3 went to pay the cost of the dinner and $97 to the campaign fund. Chairman Snow last week announced it was agreed no other method of raising money would be used.

WIFE AND $5,000 GONE, VETERAN TRIES SUICIDE

Deserted by his wife, whom he accused of taking a $5,000 check which he had received as disability compensation from the government, Fred Kennedy, 41 years old, a disabled war veteran, attempted to commit suicide last night by drinking poison in his flat at 18 South California avenue. Warren avenue police forced the door of the flat and found him lying on the floor, semi-conscious.

Kennedy told the police that he had been wounded in France, the bullet lodging near his spine, and had spent several months in the Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital. During the day, he said, he quarreled with his wife, Myrtle, and she left him. Later, he said, she returned with two men who represented themselves as policemen and forced him to sign a statement turning his compensation check over to her.

The police found no record of policemen having been sent to his home and were searching for Mrs. Kennedy. Kennedy was taken to the county hospital, where it was said his condition is serious.

Woman Acts as Own Cop; Captures Fleeing Motorist

When another motorist sped on after colliding with her car at Dorchester avenue and the Midway early this morning Mrs. Lillian A. Willoughby, 543 West 54th place, music supervisor of the public schools, gave chase in her damaged car, forced the other driver to the curb within a block, and detained him until police arrived. At Hyde Park station he identified himself as Edward Epperson, 38 years old, 6103 Greenwood avenue, and was booked for leaving an accident on a complaint signed by Mrs. Willoughby.

2 RACKETEERS GUILTY IN N. Y.

New York, March 10.—(AP)—Anthony Montforthe, wealthy head of the Plasterers' information bureau, and Michael McCloskey, delegate for the Wood Lathers' union, were convicted of extortion by a jury in Bronx County court tonight.

Their trial grew out of a grand jury investigation of racketeering in the building trades in the Bronx. The inquiry was begun after a series of fires, alleged to have been started by racketeers, destroyed uncompleted apartment buildings with losses estimated at $3,500,000.

The two men were charged with extorting $800 from Bernard Lyons, a Bronx plastering contractor. They face seven and one-half to sixteen years in prison.

SCIENCE OFFERS 'BLACK LIGHT' AS DRY AGENTS' AID

Power to Detect Bootleg Alcohol Claimed.

New York, March 10.—[Special.]—Detection of spurious jewelry, counterfeit currency, bootleg liquor, and other things which have been the source of fraud was shown to be possible tonight when Dr. Herman Goodman put such products under the new black ultra-violet ray.

Before the Society of Medical Jurisprudence in the New York Academy of Medicine Dr. Goodman demonstrated his machine for the radiation of the lightless but powerful detector, the commercial use of which is but one of those developing out of medical experimental work done on the new ray.

Developed for Skin Diseases.

The apparatus was first developed by Dr. Goorman for the detection of minute tissue diseases of the skin which are not visible even to microscopes. Its commercial use was discovered when Dr. Goodman became interested in the appearance of articles foreign to his calling under the ray of the machine.

Members of the society said that crimes of forgery, altering checks, adulterating alcohol, and the reading of invisible ink script which is sometimes smuggled into prisons would be clearly exposed under the rays of the machine. Many of the possibilities were demonstrated before the audience.

Exposes Poisons.

Perhaps one of the greatest uses of the machine will be the exposition of the indelible traces of poisons in some of the "recovered" industrial alcohols which are being sold as chemically pure to the public.

The "black magic light" of the machine is ultra-violet in character, it was explained, from which the visible rays are filtered through specially prepared glass. One of Dr. Goodman's demonstrations was dropping a speck of dust into one of two pitchers of pure water. Under ordinary light there was of course no difference in the appearance of the two pitchers. Under the ray, however, that with the tiny foreign particle in it, a fleck of a harmless matter prevalent in chestnuts turned a brilliant electrical blue color."

WATERWAY AID IN OFFING, SAYS SENATOR DENEEN

Present Congress May Act, He Believes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Moline, Ill., March 10.—The Illinois waterway has "excellent propects" of getting formal federal recognition and funds for its completion at this session of congress, so Senator Charles S. Deneen declared tonight at the 38th annual convention of the John Ericsson Republican League of Illinois.

Senator Deneen said that when the measures go through the federal government will have control of navigation from the great lakes, through the Chicago, Des Plaines, Illinois and Mississippi rivers to the Gulf of Mexico, and will maintain a channel of 9 feet minimum deep and 200 minimum width from the lakes to the gulf.

The senator held that the diversion suit brought by six lake states, now pending in the Supreme court involves the "greatest problem confronting the greatest number of people in our state at this time," but that congress has full power to prescribe for adequate diversion to make the waterway navigable.

Hopes to See Completion.

"It will be a matter of satisfaction and great pride to me," said the senator, "should I be able to witness the culmination of the plans which were originated during my first term as governor twenty-five years ago.

"Regardless of the outcome of the litigation over diversion from Lake Michigan, the congress has power to permit adequate diversion from Lake Michigan into the Mississippi river system. This will be opposed by the lake states and by the provinces of eastern Canada.

"All other issues must be subordinated to this, and the task requires united, persistent, intelligent teamwork in the congress by our entire delegation. I am anxious to do my part."

The Ericsson league is celebrating the anniversary of the battle between the Monitor and Merrimac in Hampton Roads, March 9, 1862, and 300 delegates and 200 visitors are in attendance, among them Representative Carl Chindblom and Lieut. Gov. Fred Sterling. The league today commended the Hoover administration and adopted resolutions that if the Democrats win either house of congress this year "industrial stagnation would ensue."

Senator Deneen outlined the history of the Illinois waterway project from 1905, when in his first term as governor he appointed a commission to investigate it.

"In 1907," he said, "I called the assembly in special session and recommended it submit an amendment to the state constitution authorizing the issuance of $20,000,000 in bonds to carry out the state project, at the general election in 1908. At that election the amendment was adopted by a vote of 675,898 to 193,296, a majority of 482,602, the largest majority ever recorded in favor of any proposition submitted to the voters of Illinois.

"Shortly after the passage of the constitutional amendment it was found that the Economy Light and Power company had begun the erection of a dam across the Des Plaines river 400 feet from the point where it joins the Kankakee river to form the Illinois river, with a view to the utilization of the water power there available.

Litigation Is Instituted.

"I directed the attorney general to take legal steps to remove obstructions from the Des Plaines and Illinois rivers. Litigation was instituted against the Economy Light and Power company, which was carried to the Supreme court of the state and later to the Supreme court of the United States. In the latter court the state's contentions were upheld. In this way, through this suit, the water power created in the Illinois river and the Des Plaines river by the taxation of the people was saved for the state.

"During the session of the 70th congress the delegation from Illinois agreed unanimously to ask that the federal government assume authority over navigation in the Illinois river from the Mississippi river, 228 miles north through our state to Utica, Ill., and to make an appropriation therefor for dredging the Illinois river to a uniform depth of nine feet from Utica to the Mississippi river. A paragraph to this effect was inserted in the rivers and harbors bill. When it came to the senate I was the only senator representing our state. I represented our state before the commerce committee of the senate and had entire charge of a contest that was made against us then by the lake states which had been trying by litigation in the federal courts to prevent any diversion of water from Lake Michigan through the Chicago, Des Plaines, and Illinois rivers to the Mississippi river.

Three States Objected.

"The states of Wisconsin, Michigan and Ohio made vigorous opposition to the project before the commerce committee of the senate. Later, after a favorable report by the commerce committee, I had charge of the bill in the senate when it came up for passage, and still later had charge of the appropriation for the work that was authorized. The federal government is spending more than $3,000,000 on the reaches of the river between Utica and the Mississippi river, and the work will be completed early in the spring of 1931.

"I am now a member of the commerce committee, and on the 20th day of November last, on my initiative, the chairman of the committee requested the corps of army engineers and the secretary of war to make a report for a project for completing the Illinois waterway from Utica to Lockport, at the southern terminus of the sanitary district canal, and for a survey from the latter point to the mouth of the Chicago river, and also its west branch and of the Sag channel running from Lemont northeasterly into the Calumet river and through the Calumet river to Lake Michigan at South Chicago.

"The report is expected at an early date, and it is also expected that the project will be authorized at this session of the congress."

Hanson Elected President.

Harry W. Hanson of Princeton, Ill., was elected president of the Ericsson league; Hjalmar Rehn of Joliet, vice president; J. Arthur Friedlund of Chicago, secretary; Herbert N. Bloomquist of Galesburg, treasurer; A. J. Lindgren of Joliet, Charles Thoren of Chicago, and A. S. Erickson of Bloomington, sergeants at arms.

ARMY ENGINEERS PREPARED TO START FLOOD CONTROL WORK

Washington, D. C., March 10.—(AP)—The army engineers are ready to proceed with $35,000,000 of flood control construction along the main stem of the Mississippi river as soon as congress makes the money available.

Selecting work not involved in the controversy over the merits of the Jadwin plan, the engineers have virtually completed all plans and specifications and their rigid forces are ready to go to work after the pending appropriation bill is passed.

Coincident with this announcement, Secretary Hurley made known today that condemnation proceedings will be brought immediately to obtain levee and floodway rights across railroad and state highway lines in the Bonnet Carre floodway in Louisiana.

Don't Let Those Little Bald Spots Become Big Ones

See Thomas' at Once

Almost before you know it, those little bald spots on the (1) temple, (2) crown or (3) frontal may become large bare areas—unless you do something NOW to stop your abnormal hair fall at these points, and promote natural hair growth. The Thomas' scalp treatment presents the one sure method of keeping those little bald spots from becoming big ones. In fact, Thomas' treatment not only stops falling hair but it actually results in the growth of new hair on thin and bald spots!

Twenty or thirty years ago it was almost impossible to prevent baldness. Today, the modern, scientific Thomas' treatment has replaced old-fashioned, haphazard methods with modern, scientific precision. This reliable, proved treatment actually goes to the basic source of your own specific scalp trouble—and by overcoming the cause, results in restoring the scalp to a normal, healthy condition. In this manner Thomas' scalp treatment acts as Nature's assistant and makes it possible for new hair to grow where hair should grow naturally but has been hindered by some abnormal scalp condition. Dandruff infection soon disappears—hairfall stops—and within a remarkably short time new hair starts to grow on the thin and bald spots.

The Thomas' are reliable scalp specialists. They will tell you frankly if your trouble does not come within their scope of treatment—and they accept for treatment only those for whom they conscientiously feel they can produce the anticipated results. This code of ethics has resulted in their growth to a chain of more than 45 offices, from coast to coast, in fifteen years.

No charge is made for a complete Thomas' scalp examination at any time. Come into the nearest office today and learn the truth about your hair and scalp.

COAL DELEGATES MEET IN RIVAL UNION SESSIONS

Lewis Controls Regulars; Insurgents Split.

BY THOMAS WREN.

Two rival conventions of union coal miners opened yesterday. At Indianapolis the regular convention of the United Mine Workers was called to order by John L. Lewis, the international president. At Springfield, Ill., an insurgent convention was attended by 430 delegates.

At Indianapolis President Lewis was cheered for half an hour when he called the 1,000 regular delegates to order. President Lewis served notice on the Springfield delegates that they would be welcomed to attend the regular convention, but if they refused the invitation, their case would be left for disposition in the hands of the majority convention.

Dissention Among Insurgents.

The leaders of the Springfield insurgents announced a platform of peace and harmony, but dissention broke out shortly after Harry Fiswick, president of the Illinois Miners' union, was relieved of the gavel and Alexander Howat of Kansas was made chairman.

Several years ago Howat was ousted by Lewis from control of the Kansas miners.

Close on the heels of Fishwick's dethronement John Brophy of Pennsylvania opened an attack on Frank Farrington, who resigned as head of the Illinois Miners' union in 1926 to accept a position with the Peabody Coal company at a reported salary of $25,000 per year. The convention voted to unseat Farrington as a delegate. Farrington had been accused by Lewis of being the real director of the insurgent movement in Illinois.

Brophy's attack was greeted with applause, which was interrupted when Delegate J. P. Leinenbach of Harrisburg, Ill., shouted:

"This organization came down to my town and told us this was to be a rank and file convention. Now we come here and we find the same old steam roller working."

Lewis Is Upheld.

In the Indianapolis convention Lewis branded the Springfield convention as "spurious, transgressing every law of our union and intended to tear down and destroy the miners' organization."

He charged that the insurgents are attempting to organize a new union because of a political defeat by his administration.

Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the arctic explorer, came to Chicago from prison yesterday to begin life anew. His step was firm and he appeared a decade younger than his 65 years.

The man whose claim to discovery of the north pole in 1908 was discredited by other explorers, notably Admiral Robert E. Peary, completed five years of a fourteen year sentence in Leavenworth penitentiary on Saturday. He was convicted of fraudulent use of the mails in an oil stock scheme.

RAIL TERMINAL DECISION DUE NEXT MONDAY

Aldermen to Choose Plan for Unity.

Action on a city plan for the grouping of railroads in new terminals to open a number of loop streets to the south is predicted for next Monday by the council railway terminals committee. Members of the committee were informed yesterday that tenants of the Polk, La Salle, and Grand Central terminals have refused to enter the proposed Illinois Central lake front station.

Because of the refusal, the Illinois Central, according to F. L. Thompson, vice president, has hesitated to start building operations. Under the lake front ordinances the Illinois Central must accept as tenants any railroad desiring space. Mr. Thompson pointed out that if the road built a terminal for itself and present tenants and then was forced to accept others, changes might cost $2,000,000.

Plans for a terminal to house a large number of railroads and for another to house those now using the Roosevelt road stations are being prepared, according to Mr. Thompson. He intimated work will start as soon as it is definitely determined whether the other roads will be moved to the lake front.

The city plan for the new terminals and street openings was ordered by the committee last November. Edward J. Noonan, committee engineer, said that he will have several plans for consideration. The aldermen at the Monday session also will consider inviting officials of the railroads to meet with the committee and the mayor in a last effort to reach an agreement.

The World's Fair committee will be asked whether plans have been made to accommodate railroads that do not now have access to the lake front.

An investigation into the failure of the surface lines to relocate tracks in the center of 22d street was referred to a subcommittee by Chairman Edward J. Kaindl [34th]. The council ordered the tracks moved three years ago after 22d street was widened.

Body from Lake Identified as That of Rockford Man

Police yesterday identified the body of a man taken from the lake at the foot of Schiller street as that of Werner Carlson, 54 years old, 2249 Ninth avenue, Rockford. The verdict of the coroner's jury was indeterminate. The body of a second man taken from the lake at the foot of Fullerton parkway remained unidentified.

REPORTER WITH $75,000 ACCUSED OF BLACKMAIL

Los Angeles, Cal., March 10.—[Special.]—Morris Lavine, a reporter, was arrested this afternoon, charged with conspiracy to blackmail. Detectives asserted that $75,000 marked money was taken from his pockets. Along with Lavine, who termed his arrest a frameup, Miss Leontine Johnson was taken into custody. Miss Johnson formerly was secretary for S. C. Lewis, convicted promoter, who was active in the affairs of the Julian Petroleum company, which collasped after a $20,000,000 stock fraud charge had been circulated.

Lavine was writing a series of newspaper articles, assisted by Miss Johnson. The Los Angeles Examiner, which was publishing the series, prints a notice tonight that in view of development, it has suspended publication of the articles.

District Attorney Fitts said that Lavine visited offices of several men whose names appeared in the Julian case and solicited large sums to keep their names out of the articles. Lavine was leaving the office of Charles Crawford when arrested. Fitts said that besides the $75,000 found on Lavine, he had demanded $225,000 more.

Wouldn't you jump at such an offer? Wouldn't you think it the greatest bargain you ever heard of?

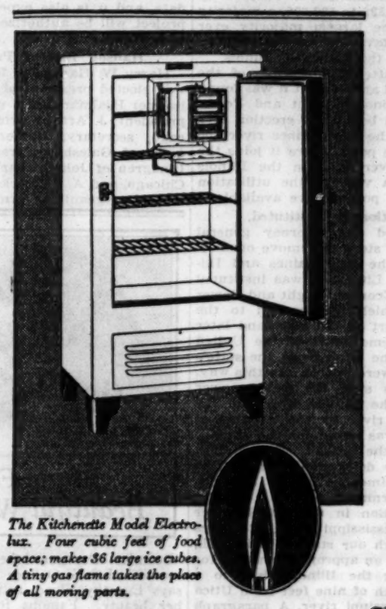
Electrolux literally makes you this offer—gives you plenty of ice cubes, constant steady cold for life!

This economy is possible only because Electrolux has no machinery—not a single moving part. A tiny gas flame and a trickle of water do all the work of circulating the cold-producing refrigerant. Water and gas are relatively cheap, and only a small quantity of each is used. That's why Electrolux costs so little to run.

Not a single moving part! Think what this simplicity means to you in silence alone. Electrolux can't ever make a sound as long as you have it.

QUICK FACTS!

1. Permanently noiseless.
2. Absolutely safe.
3. Only a few cents a day to operate.
4. Lasts indefinitely.
5. No mechanism to wear, to vibrate, to need oil.
6. Free from trouble.
7. Perpetual, steady cold.
8. Plenty of pure ice cubes.
9. Tested and endorsed by national authorities.



The Kitchenette Model Electrolux. Four cubic feet of food space; makes 36 large ice cubes. A tiny gas flame takes the place of all moving parts.

Think, too, of the freedom from trouble and repairs. You don't have any responsibility about running this refrigerator. It runs itself.

And it runs all the time. There's no stopping and starting. Consequently every time you open the refrigerator door you find the same steady, even cold. You could keep a thermometer on one of the food shelves, read it frequently, and find the temperature varies scarcely at all. That's why foods and milk keep so well in an Electrolux, why salads chill perfectly, why frozen desserts are so extra good.

Even the refrigerant needs no renewal. It is hermetically sealed in solid steel forever. Even the tiny gas flame is automatically protected. The gas cannot flow, should the flame ever go out for any reason.

Before you think of buying any automatic refrigerator, see Electrolux. There's nothing else like it. At our display room you'll find many models and sizes in white and beautiful colors. Prices no higher than those of mechanical refrigerators—$195 to $490 at the factory. Liberal purchase terms. If you would like complete illustrated information by mail, return the coupon below.

ERLANGER WILL TO BE CONTESTED —ALL LEFT TO KIN

Lawyer for Common Law Wife Promises Suit.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 10.—[Special.]—Abraham Lincoln Erlanger, who had a Napoleonic complex in life, failed to cover his retreat in death, and today a suit to break a $75,000,000 will is just around the corner. A dark eyed woman of 40, who says she gave eighteen of her years to the master theatrical man, sat in seclusion tonight in the room where Erlanger died in her arms last Friday and learned the millions were left to somebody else.

The will bequeaths every dollar of the estate to blood relatives and no mention is made of Charlotte Fiscal, the woman who claims to have comforted Mr. Erlanger through his declining years as his common law wife.

"We will give them a few days to probate the will," said Max D. Steuer, attorney for the woman who claims Erlanger's name, "and then if my client is not given her rightful share of the estate we will begin our fight."

At the office of Saul G. Baron, the lawyer who drew the theatrical man's will, it was reiterated that there "is no Mrs. Erlanger."

Will Says "Unmarried."

The Erlanger will begins:

"I, Abraham Lincoln Erlanger, unmarried . . ."

Mr. Steuer fixed his finger on the key word.

"Right there we have evidence," smiled the lawyer, "that Mr. Erlanger was thinking of something when he made his will. I never saw another will in which the word 'unmarried' was so stressed. It's most unusual."

Mr. Steuer refused to discuss reports that there is a second will or that a settlement with "Mrs. Erlanger" was made by Erlanger before his death.

Bulk of Estate to Brother.

The bulk of the estate is left to Mr. Erlanger's brother, former Supreme Court Justice Mitchell L. Erlanger, and to his two sisters, Miss Ray Erlanger and Mrs. Caroline Bergman, in equal parts.

Relatives of the late theatrical man have insisted there will be no "scandal touching the Erlanger name."

While the relatives have refused to admit that such a person as "Mrs. Erlanger" exists, it became known today that one of the dead man's sisters was living in the same Riverside drive apartment building at the time of his death.

Little could be learned concerning the identity of Charlotte Fiscal. According to the lawyer, "Mrs. Erlanger" is a former stage favorite with prominent family connections in New York. He said her stage name was Charlotte Leslie.

Civil War Vet, Aged 84, Arrested as Tipsy Driver

Decatur, Ill., March 10.—(AP)—James Marse, 84 years old, pleaded guilty in the county court today to driving a car while intoxicated. His civil war record and advanced age caused the justice to release him on probation.

Woman "Life for Pint" Victim Wins Bail Plea

Lansing, Mich., March 10.—[Special.]—Mrs. Etta Mae Miller, former "life for a pint" law victim, whose sentence was first commuted to 7½ to 15 years and who last week won a new trial, probably will taste freedom for the first time in more than a year tomorrow. On motion of her counsel, Judge Leland W. Carr set the bail for the aged woman, mother of ten children, at $2,500, when action was started in Circuit court here today to free her pending her retrial.

Sheriff Hugh Silsby said he would return Mrs. Miller to Lansing from the Detroit house of correction tomorrow.

PACKER IS SUED BY WOMAN FOR $100,000 BALM

Henry H. Hetzel, vice president of Hetzel & Co., meat packers, 1743 Larrabee street, was named defendant yesterday in a $100,000 breach of promise suit brought in the Superior court by Mrs. Marie Erickson Ward, 29 years old, 1260 North Dearborn parkway. The declaration of the suit, drawn by Attorney Harry X. Cole, alleges that Hetzel proposed marriage within a week after meeting Mrs. Ward and has refused to go through with his contract.

Mrs. Ward says she met Hetzel in October, 1927, when she was the proprietor of a beauty shop in the Congress hotel. She was married when she was 15 years old to Clarence Ward, from whom she secured a divorce two years later.

After Hetzel had entertained her for a week, Mrs. Ward charges, he proposed marriage, but refused to set a date on the pretext that he would have to arrange his business affairs.

Gave Her Allowance, She Says.

He furnished her an apartment at 3600 Pine Grove avenue and gave her a liberal allowance, she avers. Within three months he removed her to an apartment at 530 Addison street, and again to another at 61 East Goethe street, and finally to the one in which she now lives, she says. He is said to have purchased her two automobiles and to have driven with her to her home in Elk Point, S. D., to visit her parents. Mrs. Ward says he posed then as her fiancé.

She charges that on a trip from Sioux City, Ia., last summer Hetzel overturned the car in a ditch and her collarbone was broken and her hip fractured.

Mrs. Ward asserts that she did not discover that Hetzel was married until last July. They were riding along Michigan boulevard, she says, when Hetzel's wife, Mrs. Erma Hetzel, 535 Briar place, leaped on the running board of the car and declared that Hetzel was her husband.

Sued for Divorce by Wife.

Mrs. Hetzel had sued her husband for divorce on a charge of habitual drunkenness Oct. 13, 1926, but later dropped her suit. Hetzel explained to Mrs. Ward that he was seeking a divorce and that they could be married after he won a decree. Last February he entered a separation agreement with his wife.

On March 8, according to Mrs. Ward, the packer told her he would not marry her. She has since suffered a nervous breakdown and is unable to conduct her beauty shop at 1400 Lake Shore drive, she declares.

Miss Wahl was released.

WIFE AWARDED $500,000 FOR HUSBAND'S LOVE

New York, March 10.—[Special.]—A sheriff's jury in White Plains returned a verdict of $500,000 in favor of Mrs. Adelaie K. Ward Gibbons of Scarsdale today in her $1,000,000 suit for alienation of affections against Mrs. Blanche Powell of Croton Falls, widow of a wealthy Canadian lumberman. Mrs. Powell offered no defense. Mrs. Gibbons was the only witness.

Charles D. Gibbons is a well known international lawyer. He is a Harvard graduate and has degrees from universities at Madrid and Heidelberg. He is a member of the bars of New York and Ohio. Mrs. Gibbons is the daughter of Col. De Witt Clinton Ward, who was a friend of President Roosevelt and a well known Republican leader.

Mrs. Gibbons testified she and Gibbons were married May 8, 1917, and that her husband was attentive and considerate of her until 1927, when she learned Mrs. Powell had entered his life. She said she first met Mrs. Powell last July, when she went to Mrs. Powell's estate at Croton Falls, and found her husband and Mrs. Powell there. They told her to leave the property and not return, she said.

She testified Mrs. Powell and her husband lived there as man and wife, and that neighbors told her they lived there with their son.

25 CENTS AT ALL News Stands

TRUE STORY MAGAZINE

LARGEST News Stand Sale in the World

Jim Smith Had Come Back

Jim Smith had come back.

There was excitement up and down the street in which Jim lived.

The women looked at Jim rather quizzically; the men rather enviously, but approvingly.

Jim himself looked very serious, a trifle disillusioned, and apparently more ready to fit into the groove of things than ever. And a week later he had fitted into the groove of things, and was out wheeling the kids and saying "hello" to his neighbors.

The story was of so little importance that, even if Jim Smith had lived in a tiny village instead of a big city, it would not have made three lines in the country newspaper.

* * * *

For all Jim Smith had done was to run away with another woman and come home again. Merely a working man, going through his amazing interlude of sexual unrest and, therefore, absolutely of no importance to the world.

* * * *

Let's see what would have happened if Jim Smith had not come home. Then let's see what brought Jim Smith home. After that we are in a position to face a problem of rather amazing proportions.

* * * *

About that same time Professor Blank also decided that married life was too confining, and also left home. Only—Professor Blank did not come back. He went down to a place called Greenwich Village to live his own free life. His story was so important that it made the front page of metropolitan papers three days in succession. And dozens of advanced thinkers gave out interviews on the question of marriage, its hampering influence on the individual and its questionable value to the state.

* * * *

Professor Blank's defection was big news.

And, again about the same time, there came from a timid little woman named Smith a very simple story on lined letter paper telling about a happy marriage, children, a run-away husband, the husband returned, and the home made happy again.

And that manuscript sold more than two million copies.

* * * *

Now possibly we are ready for our problem.

First, what would have happened if Jim Smith had not come home?

* * * *

But there are only ten thousand professors in the whole United States. So, if all the professors in America had left their wives, still nothing would have happened. America is big enough to swallow the breaking of ten thousand families, and never know it.

* * * *

But Jim Smith is multiplied by many millions. And it doesn't take much imagination to see what would happen if the heads of millions of working families suddenly decided that marriage was a hampering influence on their lives.

There isn't a bank, a factory, or a chain store in America that wouldn't be shaken to its very foundation.

The more we think of it in this light, the more we know it to be true.

* * * *

And consequently, it is of the utmost importance to find out why Jim Smith came home, especially since Professor Blank set an example in staying away.

Jim Smith came home because he believed in the home and didn't believe in Professor Blank. He came home because all of his inherited ideas and most of his serious reading had built up in his mind the sanctity of the home; and, therefore, no matter how much he might unsanctify it by running away, he literally had to re-sanctify it by coming back again.

Blank, on the other hand, had "outgrown" his inherited ideas about the sanctity of the home, and all of his serious reading was material that questioned these inherited ideas and doubted their values.

And now we get at another factor that is equally interesting. And that is how it happened that Mary Smith's simple, untutored manuscript could sell OVER FIVE HUNDRED TIMES AS MANY COPIES AS PROFESSOR BLANK'S EXCEEDINGLY CLEVER BOOK.

And, of course, the answer is that Mary Smith's story was of tremendous interest to the millions of wives of working families whose most important job is to hold those homes together. So much more important than Professor Blank's clever pages on why they should be broken up.

* * * *

When we trace these manuscripts back to their sources, or when we take cross-sections of hundreds of thousands of working families, we find the reading and writing of True Stories to be a matter so serious as to be rather dangerous for any publisher to tamper with them.

The whole fabric of our social system is woven web and woof into this re-affirmation of the virtues by which the masses are carrying on, while your Professor Blanks at the other end of the scale are trying to make their changes.

We probably could not change these true stories if we would. But, on the other hand, knowing the stabilizing part that the masses are playing in these rapidly changing times, we know, with a full historical sense of what we are about, that we would not change them if we could.

CAPITAL HALTS ALL BUSINESS IN TRIBUTE TO TAFT

Burial Today in Arlington National Cemetery.

Fort Myer, a battalion of marines and a company of bluejackets. Maj. Gen. Fred W. Sladen will command the escort.

The service at the church will take place at 2 p. m., with the Rev. Dr. Ulysses G. B. Pierce, Mr. Taft's pastor since 1906, officiating. President and Mrs. Hoover will attend the service and will accompany the body to the grave. Justices of the Supreme court will act as honorary pallbearers, the body bearers being noncommissioned officers of the army, navy and marine corps.

The church bell will toll as the procession arrives from the capitol. Then will come a brief service. There will be no eulogy. The processional will be followed by the Lord's Prayer. "Lead, Kindly Light" will be played by organ and chimes. Then will come a prayer followed by the hymn, "Abide with Me." Dr. Pierce will read two poems, "The Happy Warrior," by Wordsworth, and selections from "Ode on Death of Wellington," by Tennyson.

No Military Escort From Church.

There will be no military escort when the body is taken from the church to Arlington National cemetery. It will be taken in a motor hearse, followed by automobiles with members of the family, President and Mrs. Hoover, cabinet members, justices of the Supreme court, and other notables.

Upon arrival at Fort Myer, just outside Arlington cemetery, a new military escort will form. This will consist of the navy band, one battalion of the 13th engineers from Fort Humphries, the 3d cavalry, less the 1st squadron, and one company of marines. Col. Guy V. Henry of the 3d cavalry will command this escort.

The committal service at the grave will be concluded with Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar" and a military salute. Dr. Pierce also will officiate there.

The body will be laid to rest in a section reserved for distinguished public officials high upon a wooded hillside overlooking the Potomac and the city of Washington.

In today's brief senate session two resolutions were adopted, one referring to the death of Justice Sanford and the other to Mr. Taft. Senator William E. Brock [Dem., Tenn.], offered the first resolution, which declared that the sudden death of Justice Sanford "caused profound sorrow and deep regret to the members of this body."

"Mr. Justice Sanford was one of Tennessee's distinguished sons and was loved and admired by all," said Senator Brock. "The nation has lost one of its greatest jurists."

Senator Watson then proposed a resolution dealing with the death of Mr. Taft.

"It is not appropriate at this time to enter upon any extended eulogy of the life, character and public service of William Howard Taft," said Senator Watson, "but when so eminent a citizen passes from among us, one who has occupied the lofty position of President of the United States, as well as chief justice of the Supreme court, it is altogether fitting and appropriate that some note of his passing should be made in this body."

The resolution recited that "the senate has heard with profound sensibility and deep sorrow" of the death of Mr. Taft and authorized the Vice President to appoint a committee of 20 senators to attend the funeral "as a token of honor to the many virtues, public and private, of the illustrious statesman, and as a mark of respect to one who has held such eminent public station."

Lauded by Longworth.

Speaker Longworth took the floor in the house to offer the resolution which was adopted there. Besides representing the Taft home district and having a long intimacy with him, Mr. Longworth was with a congressional party which visited the Philippines at the time Mr. Taft was governor general, when his romance developed with the daughter of Theodore Roosevelt. Mr. Longworth said:

"I shall attempt no pronouncement of eulogy upon that illustrious man. His life and public career are well known to every one present. They speak for themselves. Unique he was in that he held two offices of supreme command. He was both chief justice of the Supreme court and President of the United States. Unique he was, too, in the possession of the heartfelt affection of more of his fellow-countrymen than probably any man in this country. He was my honored friend so far as my memory can run. I remember him well, when I was my daughter's age and he was a student at Yale. My heart is heavy indeed."

The resolution asserted that the house had learned "with profound sensibility and sorrow" of the death of Mr. Taft and authorized the speaker to appoint a committee to attend the funeral. It provided for adjournment as a mark of respect to the memory both of Mr. Taft and of Justice Sanford.

Justice Holmes Speaks.

Four of the eight living justices of the Supreme court were present when the court convened at noon. They were Associate Justices Holmes, Van Devanter, Brandeis, and Sutherland. Chief Justice Hughes and Associate Justices McReynolds, Butler, and Stone, were in Tennessee to attend the funeral today of Justice Sanford.

"On Saturday last, just as we were expecting him at a conferences of the justices, we were informed that our brother, Mr. Justice Sanford, had become unconscious pending a slight operation," said Justice Holmes. "Five minutes later we received word that he was dead.

"Thus suddenly the light of a faithful worker, who was born also to charm, went out.

"Afterwards came the news that the late chief justice had found relief from his hopeless illness in death.

"Such events must be accepted in silent awe."

Justice Holmes said that all members of the court would attend the Taft funeral.

The court is obliged under the law to hold a perfunctory meeting tomorrow, but will not resume consideration of pending matters until Wednesday.

SUPERIOR COURT TO CLOSE THIS NOON AS A TRIBUTE TO TAFT

The Superior court will close at noon today in tribute to William Howard Taft. The announcement was made yesterday by Chief Justice Harry A. Lewis. The Circuit, County, and Probate courts are expected to do likewise.

SERVICE BRIEF OVER GRAVE OF JUSTICE SANFORD

Knoxville, Tenn., March 10.—(AP)—The nation tendered its final honor here today to Edward Terry Sanford, justice of the United States Supreme court, at funeral rites bare of all ceremony save the reading of an abbreviated Episcopal service.

Only the presence of famous personages—among them Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes and Justices Stone, McReynolds, and Butler—evidenced the position of the man they were there to revere.

The body and the funeral party arrived here from Washington at 1:30 p. m. Fifty minutes later the body had been carried to the cemetery and the last words of the service had been said by the Rev. Dr. Walter C. Whitaker, rector of St. John's Episcopal church, Knoxville.

The service at the grave, at the foot of a hill fringed with pine trees, was said in the presence of Justice Sanford's colleagues, representatives of the Knoxville (Tenn.) and American bar association, and of delegations from the Nashville, Greeneville, and Chattanooga bars.

Dr. Whitaker, the justices, and members of the family preceded the casket down the Greenwood cemetery drive.

Immediately after the funeral the justices hurried to catch a train for Washington so as to be in time to attend services tomorrow for William Howard Taft.

CHEVROLET

It's wise to choose a SIX!

After all, it is a perfectly simple matter to decide which automobile you want to buy. Only two questions must be answered to your satisfaction—

First: Which car gives the most for my money?

Second: Which car represents the soundest investment from the standpoint of satisfaction and pride of ownership?

Six-Cylinder Motor

In buying a low-priced car consider the following facts:

* * *

It is wise to choose a six-cylinder motor—for in order to get six-cylinder smoothness, it is necessary to have six cylinders.

Six-cylinder smoothness takes out vibration and roughness. This saves the motor, the whole chassis, the body, the passengers, and the driver. Drivers who try six cylinders never want less.

The Chevrolet is a six. And yet it sells at a price that anyone can afford to pay.

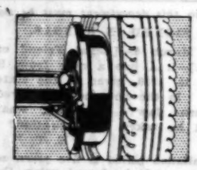
This very low-priced car lasts longer, not only because of fine materials and oversize parts, but also because it is a six. The big, smooth, 50-horsepower six-cylinder Chevrolet engine is always "taking it easy." From crawling to racing speeds, everything is smooth. There is no feeling of strain.

* * *

With all its six-cylinder smoothness and power the New Chevrolet Six uses no extra gasoline or oil. Modern efficiency in design makes this possible—overhead valves—high compression power from ordinary fuel—very latest high-acceleration carburetor—close-fitting, long-wearing pistons—crankcase ventilation—air cleaner. You can really have extreme economy and still satisfy your modern performance ideals. Chevrolet brings truly modern transportation within reach of all who can afford any car. Chevrolet economy is the mark of Chevrolet sincerity in manufacture. To illustrate:

Chevrolet valves are readily accessible and easily adjustable—a feature not usually found on cars of low price. This not only saves the cost of replacing valves, but it also makes it possible to preserve quiet, economical, efficient motor operation.

* * *



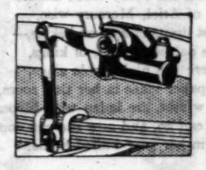
Fully Enclosed Brakes

A similar example is found in Chevrolet's molded brake lining. In careful tests at the General Motors Proving Ground this lining has lasted over 25,000 miles of usage—reducing the necessity of frequent replacement, and consequent expense.

Furthermore, there is a rear axle inspection plate on the Chevrolet. This makes it unnecessary to take the axle apart to examine or clean it.

* * *

The Chevrolet Six is full of such evidence that true economy comes from advancement and refinement.



Delco-Lovejoy Shock Absorbers

Like all the finest cars, the Chevrolet Six provides the comfort and protection of four extra-long, chrome-vanadium springs that are controlled by hydraulic shock absorbers. They are mounted lengthwise, in the direction of car travel, and self-adjusting spring shackles are used for lasting quiet.

With modern low suspension and extra wheelbase, the Chevrolet Six has the fundamentals of modern motor car beauty.

It is long, low and properly proportioned. The impressive front view is distinguished by the genuine honeycomb radiator, another mark of modern cars.

Safety Gasoline Tank

The gasoline tank is mounted in the rear. This not only increases the safety of the passengers, but results in finer appearance.

Chevrolet beauty instantly says "Body by Fisher." Body by Fisher means the style of the costliest cars. But it means much more—permanent quiet, sturdiness, balance and safety, made possible only by Fisher composite steel-and-wood construction.

Body by Fisher gives you a genuine non-glare windshield, as in the finest cars. It gives you an adjustable driver's seat, used in every luxury car. The New Chevrolet Six gives you more seat space, deeper cushions, greater leg room, clearer vision, finer fabrics and fitments.

* * *

You can actually see all the extra value of Chevrolet-Fisher bodies. And there is just as much extra value everywhere in the car. By actual count of modern features—by actual measure of value—by actual weight—by actual scientific test—AND BY ANY MODERN STANDARD OF PERFORMANCE the Chevrolet Six is the greatest value in the low price field.

It is wise to choose the Chevrolet Six with its six-cylinder valve-in-head motor . . . with full scientific equipment . . . with its Body by Fisher . . . with four long semi-elliptic springs, long wheelbase, low suspension, rear-mounted gasoline tank, honeycomb radiator and all the other features of this day and age.

See your nearest Chevrolet dealer today and drive a Chevrolet Six. Ten minutes at the wheel will show you what a difference six cylinders make.

THE MINNESOTA GAG LAW.

The American Newspaper association has asked its membership whether or not it favors appeal from the decision of the Supreme court of Minnesota in the Minnesota gag law case to the Supreme court of the United States. A ballot has been sent out to editors to obtain an explicit opinion. For the information of editors and other readers who have not had the Minnesota statute and the proceedings in the case of the Saturday Press brought to their attention the following summary may be helpful:

The Minnesota statute declares any newspaper or publication which regularly publishes malicious, scandalous, and defamatory matter a nuisance which may be suppressed by application of the injunction process. Under this law the Saturday Press, a small weekly of Minneapolis, was restrained from publication as a nuisance. From this order the Press appealed, but the state Supreme court affirmed the decision of the District court, which found against the Press and suppressed it as a public nuisance. At this stage THE TRIBUNE was informed of the statute and the proceedings against the Press, and as there was likelihood that an appeal would not be perfected and the time being short within which the necessary procedure must be taken, THE TRIBUNE acted upon its own initiative. Its regular counsel took charge of the case for the defendant and an appeal was carried at THE TRIBUNE'S expense to the Minnesota Supreme court. There it was argued by THE TRIBUNE'S counsel and the court again sustained the statute.

The next step is an appeal to the United States Supreme court, and it is for the approval or disapproval of this step by the American newspaper profession that the referendum is resorted to. THE TRIBUNE has no disposition to play Sir Galahad or Don Quixote in this matter. It has the material for testing the case and will press it if the American newspaper world agrees with the opinion which induced THE TRIBUNE to take up the cause in Minnesota. THE TRIBUNE has said editorially, and its counsel have argued in the highest court of Minnesota, that the Minnesota law is not compatible with freedom of the press and is the most flagrant device for the suppression of criticism of government that has been devised for a century. Under cover of suppressing malicious and irresponsible comment, it puts in the hands of corruptionists and malefactors in office a means of preventing exposure and robs the public of its right to know whatever is charged against their representatives in office. The ostensible restriction to "malicious, scandalous and defamatory" publication is no protection of the public, for a corrupt official, with the compliance of an allied judiciary, is free to call any exposure "malicious, scandalous and defamatory" and promptly suppress it. No better shield for venality or malfeasance in office could be devised than this summary proceeding before a judge without recourse to even a jury. The existing laws of libel are applicable to malicious, scandalous and defamatory publications, but the Minnesota gag law is directed to prevent publicity.

That such a device should be accepted and enacted by an American legislative body is a sorry commentary on the political conscience and intelligence of the community it represents. That it should be approved by a high court is even worse. But both the legislators and judges are elected products of a political condition in Minnesota which explains a good deal. Political power in Minnesota has been divided between a rather unusually remorseless and shortsighted moneyed interest and the excessive and not too scrupulous radical opposition it is likely to create. Moneyed power has been greedy, oppressive, and unintelligent, even as to its own legitimate interest. Rebellion against it has been given to quackery, and not careful of its weapons. What the state has needed and needs is not a bludgeon to be seized by either force but the development of an intelligent public opinion and a citizenship of character, now ineffective for its own defense in the duel between the plutocrats and the cranks. A free press is essential to the decent government of Minnesota, or any other free community, and "no abuse of a free press can be so great as the evil of its suppression."

A CANDIDATE WITH REAL ISSUES.

Ernest L. Kreamer, candidate for the Republican nomination for representative to congress from the Second district, says:

"It's all right to applaud and acquiesce in proposals for progress, but what is more essential is real action. Other states seem to get what they ask for. Illinois has never before asked a cent for this waterway, but the state and city have spent $100,000,000 of Chicago and Illinois money on it already, and now all that is sought is 5 or 6 million dollars from congress to complete the work, because the state can't spend any more without a constitutional amendment, which takes time. Illinois congressmen ought to be as active on a project like this as are Iowa and Indiana and Pennsylvania and Tennessee congressmen on matters affecting their localities. I am pledged to vigorous efforts on the waterway if elected."

Mr. Kreamer has done a public service merely by making this point. As THE TRIBUNE has pointed out and illustrated from events frequently, Chicago, Illinois, and midwestern representation in congress is lacking in dynamic quality. The result is that we are served short commons from Uncle Sam's lavish board. We do not want to be fed with pork as some other districts are, but we want a fair measure of consideration at Washington. Instead we are always at the tail of the queue. Public improvements in this region are given a cold shoulder, and just claims for federal participation are ignored or tardily and grudgingly answered.

Mr. Kreamer has a live issue in this. He does well to stress the need for prompt and adequate action on the waterway and on the bridge nuisance. His stand for correction of the demoralizing situation created by fanatic prohibitionism and against the persistent extension of the powers and activities of government in business and private affairs makes this candidacy one of the most interesting and praiseworthy in the present campaign.

PROTECT THE PARKS.

The completion of a new building—the Second Regiment armory—in Washington park and the projected erection of the new Chicago Historical Society building in Lincoln park and the protest against the La Rabida project in Jackson park should remind us that if our park boards give way to every appeal for building sites we shall soon have no parks at all. The fact that these appeals are on behalf of worthy institutions or enterprises does not satisfy objection. If the institution is worthy, it is worthy to have a site of its own and it is the less worthy for taking a situation which has other important public uses. Our parks have a very high and special function which ought not to be perverted to other uses, however commendable those uses may be. The location of the armory in Washington park seemed to save money to the state. It was, in fact, robbing Peter to pay Paul. It reduced the present expenditure upon the armory at the expense of the park. A proper sum should have been appropriated to purchase a site for the armory. The Historical society has as much justification for a site in Lincoln park as the Lafiin Museum of Natural History, but no more than the next institution that seeks a like privilege, and so on. Grant park is always in danger of invasion, always for plausible reasons, and some of these invasions are regrettable. The city owes an unextinguishable debt of gratitude to Montgomery Ward for his defense of our lake front. Against public indifference and misunderstanding and unjust criticism he stood firm. Had he weakened, Grant park would be a clutter of buildings today.

Have we not learned anything from this lesson? The parks are parks, not public building sites in reserve. They are primarily breathing spaces, oases of nature among the buildings of man, places for trees and grass, flowers and pools, with the sky overhead. The only buildings which should be permitted in them are buildings essential or contributory to their purposes and character, park buildings or monuments or works of art. The Fine Arts building in Jackson park well illustrates the distinction which should be made. It is not justified by its future use for the Rosenwald museum. It needed no utilitarian justification. It is preserved as a thing of unique beauty and as a memorial of one of the greatest monuments of Chicago's history. Merely as housing for the Rosenwald museum, it would have no claim for place in Jackson park or any other park.

Our park boards are drifting into a bad custom and should lay down for themselves now before it is too late an iron rule. So long as they make exceptions there is no protection and our parks will be frittered away.

BRIDGE RELIEF IN PROSPECT.

Representative Britten's activity on behalf of better bridge hour regulations is appreciated in Chicago. His latest step is to obtain the consent of the secretary of war to sit with a committee of the Illinois delegation which will hear a discussion of the bridge hour problem by representatives of the city, the navigation interests, and the war department. A full discussion under such auspices should bring some substantial results. Chicago asks nothing it ought not to have and can demonstrate that the major public interest is suffering unfairly and unnecessarily under present regulations. That major interest is a concern of the federal authority, whatever the special preoccupation of the bureau engineers may be, and we feel that we can rely upon the secretary of war, the President's deputy, to take the larger view.

Editorial of the Day

[Grand Rapids, Mich., Press.]

Former President Little of the University of Michigan brought Prof. Peter M. Jack from Europe to head the new department of rhetoric and English at Ann Arbor, placing him over the heads of many who had long served on the department's faculty. Several resignations followed, and it now develops that a state law of 1919 forbade the employment of any alien as a regular member of the university staff.

The objection to appointing Jack would be the same, from the standpoint of slighted professors in the department, whether he came from Glasgow or from South Bend. Dr. Little's chief mistake, if it existed, was in going over the heads of faithful university scholars for an outsider. Sometimes any administrator, facing a dearth of real administrative material, has to do that. As for the 1919 law, it is ridiculous.

If a Robert M. Wenley can be attracted to the university from Scotland, to make a profound and lasting impression upon students for generations, he should not be barred pending naturalization; in fact, he should not be barred at all. Philosophy is of all nations and all ages, and the university should be able to draw upon the world's best minds for its instructors. To have forced Arthur Edward Boak, professor of ancient history, to wait for years for naturalization would probably have been simply to deprive the university of his services—the services of a man who was to hold the commission of lieutenant commander in the American navy during the war. And if a Rene Talamon or Michael Pargment can teach the Romance languages to university students better than a man who has spent his life in this country, what difference does it make where he was born?

There are ways of evading the law of 1919, making aliens "irregular" members of the faculty and special lecturers on private alumni pay pending their naturalization. But that should be unnecessary.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

HEY, NOAH WEBSTER! AND YOU, TOO, FUNK, AND BRING WAGNALLS WITH YOU—

we've got to have you fix up your books. The English language is growing so fast that you fellows are out of date. In the first place, you birds still have the word "hoodlum" in your dictionaries. No such word any more; nowadays we always speak of a "hoodlum" as a "hood." And suppose we wanted to find the word in your book that means the guys who take a bird for a ride, or who put him on the spot, or throw him in a shack and sit on him until his friends come across with three or four grand? Now, in your dictionaries you would call guys like that "kidnapers."

Well, they may have been kidnapers back in the days they stole Charley Ross, but now things like that happen right along. In fact, it's one of our leading industries. Next to hi-jacking, rum-running, bootlegging, and racketeering stands the new business, "sneezing," which is the same thing that used to be called kidnaping. And what you called "kidnapers" are now called "sneezers."

You see, Noah, and you, too, Funk and Wagnalls, things that used to be rated as crimes have become such every day affairs that now we take 'em as a pretty good joke. Why, when Charley Ross was sneezed from his home down in Pennsylvania it shook the world and was talked about for the next twenty years. Nowadays Charley Ross wouldn't get on the first page for longer than one edition, and then he'd be cut down to five lines and chased over to the twenty-ninth page.

Here's the way you can put it when you get out your new dictionaries: SNEEZERS (sneez'r'). Guys who grab a bird and carry him off. Example: "Whom was them hoods I saw you wit' las' nite, huh?" "Them wasn't hoods, them was a cuppla o' sneezers." Something like that, Noah, and you, too, Funk and Wagnalls. And the way words are changing you'd better get out a special edition of your dictionaries every week.

LITTLE MISS MILLIGAN.

Little Miss Milligan couldn't walk much,
Only hippity-hop with the aid of her crutch,
And her fingers are drawn so she could not knit,
So all she could do was to sit and sit
Or wistfully gaze on the street below,
Where straight-limbed people come and go;
For she could not go and she could not come,
But must sit all day in her gray-walled home.

Long were her days, and without tomorrows,
She envied the neighbors who hurried by
Because they could laugh, because they could cry,
But mostly because they could come and go;
(It was being shut in that hurt her so),
For she didn't crave so much for romance,
She didn't care if she couldn't dance,—
She didn't dare to think such things out—
She only wished she could get about.

But the doctor told her, and made it plain
She never could hope to be well again;
For the days of miraculous things, he said,
And magical healing were long since fled.
Of course he was right—but, of course, he was wrong,
For the Wizard of Wireless happened along,
To conjure the spirit of Ariel
And weave round her dwelling his subtle spell,
With fairy antennae and casket of gold
That mocked all the miracles of old.

So little Miss Milligan's soul slips out
('Twas the thing she really cared about)
On the wings of Ariel, Mercury-wise,
To the farthest limits of seas and skies,—
A loiterer where the nightingale sings,
Summer and winter, are laden with bloom,
And now she can go, and now she can come,
All day long in her gray-walled home.

PARIS cables yesterday said that three policemen received slight injuries when a mob of communists sang the International Hymn. Communists should get their voices cultivated before they go around singing. They are earnest souls but rotten singers.

THE MORAL THAT CONTAINED A SHINING GOLDEN TRUTH.

RHL: Once there was a poor little boy who lived at the foot of a hill. Half way up the hill was a wood pile. Each day the poor little boy went to the wood pile and carried wood down to his house. People said he was a good little boy, and that some day, if he worked real hard, he would have a house of his own at the top of the hill. Well, the poor little boy worked real hard and was very successful. And after while when he was an old man he built a house on the top of the hill. Then he went to the wood pile and carried wood up the hill to his house. People said: That's funny—when he was young and strong and poor he carried wood down hill, and now, when he is old and feeble and rich, he carries wood up the hill—there must be a moral there somewhere. And the rich old mean, hearing that, said: There is. It just proves that the man who says our winters are not as cold as they used to be back in eighty-seven is talking through his hat.

A MAN in California has paid back five dollars that he borrowed from an Indiana schoolmate fifty years ago. That's encouraging; maybe some day the party that borrowed our bound volume of Punch for 1918 will have a twinge or two of conscience. But we'd hate to wait 48 more years.

HUSBANDS will view with delight the new dinner gowns designed by the w. k. he-dressmaker, M. Worth of Paris. It can be readily observed that with no cloth or other material at all from the ears to the waistline in the back the dress can't possibly cost very much.

WRITES ON CIRCULATION ILLS.

E. K. writes:

What causes poor circulation?

How can it best be cured?

REPLY.

The distribution of blood to the various parts of the body is determined by an apparatus called the vasomotor system, and this in turn is under the regulation of the sympathetic nervous system. Whether we feel hot or cold is determined by the amount of blood which circulates in the blood vessels of the skin. The temperature of the body may be above the normal and yet we feel cold; or, conversely, it may be below normal and yet we feel hot.

An illustration of the former is the man who has a chill as his fever rises; he feels very cold, though the thermometer shows him to be very hot. An illustration of the latter is the man who has just been pulled out of ice water and is given a stiff drink of whisky to warm him up; presently he feels very warm and comfortable, but the thermometer shows his temperature to be below normal. In the first instance the blood was in the internal organs and away from the skin. In the second the distribution was reversed.

When a person complains of cold feet he means that the skin of his feet is getting less blood than it is entitled to. There are all kinds of disorders of this vasomotor system, with resultant changes in the distribution of blood to different parts. One of the simplest and mildest is cold feet. I presume drunkard's nose is another member of the group. And then there are some that are more serious if not more uncomfortable. Among these are Raynaud's disease, dry gangrene, Buerger's disease, intermittent claudication. In later years we are finding new forms in this group of disorders and giving them new names.

Fortunately, the physiologists and pathologists are finding new basic facts about the vasomotor system. They have developed new methods for studying the distribution of the blood in the small vessels of the skin and eye. We hope for the day when we can do something worth while for those who suffer from this group of disorders. About all we can do now is to advise those who are subject to Raynaud's disease and the other more serious forms to go to climates where there is no winter and to stay there.

To those who complain of cold hands and feet we can offer a little more. They should first observe whether the skin is pale or red where the chilliness is complained of. If it is pale they can do something to promote comfort. They can harden themselves by cold baths, exposure to cold air, and by strenuous exercise or work. They can promote comfort directly by wearing loose, dry, warm shoes, stockings, and gloves, and by using stools to keep the feet from the floor in sedentary occupations.

RAYNAUD'S DISEASE.

C. M. F. writes:

1. Please explain Raynaud's disease.
2. What are its symptoms?
3. What is the usual course of the disease?
4. What is supposed to be the cause?

REPLY:

1. The blood supply, as between different parts of the body, is regulated by the vasomotor apparatus—nerves and artery muscles. In Raynaud's disease the blood supply or a part, such as a finger, the rim of an ear, or the tip of the nose, is greatly diminished. If this condition continues the part affected develops a sort of dry gangrene. It may come off eventually. The attacks are much worse in cold weather and may not come at all in warm. As a rule it attacks one part at a time.
2. The part affected becomes white as in frost bite. At another time it is blue and swollen. Finally, ulcers or gangrene develops. Pain is variable in intensity. The affected area is generally numb and the nearby areas are neuralgic.
3. It lasts intermittingly for several years. The affected parts are apt to be lost.
4. Nobody knows.

DON'T PUNISH THIS CHILD.

D. N. writes: I have a twenty-six month old baby girl, perfectly well, who was trained at 18 months, but for the past three months she simply won't or I can't get her to tell me when she wants to urinate. She never has any trouble in telling me when she wants a bowel movement and never has had an accident in that respect. I have to put her on the toilet at least every half hour or she'll be wet, and as she hasn't been wearing diapers since she was 18 months old, this means changing all her clothes.

REPLY:

I am sure you have been patient, but there is nothing much to do except to use more of the same medicine. Do not punish her or show her that you are angry or hopeless. On the other hand, try some system of rewards.

NOTE SIGNED IN KANSAS.

2. Place it in the hands of an attorney for collection.

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 11, 1865.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Lincoln today issued his proclamation in accordance with the requirements of the enrollment act, setting forth the penalties of desertion from the military or naval service and promising amnesty to all who shall within sixty days return to the service or report to a provost marshal and serve the remainder of their original term of enlistment and in addition a period equal to the time lost by desertion.

NEW YORK.—The Herald's Winchester correspondent confirms the reported victory over Early by Sheridan, and says Gen. Sheridan has occupied Staunton. Early was found near Waynesboro on a range of hills. Gen. Custer dismounted two of our regiments as skirmishers. In the rear, on either side of the road, went two solid regiments. The rebels fired one volley and fled like sheep, but their attempt to escape was fruitless. Early did not attempt to rally his men but rode off on a fleet horse, accompanied by an orderly.

NEWBERN, N. C.—Refugees arrived here state that Fayetteville, N. C., was in our possession last week and that Sherman was within forty miles of Raleigh. The rebel soldiers were deserting by companies and in some cases by regiments.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Star says that on the 6th thirteen transports, with troops from Fortress Monroe, accompanied by two gunboats, sailed up the Rappahannock on a raid to break up an extensive contraband trade in tobacco organized by the rebels. The expedition landed at Fredericksburg and captured ninety-five tons of manufactured tobacco known to have been sent there from Richmond to be smuggled into our lines. The tobacco is estimated to be worth $280,000. Four hundred prisoners were taken.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The senate has confirmed the nomination of Samuel Hoard as postmaster at Chicago.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 11, 1900.

CHICAGO. — Fifty thousand idle workmen in Chicago are dependent for daily bread on what money they have saved or on the weekly allowance of $5 per capita which comes out of the treasuries of their unions as "strike benefits." The situation grows out of labor trouble in the building trades.

FRANKFORT, Ky.—Secretary of State Caleb Powers and Capt. John Davis, sought on warrants in connection with the assassination of William Goebel, escaped to Lexington with a company of soldiers by donning uniforms. On their arrival there they were taken into custody, and Powers was badly beaten when dragged from the train. Both men carried pardons issued by Gov. Taylor for a crime of which they deny any guilt and for which they had not been arrested when the pardons were issued. Democrats claim the issuing of the pardons by Taylor and his refusal to permit the arrest of the men make him liable to arrest for abetting the escape of felons, and his arrest will probably follow. However, the sheriff's posse must first force the military lines at the capitol. Meanwhile more soldiers from the mountain regions, partisans of Taylor, are on their way to Frankfort.

LONDON.—News was received that Gen. Buller again is on the move. A dispatch from the Boer camp at Biggarsburg, dated March 8, says: "Twelve thousand British are threatening the Boer positions from the direction of Helpmakaar and a party of British scouts was encountered at Waschbank." Newspapers announce that five messages were received from President Kruger asking upon what terms a cessation of hostilities could be brought about.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—The state senate ratified the Susan B. Anthony amendment to the federal constitution, 15 to 14, ending a long and hotly contested battle. With West Virginia in the suffrage column only two more states are needed to ratify the amendment and make it binding on the whole United States.

CHICAGO. — Rector's—a name associated with Chicago's gastronomic history for many years—at last is to disappear. The Chicago Trust company purchased the leasehold and 14 story building at the southeast corner of Clark and Monroe streets for a reported $1,000,000. The company will move into the building as soon as the Federal Reserve bank leaves it for its new quarters at La Salle street and Jackson boulevard.

CHICAGO. — Two aviators well known in Chicago—Lieut. Clinton Stoner of the Chicago-Cleveland air mail service, and Lieut. Maxwell Blanchard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Blanchard, 7416 Princeton avenue—were killed in airplane accidents yesterday. Blanchard fell en route from Cuba and Palm Beach. Two mechanicians were killed with him. Stoner was burned to death when his plane fell near Goshen, Ind.

WHEAT.

Chicago, March 10. — The letter of James J. Coughlin, Chicago Board of Trade member, published last Sunday under the caption "Wheat," is probably a forerunner of other similar tirades against the federal farm board in its efforts to assist the farmer in building a modern system of distribution for his products.

The squealing of the speculators in farmers' products at the action of the Grain Stabilization corporation in buying wheat to prevent a price collapse would be pitiful were those gentlemen worthy of any sympathy.

As Mr. McKelvie of the federal farm board pointed out a few weeks ago, the speculators dealing in imaginary grain buy and sell annually more than 20 times the actual bushelage grown. Every bushel bought and sold must pay toll to some grain exchange member. The millions of dollars thus collected every year are charged back against the farmer in lower prices, for he ultimately pays the cost of distribution.

The stabilization corporation has disturbed the activities of the gamblers. It has tended to reduce their operations, hence the commissions charged against farmers' grain. The profits of the brokers who handle such transactions thus are jeopardized.

Every time a racket or an injustice of any kind is broken up or curbed there is wailing and complaining by those affected. It is too much to expect that modernization of the farmers' marketing system will be accomplished without treading on some one's toes. Few improvements or reforms are brought about without causing some one discomfort. Yet no thinking person would discard our modern labor saving, time saving, and money saving machinery, methods, and practices because people are temporarily thrown out of work and obsolete equipment junked.

The federal government is at last making an effort to assist farmers who comprise one-fourth of the country's population secure the advantages of the tariff and man made laws which other groups have been enjoying for decades. It is doing this as a matter of public policy. It realizes that the country's continued prosperity depends to a large extent on the welfare of its people who till the soil. Is it not more important to help lift the economic status of so large a portion of our people than to allow those who have been preying upon them go unmolested?

THEODORE GEORGE.

PIUS XI. TO THE AMERICANS.

Chicago, March 8.—"Pius XI. to the Americans" is the most laughable and illogical bit of twaddle that has graced your editorial pages in recent years. Pius XI., bishop of Rome, addressed his annual allocution on Shrove Tuesday to the priest-preachers who were to occupy the Lenten pulpits in the churches of the Eternal city. Pius XI. said nothing, directly or indirectly, to the broad, tolerant, unshackled, and liberty loving American people.

But last week in congress, before the house judiciary committee, "James Jeremiah Wadsworth, 24 year old son of New York's one time senator and grandson of the late great secretary of state, John Hay . . . spoke for himself. . . . 'As for drinking among the young people, I assert, not claim, that it has grown by leaps and bounds. By the time I entered Yale the pastime was so taken for granted it was not even discussed. . . . We young people are rebellious, but we are fair.'"

Raymond Pitcairn, director of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company, said before the same body anent "the rotten failure of prohibition": "The people know it, congress knows it. The young people know it best of all."

When young people drink it doesn't require the suspicious smirk of pious prudes and knavish churchmen to suppose they may go a step further in general hilarity of all sorts.

Pius XI. is the spiritual spokesman of over 300 million Catholics. He is a great moral leader and his voice is heard over the world, as was attested by the churchmen of all denominations following his protest against the assaults of Russia on religion last year. It takes courage to stand forth unflinchingly against evil. History has ever given praise to the clear visioned men who have done so. Pius XI. told the Roman preachers the truth about American youth at the same time two impartial observers were telling our legislative bodies an identical story in congress.

When the time comes and he has the opportunity Pius XI. will tell American Catholics plainly what he thinks of "the laxity of parental authority and of juvenile morals." And if the 75 per cent of the people of the United States who do not recognize his authority are not sufficiently fair minded to see the truth in his words, then the America of the next generation will be the worse for it.

JOHN C. KEMP,
President of the Senior Class, St. Ignatius College.

SIGNS OF DISRESPECT.

Chicago, March 7.—I read your editorial of today on "Pius XI. to the Americans." Your remarks concerning the pope's recent criticism of American morals bore signs of disrespect for the judgment of one whom the whole Christian world must recognize as their supreme father. You cannot deny the pope was right and still be honest. You cannot deny him the right of criticism. You yourself are exercising that right daily.

We Catholics believe that the pope is the true successor of St. Peter, prince of the apostles, and our belief is supported by biblical teaching and historical tradition. To him, as to Peter, Christ gave the supreme authority to teach, govern and sanctify men. Whereas his authority affects Roman Catholics and that solely in spiritual matters, his God given mission was to exercise his influence over and beyond those who are subject to him. The pope's words are authoritative and must be listened to by Catholics. As for others, while they do not look up to him as a supreme ruler and teacher, they ought to stop and consider what he has to say, if for nothing else, at least for the following reasons: Popes are generally very intellectual men and therefore their judgments are mature. Alongside of this their erudition is immense owing to so many sources of information that they have access to. Furthermore, their piety is co-extensive with their science.

You don't have to be an eyewitness in order to pass a remark about conditions. Reliable reports form sufficient bases for honest criticism. The complaint heard on all sides about the laxity of morals in our youth and the diminution of parental control is enough to make us admit honestly that the pope is pronouncing a fact. We must not be attacked because a prominent person passes some constructive criticism. The pope's words were not said in ridicule. Rather there was a tone of lament in his utterance which seemed to have come from a heart aching for the welfare of man and the salvation of souls.

REV. AUGUST PUSATERI.

THE VETERANS' BUREAU.

Chicago, March 3.—Perhaps a few remarks at this time in your paper will keep the war veterans' bureau where it belongs. When I worked in the marine hospital I remember they had a long out-patient station for convalescent invalids. The marine hospital is only 4000 north on the lake front.

To move the veterans' bureau from 111 North Canal street to the Speedway hospital will mean that they will be unable to comply with their obligations to me for psychoneurosis incurred in the world war. There must be many injured ex-service men who work in the loop like me who can go in a short time to 111 North Canal street. A better location in the loop for the bureau is my recommendation.

HARD BOILED REPTILES LURK IN EVERGLADES

Rattlers, Moccasins, and 'Gators Abound.

[A few days after reporting the Miami prize fights, Mr. Pegler went over to Palm Beach and then through the near-by Everglades to observe the pioneering, courageous, and often tragic lives of the people in that isolated region so near the nation's winter society center. This is the second of three dispatches covering Mr. Pegler's impressions.]

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Palm Beach, Fla.—[Special.]—With the exceptions of some cracker fishermen and alligator hunters and a small colony of Dunkards who had migrated from Virginia looking for that isolation which seems to be the desire of all long haired or otherwise queer religious sects, the Everglades of the eastern and southern shores of Lake Okeechobee were shunned by man until along toward the time when the coastal real estate boom began to wane in 1925.

This is no history, so I do not undertake to trace the reclamation and settlement of the glades step by step, but I may indicate how forbidding was this sinister country, lying just behind the fabulous luxury of Palm Beach, by citing the experience of one family of pioneers who settled on the eastern border of the Everglades, only thirteen miles from the sea, twelve years ago.

The state of Florida had made a beginning on the plan to drain the glades by means of canals and this family settled on a tract fronting on the Palm Beach canal, now one of six such outlets to the sea. There was no road at that recent time, however, so this homesteader, whose thriving groves now skirt a paved highway, went out to his land with his family in a skiff driven by an outboard motor and for some years afterward carried his produce to town by boat.

Neighborly Tolerant.

I have always been prejudiced against poisonous reptiles and am likely to give them a bad name, but I want to be fair, so I will state that the people living in this country nowadays speak with neighborly tolerance of the rattler, which abounds on the sandy coastal border of the glades, and of the two varieties of moccasin, both quite venomous, which inhabit the marshy country further inland.

Tom Bensel, who lives on a dairy farm at the outer edge of the territory, less than half an hour's run from Palm Beach, tells me that the rattlers on his place are very shy and hiddable. In the last five years he has found it necessary to kill no more than twenty of them for breaches of manners and the floor of his living room is cluttered, for I cannot say adorned, by the stuffed carcass of a five foot alligator, the only one which ever disputed his authority on his own acres.

This alligator was a matron with a foal or minnow at her side, and when Mr. Bensel came upon her in a shallow slough, she snapped at him, a capital offense, so Tom lassoed her and got his gun and death was the price of the alligator's maternal apprehension. The young one was captured and, after several adventurous escapes, became an inmate of the fountain in a public building in Savannah, Ga.

Moccasins Friendly.

The moccasins prefer the marshy inland country but they do swim the canals up to the very limits of West Palm Beach and, in one hour's drive from town, I witnessed three of them beside the road, which indicated to one of my active imagination that they must be doing quite well notwithstanding the encroachments of man upon the domain of their ancestors. I remember one in particular, a fat, sluggish party with a blunt, black tail, lying on a small bridge in the sun and raising his head, as I stopped to study him, at the automobiles which passed him by.

He seemed upset, for he licked the air nervously, revealing the whiteness of his mouth, but too lazy to flee, and it was only with most ostentatious dignity that he dragged himself presently to the end of the bridge and vanished into the boundless blanket of moonvine covering the land to the horizon.

When I went out with Jim Mather of South Bay, an engineer, alumnus of Georgia Tech, employed in the construction of the irrigation ditches of the South Florida Conservancy district, he explained to me that the big, fat moccasin with the black tail, like the rattler of the sandy lands, was not at all belligerent and certain to yield ground to man and retire to some other position unless inadvertently cornered or startled. The other moccasin, the small, lively one, though, had a contentious disposition and might strike without much provocation, which possibility, however, so he said to me, might be set down as a peril no more ominous than the industrial risks or the hazards of traffic which make life brisk and uncertain in large cities.

Cottonmouth Stupid.

"The cottonmouth," he said, "is as stupid as an angelworm. I have met them often while out surveying, but you usually carry a machete to cut your way through the brush and vines and it is no trouble at all to cut them in half as you would cut down a weed. We have no rattlers back in the marshy country."

The alligators have all but vanished from the borders of Okeechobee, killed off by commercial hunters who prowled the country before agriculture became a serious concern, or driven away to the fastnesses of the cypress swamps lying to the southward. I saw one, a mere fingerling of his species, as he flopped into the water from the black muck bank of a canal, and the only adventure with an alligator that Mr. Mather could report was that of a surveyor who slid down a bank and kicked a mugger on the nose.

"She hit him a slap in the face with her tail," he said, "and like to have knocked him silly, and then she started chewing his leg. I think she was one the boys had all been trying to catch for a long time. Anyway, this fellow had to have the doctor, and the alligator got back into the canal and got away."

These, however, and the ever present peril of the floods are the stimulating possibilities in the lives of the present day pioneers, white and black, who are tilling a soil so rich and so favored by the climate that the best acres in Iowa seem scrawny and mean by comparison. The six drainage canals have drawn off the surface water from nearly 500,000 acres of ground without a stone to challenge the serene progress of the plow, as black as soot and eight feet deep, on the average, above a stratum of porus coral rock.

For miles along the road I saw beans growing and blue cabbages as big as basketballs, Bermuda onions, and forests of sugar cane set out by the Dahlberg interests of Chicago, who own 180,000 acres, two whole towns, and two raw sugar mills. The Dahlberg concern came down to the glades to grow cane as the raw material for that gray fiber board which is used to subdue noises in city offices and to insulate modern homes against heat and cold, but up to this time the cane that has been ground is being fed back into the furnaces, as is done in Cuba, as fuel. But the sugar and fiber industries are still a-borning, for the first run of cane was ground only a year ago and there are at present only 11,000 acres under cultivation.

Next year this will have become a 30,000 acre plantation in two main sections, one at Canal Point, the other at Clewiston, both lake shore towns, and five years from now the raw sugar will have become mere by-product or salable offal incidental to the production of the fiber. By that time the furnaces will be burning oil fuel and factories will be pressing the dead chaff of the sugar cane into slabs for building material for the market on the shores of Okeechobee.

In the lobby of the company hotel in Clewiston a notice told of the recent completion of a nine hole golf course for the white employés, technical experts, overseers, and clerical staff, who live some with their families, in a state suggesting that of Englishmen among the brown brothers in the outposts of the empire. Although Clewiston is a town of 2,500, it has no corporate being, but retains the informal character of a mere place in which a lot of people live under the administration of an efficient paternal business corporation.

Negroes Live Apart.

The Negroes, mill and field hands, live in a zone apart, a place called Harlem, in barracks and cabins where white men are forbidden between sundown and sunup.

As in the Negro quartere on most large plantations, the pale was established to guard the privacy of the black men against the dangerous provocations which might be offered by drunken white boys out helling around at night, and also to keep out peddlers selling Brazilian diamonds and professional gamblers.

Right to Graft.

The inalienable right of the Florida officeholder to help himself to graft close to the source has not been waived even in this hard pressed community where money is still scarce and in every crossroads store and gasoline station one finds batteries of those pernicious mechanical pickpockets, the slot machines, geared to pay a return of about one to twenty, and constantly skimming the spare quarters, dimes, nickels, and even the pennies of the pioneers. The customary division of this loot is thirty per cent to the owner of the store, thirty per cent to concessionaire who owns the machines and holds the district franchise from the political boss of the region, and the remainder to the boss, individually, or to the party's county purse.

Prohibition is enforced only in the sense that the imported liquor which the winter tourists buy along the seacoast is too expensive for the pioneers, who therefore drink shine, home brew, and a hundred other horrible varieties of silage made from roots, grapes, potatoes, and mash with a brown sugar ingredient to accelerate the fermentation.

"No, sir," said a young blood of the district, "we haven't got no preachers messin' around about prohibition back here. Preachers can't make no money back here. Preachers got to work like the rest of the folks. So we ain't got but the one preacher in our town and he's a right nice fella, workin' his land on week days and preachin' on Sundays and Wednesday nights if anybody's amind to come and listen. But he don't pay no mind about the drinkin'."

HANDSOMEST PARISIAN SUES MRS. KRESGE FOR BREACH OF PROMISE

New York, March 10.—[Special.]—Preliminary papers in a $500,000 breach of promise suit against Mrs. Doris Mercer Kresge, former wife of S. S. Kresge, the 5 and 10 cent store magnate, and known as America's richest divorcee, were filed in Supreme court here today.

The plaintiff is one Michel Rosenberg, French real estate dealer, who was sometimes known in his native city of Paris as the "handsomest of all boulevardiers."

In his papers the Parisian realtor avers the vivacious Mrs. Kresge encouraged his ardent attentions for some four months or more in his own gay home town, agreeing with him to "intermarry," only to repulse him in the end and refuse point-blank to go through with the ceremony.

No! Mr. Burton Holmes

We won't sweep the ground with our skirts!

In your lecture on "London" recently we shuddered when we saw the "girls of the nineties" sweeping along the London street in their voluminous skirts and "queer" hats—and we don't want you to think for a single minute that we intend to be like them simply because we've returned to a degree of grace and discarded the boyish for something a little more feminine.

We've learned the lesson of CLOTHES FOR THE OCCASION. We'll wear really long skirts ONLY in the evening where they belong—and in the daylight hours you'll never see them lower than middle calf. We'll still excel in sports because our skirts for active wear will be free as ever and almost as short—upper calf.

BUT—

please don't ask us to go back to the unbecoming short skirts of after the war where we all turned "boy" to assert our new found freedom. We've learned the lesson that clothes can be free and still retain the charm of the "eternally feminine."

We think we've struck the happy medium this spring and you'll think so too, if you see the clothes FIELD'S is showing for spring in the

Why You Should Never Cut a Corn

If you are troubled with corns or callouses, do not run the risk of blood poisoning by paring them. Statistics show that many deaths have occurred from this seemingly innocent practice of paring corns.

Simply go to your druggist and get a few cents worth of Ice-Mint, rub a little on any painful corn or callous. Immediately the pain will disappear and in a short time the corn or callous will loosen and lift off easily with the fingers—root and all—leaving the surrounding skin in a healthy normal condition.

This, together with the fact that Ice-Mint overcomes such affections as sore, tired, aching, puffed or burning feet and makes them cool, easy and comfortable, is probably responsible for the hearty endorsement given it by druggists.

To rid one's feet of every hard corn, soft corn, corn between the toes or painful callouses in such a pleasant and safe way, makes it seem the height of folly for anyone to pare a corn and people are urged to stop it.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (Adv.)

HIS REPUTATION FACED RUIN, SO PASTOR SHOT 2

Rev. J. A. Wilson Got Back Love Note to Widow.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ottawa, Ill., March 10.—[Special.]—"I was very much disturbed. I thought my reputation might be ruined. I fired two shots at Mr. Elliott. I fired two shots at his wife. I just turned loose and let them have it."

Staring through the bars of his cell, the Rev. James A. Wilson, 60 year old pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of Mendota, Ill., today gave his version of the shooting of two of his parishioners. He shot them, he said, because they held proof of his love affair with Mrs. Emma K. Wagner, comely widow of his congregation. The minister is married.

A grand jury this afternoon was asked to indict the pastor for assault with attempt to kill. One of his victims, Amos Elliott is not yet out of danger as a result of a bullet wound near the heart. His wife has recovered and was a witness before the grand jury which will report Wednesday.

In Cell for Six Weeks.

The Rev. Mr. Wilson has been in a cell for six weeks unable to furnish the bond of $30,000 demanded by State Attorney Russell O. Hanson.

When an indiscreet letter he had written to Mrs. Wagner fell into the hands of Mr. and Mrs. Elliott and they announced their intention of showing it to the church trustees, the Rev. Mr. Wilson loaded his pistol and went to the Elliott home, where he shot them both.

The stories of all those involved are here given for the first time. They reveal the pastor as a man accounted saintly by his supporters, yet who made love to the good looking widow while his wife sat at home; a man who preached a masterful sermon yet who shot the Elliotts because he dreaded an attack upon his reputation.

Widow Tells Her Story.

Mrs. Wagner, who was wooed by the pastor, tells her story first. A devoted churchwoman, she became acquainted with the Rev. Mr. Wilson when he came to Mendota from Plano, Ill., three years ago. Two years ago her husband died, and the pastor intoned the burial services and laid a consoling hand upon her shoulder when she wept.

"The Rev. Mr. Wilson first became very friendly with me last October," she continued. "He began to visit my home frequently. He complained that he wasn't happy in his family life and had not been in love with his wife for 15 years. He suggested a romance with me.

"I told him no, for he would be looked down on by the congregation. I reminded him that he was a minister. He said that made no difference.

"A week later he came back and renewed his entreaties. He told me that if I continued to repulse him he would go to Chicago and find someone else. I told him again that a minister shouldn't be that way. He said he loved me more than any one else in the world. He asked me to give him just one kiss and hug. I repulsed him. I told him to go home and hug and kiss his wife. He groaned and said he couldn't stand that. He seized my hands and pleaded with me, but I again refused him and he left."

Shut Door in His Face.

Finally, when the minister later called at her home, Mrs. Wagner said, she shut the door in his face. It was then he wrote the letter which led up to the shooting. This letter was as follows:

"My Dear Mrs. Wagner:

"All I want is your forgiveness. O, if I could only recall those words that offended you, they would never be spoken again. When I think of what I have meant to you and of how you feel towards me now it almost kills me. It seems to be more than I can bear.

"This trouble has upset me so completely that I went to Chicago and consulted a physician and while there I prepared myself to end it all, but when I think of the eternal destiny of my soul I shudder at the thought.

"I confess that I have made a mistake and I beg you forgive me and let us just be as we were before. If you will do that it will mean much to me, and, if not, then I do not know how it will finally go with me. Your sorrowing friend, WILSON."

Frightened at the minister's entreaties, Mrs. Wagner confided in her best friend, Mrs. Elliott. She gave the letter to Mrs. Elliott and the latter and her husband let it be known that they intended to complain to the church board. On last Jan. 29 the pastor heard of this. His own story of what happened follows:

"I went to the Elliott home about 4 o'clock in the afternoon to secure the letter which I had written to Mrs. Wagner. My wife went with me. Mr. Elliott was alone and he said his wife had the letter. I went home and got the gun, which I had purchased in Chicago on Nov. 17, and loaded it. I put it in my right hand overcoat pocket and kept my hand on it.

"I told Mrs. Elliott I had heard she was circulating a letter which was damaging to my character and asked her if she had it. I asked to see it. She held it out and I took it and put it in my left-hand pocket.

"Then Mr. Elliott asked me if I wrote the letter. I said I did and what had he been doing with it. He grabbed the letter out of my pocket. We scuffled and he started to run.

"I pulled the gun from my pocket and fired two shots at him. I fired two shots at Mrs. Elliott. I just turned loose and let them have it."

One bullet entered Elliott's breast near the heart and another pierced the wall near him. A third bullet pierced Mrs. Elliott's breast and shoulder, narrowly missing the heart. A fourth plumped into a door near her head. Then the pastor ran outside, smoking revolver in hand. He emptied the gun and reloaded it, then started down the street towards the home of Mrs. Wagner.

The minister demanded to see Mrs. Wagner, but she refused to come to the door. He then went home and when a policeman appeared to arrest him fired five shots in what he said was an attempt at suicide. Only one bullet touched him, inflicting a slight scalp wound.

The minister's wife, who has declared she will assist her husband in his trial, had little to say about the affair.

SAY WOMAN SOUGHT DEATH.

Mrs. Christine Chism, 28 years old, 4065 Sheridan road, attempted to commit suicide, according to police, by drinking poison yesterday at her home after a quarrel with her husband. She was taken to the American hospital, where it was said she will recover.

Bundled up, he does not get the Sun's protecting rays

—and so he needs Bottled Sunshine!

Physicians are warning mothers of a serious danger to their babies which is caused by lack of sunshine.

It is the danger that their bones and teeth will not form properly; will be soft and porous instead of solid and strong. Even breast-feeding does not keep them safe.

A protective factor (Vitamin D) must be supplied to build strong bones and sound teeth. Science has found two common sources of this factor—sunshine and good cod-liver oil!

Enough direct sunshine on his bare body would keep your baby safe. But clothing, clouds, fog and smoke make this almost impossible. Even ordinary window glass filters out the rays that protect.

So physicians have turned to Bottled Sunshine—good cod-liver oil—as the most practical means of ensuring correct formation of your baby's bones and teeth.

In prescribing cod-liver oil, thousands of baby specialists insist upon Squibb's because it is so rich in two essential vitamins—Vitamin D which is necessary for building strong bones and sound teeth, and Vitamin A which promotes growth and increases resistance to many infections.

Your physician will tell you that your baby needs the protection given by Squibb's Cod-Liver Oil. All good drug stores have it. Plain and Mint-flavored.

Plain facts on the cost of a $200 loan from "HOUSEHOLD"

Proving that* Family Loans *cost much less than most people expect when made this friendly, confidential way . . . . . .

Here's $200 in cash. We'll lend it to you for 30 days for $5—or give you 20 months to repay at 2½% a month on the unpaid principal.

Because the amount of interest you pay reduces as you repay the principal a $200 loan for 6 months costs only an average of $2.91 a month.

Even if you take the full 20 month period to repay your loan—the average monthly cost of your $200 loan is only $2.63.

Save nearly one-third interest cost by borrowing from "Household"

MANY people are surprised to find how little a loan from "Household" actually costs. Some can hardly believe that $5 will secure an advance of $200 for 30 days. Yet, even if you keep the $200 for the full 20 months, for which period all "Household" loans are made, and repay in equal monthly payments, your average monthly cost will be only $2.63.

These low rates are made possible because "Household" limits its service to the higher class loans of $100 to $300. While "Household" is aware that loans of less than $100 and certain classes of loans of larger amounts require the rate of 3½% a month, "Household" by making loans of $100 to $300 only, has been able to reduce its interest rate to 2½% per month on the unpaid principal—thus passing on to its customers this saving of nearly one-third.

If you are now paying 3½% per month, on loans of $100 to $300, you can save nearly one-third by borrowing from "Household" at 2½% per month.

WHAT YOU SAVE

Amount of Loan	Time	Saving
$100	6 months	$ 3.50
200	6 months	7.00
300	6 months	10.50
$100	20 months	$10.52
200	20 months	21.04
300	20 months	31.56

No Fines — No Fees
No Deductions

When you borrow $200 from "Household" you get $200. No outside signers are required. No inquiries are made through your friends or business associates. You get the full amount of the money you need—$100 to $300—without delay.

When you need extra money, come in, write or phone and let us explain the "Household" Plan.

A MESSAGE TO PARENTS

But there is a gleam of light in this dark picture. Last year Chicago, of all the cities with a population in excess of a million, with an increase in car registration of 44,000 and an increase in school registration of 7,000, showed a decrease in fatalities. Forty-one fewer children were killed in 1929 than in 1928.

This saving of life was effected by means of safety education. It is certain that if we teach children that playing in the streets, crossing streets in the middle of the block, hitching on cars, and begging rides are dangerous practices, we shall reduce accidents.

This is precisely the work that the accident prevention department of the Chicago Motor Club is carrying out with the full co-operation of educators everywhere in the sixty-two counties in Illinois and Indiana that comprise the club territory.

You have seen the white-belted boys who stand at the crossings near the schools? What a great protection these boys are for the smaller children! See them with outstretched arms, detaining those restless, impatient tots! And then when a lull in traffic comes, how proudly and carefully they escort their charges across the street.

The Chicago Motor Club last year organized 215 of these schoolboy patrol units. Badges and belts amounting to almost thirty thousand were supplied to the boys by the club. The ninety thousand members of the organization who are supporting this work take pride in the accomplishments of these young life-savers.

Trained safety workers last year gave 475 accident prevention talks to children throughout the club territory. Hundreds of teachers in public, parochial and Lutheran schools have written letters expressing their appreciation of this work and commenting upon the excellent effect it has had on the children.

During the year the club distributed more than a quarter of a million safety posters to the schools. These posters, which dwell upon some phase of the hazards of the street, are published monthly.

Child safety is but one of the important phases of the work of the accident prevention department. Likewise, accident prevention work is one of the many activities of the club. In addition to this service, other services are maintained for the benefit of members only. Some of these services are: Free mechanical first aid and towing service at any hour of the day or night; home district service, which attends to special conditions around your home, such as seeing to it that refuse is promptly removed; travel service, which provides you with maps, logs and the most complete and up to the minute advice on road conditions; and bail bond service, which guarantees your appearance in traffic violation cases, where a bond not in excess of one hundred dollars is demanded.

Another benefit available to members is the insurance service, which gives you a valued form policy, insures accessories without additional cost, and which last year returned cash savings to subscribers amounting to $711,332.11. You receive a check for your share of the savings to do with as you please. There is a branch in your neighborhood. Write or call for further information.

BYRD, SCIENTIST, SHIES AT BYRD, POLAR AIR HERO

Insists Findings Exceed Importance of Flight.

DUNEDIN, New Zealand, March 10.—(AP)—The plaudits of civilization were received today by Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, U. S. N., and his party after fourteen months of exploration in the Antarctic, during which they flew the American flag over the south pole.

All day crowds swarmed about his two ice scarred vessels, the Eleanor Bolling and the City of New York, which yesterday entered Dunedin harbor accompanied by a procession of welcoming vessels.

Byrd Stresses Achievements.

Not only Byrd, but every one of his 41 men who braved the hardships and hazards of the polar regions were warmly greeted by this city of 85,000, which often has sent forth expeditions into that unknown region guarded by a barrier of ice encompassing mountains more than 14,000 feet high. Although Byrd continued today to stress other achievements, popular fancy clung to his heroic flight with three companions over the south pole.

But Byrd himself insisted that the outstanding achievements of his expedition were the exploring of 280,000 square miles of previously unmapped country and the work done by geologists and other scientists.

Byrd's polar flight began Nov. 28 from the Bay of Whales at the base of the great barrier. It lasted 17 hours and 39 minutes. With Bernt Balchen at the controls, Byrd's airplane forced its way over mountain tops and circled the pole, which is at an elevation of 9,069 feet.

Praises Scott, Amundsen.

Unable to land at the pole because of the roughness of the terrain, the tri-motored plane flew back to the Ross barrier base camp, refueled, and continued on to the Bay of Whales, Little America, Byrd's main camp.

While giving full credit to the courage of the three men who accompanied him on his flight over mountain tops with temperatures far below zero, Byrd directed attention rather to the achievements of Roald Amundsen and Robert F. Scott. Amundsen, he pointed out, reached the south pole by sled journey, Dec. 14, 1911, and the heroic Scott and his party arrived there to learn that only a little more than a month previously Amundsen had placed the banner of Norway first at the goal, ahead of Britain's flag. Scott, with all of his party, perished in a blizzard in returning from the pole.

Tribute was paid also today to the flight by Byrd, in which he rescued a stranded geological party, whose plane has been destroyed in a terrific storm over a mountain range.

HAITI FACES NEW CRISIS AS BORNO BOLTS U. S. PLAN

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

CAPE HAITIEN, March 10.—The Haitian crisis, which yesterday appeared to have been solved with President Borno's acceptance of a plan presented by the Hoover investigating commission for an early return to representative government, was revived in dangerous form today.

Borno, after pledging to cooperate in immediate steps looking toward a popular election of a legislature in the next few months, reversed himself.

Borno's Foes Feel Betrayed.

As a result opposition factions, who only a few days ago were threatening to resist the Borno government, even at the cost of facing American machine guns, feel they have been betrayed, and their leaders, in cooperation with American officials, are making strenuous efforts to reassure them and allay the excitement which still holds the possibility of serious results in the capital.

President Hoover's commission, which is now on a tour of the island, will cut its trip short and start back to the capital Wednesday. The commission was kept informed of developments throughout the day by telephone from Port au Prince.

U. S. Warns President.

It sent Borno an unequivocal demand to repair the damage he had done, together with a thinly veiled threat that, if his attitude provoked the opposition to violence, he need not look to the marines for protection, but that their functions will be limited in protecting American lives and property.

GIRL, 6, SHOT AS BOY FIRES GUN HE FOUND

Evelyn Chick, 6 years old, was in the American hospital last night in a serious condition after having been shot with a sawed off shotgun by Derrel Francis, 6 years old, in the rear of the Waveland Apartment hotel at 816 Waveland avenue, where the children live. The boy said he found the gun lying in the rear of the apartment building.

The boy pointed the weapon at Evelyn in play and pulled the trigger, a charge of buckshot entering both her legs. At the hospital it was said that while she probably will recover, amputation of her legs may be necessary.

The police believe the gun was thrown away by a bandit who robbed Mrs. Grace Gentzler, manager of the hotel, on Saturday, after threatening her with a shotgun. The bandit escaped with $10 after binding Mrs. Gentzler.

HOME OF STORE OWNER ROBBED.

TWO MEN DEAD, 87 RESCUED IN OHIO MINE FIRE

Caused by Underground Trolley Accident.

Steubenville, O., March 10.—(AP)—Two miners were known tonight to have lost their lives in the fire at the Wolf Run mine of the Warner collieries near Amsterdam, O., this afternoon. One miner was injured.

Company officials announced that all miners trapped by the flames had been accounted for. Eighty-seven men were rescued. The dead were Paul Borkowski, 65, and Jack Pewosky, 37.

The flames originated when one of the cars on a six car train jumped the track and pulled off the trolley, causing a short circuit that released a shower of sparks. Some of the miners were working in a section which was walled off by the blaze before they could escape.

Rush Through Flames.

The flames covered the passageway to the main entrance, but five men took the chance of running through. They reached the main shaft and were lifted to safety unhurt. Two rescue squads of thirty-five men entered the workings through the main entrance and the east opening.

Fumes Spread with Fire.

Fans that were working were reversed to pull the smoke away from the trapped men, but fumes spread with the fire. The first of the trapped miners were found in the east section at the edge of the fire area. There were twenty-six men in this group, nearly all of them covered with protecting canvas.

A short time later nine more men were found farther back in the workings. Three of them were nearing the point of suffocation.

Within the next two hours the rescue squads had brought out thirty-three more men and the east section had been cleared. When the rescue squads reached Borkowski the aged man was dead. Borkowski's body and the last of the men known to be in the mine were brought out about 8:30 p. m. Rescuers said Pewosky had probably been buried under a fall of slate.

HARRY L. HALDEMAN, CAPITALIST, COLLAPSES IN LOS ANGELES COURT

Los Angeles, Cal., March 10.—[Special.]—Harry L. Haldeman, capitalist and civic leader, dropped dead in the witness box today while testifying in a civil action in Superior Judge Edward Engs' court.

Mr. Haldeman was president of Pacific Pipe and Supply company and a director and official in a chain of banks and business enterprises. He was born in Oil City, Pa., fifty-nine years ago, and was with the Crane company, in Chicago, as an executive from 1902 to 1910.

Mr. Haldeman was one of the founders of the Better America federation and was active in Republican politics in California.

1,200 PATIENTS FILE TO SAFETY IN ASYLUM FIRE

Jacksonville, Ill., March 10.—[Special.]—Twelve hundred patients in the Jacksonville State Hospital for the Insane marched to safety this morning when fire broke out in the cupola of the administration building and did damage of $150,000 before it was extinguished. Two attendants were injured by falling embers.

Citizen volunteers joined with attendants in removing the hospital records and hundreds of pieces of furniture and fixtures.

When the fire was discovered the fire drill signal was sounded and all of the patients trooped out in an orderly manner and were quartered in the gymnasium and other buildings. The majority of them, however, were back in their own quarters tonight.

Dr. St. Clair Drake, the managing officer, formerly of Chicago, was the last to leave the building. He led the institution's firemen in aiding the Jacksonville fire department.

CIVIC GROUPS TO HEAR OFFICIALS ON HARBOR PLANS

Forty civic organizations of Chicago and Indiana will be represented at the special "Harbor Forum" meeting of the East Side Chamber of Commerce on Thursday evening, at St. Petri's Community hall at 103d and Ewing avenue. Ald. William A. Rowan [10th], chairman of the association's harbor committee, will preside.

Maj. Rufus W. Putnam, representing the Commercial club, is to talk on "Harbors of the Calumet" and Commissioner of Public Work Wolfe will outline Chicago's plans for the development of a harbor in Lake Calument.

According to Ald. Rowan, figures will be presented to show that since Indiana began building harbors in the Calumet region—three since 1906—the assessed valuation of that section has increased from $33,000,0000 in 1905 to $434,000,000 in 1928.

Forced to Open Safe at Oil Station; Robbers Get $646

Thomas Purcell, 11328 Watt avenue, attendant in a Standard Oil filling station at 115th and Green streets, was robbed of $646 last night by two gunmen who forced him to open a safe in the station. Purcell told the Morgan Park police that he had neglected to take the week-end receipts to the bank yesterday, accounting for the large sum of money in the station.

"They work while you sleep"

Cascara is Good for the System

What do you do when a sluggish system tells you the bowels need a little help?

The best thing yet discovered for the purpose is still the little candy Cascaret! Take one whenever the liver and bowels are not functioning as they should.

Cascarets are pleasing to the palate, and pleasant in their action. You eat them just like candy. They work while you sleep. Gentle, but thorough. Cascarets don't stir-up the stomach or upset the system. But they cleanse the entire thirty feet of bowels in one comfortable, thorough action that leaves the system clean and sweet; leaves you with an untainted breath, uncoated tongue, and clear head.

Cascarets are made of cascara—long regarded one of the most beneficial laxatives known to medical science. They are sweetened with pure cane sugar and flavored with real licorice. Children love them. So do most grown-ups! Why take anything harsh when constipation threatens? Whenever a dull headache, lassitude, or sick stomach with loss of appetite warns you of poor elimination, a Cascaret or two is the most harmless form of help you could give a lagging system.

Take a candy Cascaret tonight and see how fine you'll feel in the morning—and for days after.

WICKERSHAM QUIZ SCANS DRY LAW'S FAILURE

"Shocking Conditions" in Cities Revealed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 10.—[Special.]—Voluminous evidence showing the breakdown of prohibition enforcement, especially in the large cities, has been amassed at secret hearings by the Wickersham law enforcement commission during the last few weeks, it was learned today.

Although the commission's sessions have been held behind closed doors, reports leaking out unofficially are that shocking conditions have been pictured before the investigators by witnesses from Chicago, New York, and other urban centers. It is known that among the witnesses have been prohibition officials from those cities, some of whom have testified dry law violations are widespread despite honest enforcement efforts.

Will Plead for Beer.

Representative L. C. Dyer [Rep., Mo.], one of the members of the house judiciary committee, announced today he has been invited to testify before the law enforcement commission Wednesday. He will make a plea in behalf of his bill to legalize the sale of 2.75 per cent beer which, he contends, is permissible under the Volstead act. In a recent exchange of letters with Mr. Dyer, George W. Wickersham, chairman of the commission, expressed disapproval of the Dyer plan, but agreed to have it formally presented to the members.

While the Wickersham commission was going forward with its inquiry the dry organizations today were completing their preparations for "women's day" at the house committee hearings Wednesday. Ten dry feminine witnesses are scheduled to appear.

Mrs. Ford Praises Law.

Preliminary to the speech making Wednesday, Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, chairman of the women's national committee for law enforcement, made public a telegram from Mrs. Henry Ford, echoing the dry message sent to the committee by her husband.

COUNTERFEITING PROBLEM CALLS CALLAGHAN EAST

Capt. Thomas J. Callaghan, head of the secret service here, was to leave this morning for Washington to confer with his superior, W. H. Moran, regarding counterfeiting, which is a problem to federal authorities in the east.

It was reported yesterday at the federal building that Capt. Callaghan is being considered for the post of chief investigator for the Hoover commission on law observance and enforcement, and that while in Washington he will consult George W. Wickersham, chairman of the commission.

Capt. Callaghan said that only two counterfeit $10 bills have been found in this area since the appearance of the new currency, while New York and Washington are being flooded with the $10 bills of the new size. From 300 to 400 a month are passed in New York alone, he said.

WASHINGTON NOTES

C., March 10.—(AP)—A new plan for consolidation of all governmental agencies dealing with war veterans, under a new establishment to be known as the "administration of veterans' affairs," was proposed in a bill introduced today by Chairman Williamson of the house expenditures committee.

The oil pollution act of 1924 would be amended to apply to the great lakes under a bill introduced by Representative Hudson [Rep., Mich.].

Foreseeing the time when babies will be born in submarines underneath the surface of the sea and in aircraft far in the clouds, Chairman Johnson of the house immigration committee, introduced a bill to provide that an immigrant born in either craft shall have the nationality of its father.

Republican political prospects in Texas were pictured to President Hoover today as highly favorable by Robert B. Creager, Republican national committeeman from that state, who predicted Texas Republicans would nominate a "Hoover Democrat" to oppose former Gov. James Ferguson should the Democrats nominate him for governor.

Eighteen army officers were ordered to sail for France on the steamship President Harding, April 15, to assist in arrangements for the war mothers' pilgrimage to the graves of their sons.

A New and Better Shave by Gillette

A new Blade
A new Razor

(PATENTS PENDING)

THE GREATEST SHAVING IMPROVEMENT IN 28 YEARS

MILLIONS of faithful, well-worn Gillettes are now going to win an honorable discharge. Sure—they're good old razors! And if you have to wait for your dealer to get his supply of the New Gillette Razor, your old Gillette will operate with the new blades.

But once you have tried the New Gillette Blade in the New Gillette Razor you will never be satisfied to shave with anything else!

Many important changes

What have we done to the Gillette Razor and the Gillette Blade? Not just one thing, or two things, or three. We have made a dozen important changes which, when you add them all together, make an entirely new and greatly improved shaving tool.

Take "razor pull," for example. Do you know why your old Gillette "pulled"? Perhaps you blamed the blade; but the fault was not in the blade. Our laboratories examined tens of thousands of used razors; our engineers talked to twenty-seven thousand hard-to-satisfy shavers.

What did they find? A razor "pulls" because its working parts have been dropped and dented on floor or wash basin.

Perhaps the dent is microscopic. Just the same it makes a difference. When you handle a Gillette, you are dealing with a fine precision tool. Even the smallest dent can throw it out of alignment. Hence "pull." Now look at the corners of the new razor.

The new Gillette Razor, 24K. gold-plated, in beautiful case, complete with New Gillette Blade ..... Price $1.00 Other De Luxe models at $5.00 to $75.00

See those heavy lugs? You can't dent those corners by any ordinary accident. But suppose, by some terrific abuse, you should dent them. Never mind. The ends of the blade have been cut out. The blade is no longer held at the corners. Therefore, a dented razor-corner can't possibly affect the smoothness of your shave.

No more blade wiping

Another thing. The new blades are processed to resist rust. Think what that means in convenience and time saving. No more do you have to take the razor apart to wipe the blade. No more cut towels. Just loosen. Turn guard at right angles. Then re-tighten. Hold under hot running water for rinsing. Shake well. Lay on the shelf.

The old posts are gone. How many a good edge was lost by bumping against those posts. Now the razor blade turns at right angles for rinsing. No taking apart for cleaning.

QUICK FACTS

1. New blade can be used in your old Gillette
2. New processed steel; new blade resists rust
3. Cut-out corners of blade prevent "razor pull"
4. To clean, turn guard at right angles ...then re-tighten...rinse...shake dry
5. New shape guard channel gives full shaving clearance
6. New shape guard teeth meet skin smoothly, naturally
7. No projecting posts to dull blade edges
8. Reinforced razor corners prevent damage if dropped
9. Square blade ends safer to handle
10. Shaves easier around mouth, nose, ears
11. New blades same price as old
12. New razor, 24K. gold-plated, with one new blade, in case, $1.00

New shape guard teeth

Notice the guard teeth . . . longer . . . turned back farther. They glide over the skin like velvet. You hardly feel the razor slide over your face.

See the ends of the blade . . . square . . . not round. Much easier to handle with slippery fingers. Less chance of having to fish for the blade down the drain pipe. And, being almost flush with the cap, the blade shaves much better around the difficult corners of the mouth, ears, and nose. The famous guard channel beneath the blade edge allows the blade to meet the beard full and clear, yet with perfect safety. This has hitherto been an exclusive feature of high priced Gillettes selling at $5.00 to $75.00. Now you have it in the $1.00 model.

See your dealer today

Gillette factories are working at capacity to supply all dealers as soon as possible. See your dealer today. Tomorrow he may be sold out . . . an inconvenient delay for you. Give your face this good news now!

All of which means that for $1 you can buy the greatest shaving improvement, the biggest money's worth in shaving comfort that has been offered in the past twenty-eight years.

$1.00 for ten and 50c for five

SHIRES READY TO SIGN; WAITS SOX CONTRACT

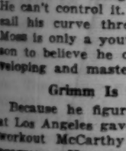
McCarthy Likes His Rookie Hurlers.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., March 10.—The showing of young hurlers during the Cubs' week-end visit to Los Angeles has not discouraged Boss McCarthy.



CHARLEY GRIMM.

After seeing almost all of his possible future greats have their ears pinned back by line drives in two games with the Angels, the Cub chief easily could have been excused had he ordered a general deportation of rookies today. Instead he offered excuses for their flops on the mound, and he may be right.

McCarthy's explanation of what everybody else regarded as a rude shock was that the young hurlers weren't strong enough to employ everything in their repertoire. He says they'll do better later. And he is so confident of this that he has no intention of issuing releases until the squad reaches Kansas City four weeks hence.

Shealy Looked Best.

Of the six newcomers who shared in the distressing two exhibitions at Los Angeles there was only one who actually performed in keeping with the uniform he was wearing. This was Al Shealy, the six footer who did a stretch with the Yankees. Shealy worked the last two rounds in the Saturday fracas and gave up only one hit, which was a scratch to Grimm. By experience he has learned what pitching is all about, and it is more or less of a cinch that McCarthy expects to keep him as a rescue artist. A man who can go in and save a game occasionally is something the Cubs need.

Moss, the collegiate southpaw, was one of the three who shared the Sunday jolt, but even in distress he displayed enough to draw favorable comment from Beans Reardon, National league arbiter, who was working behind the plate. After the game Reardon told McCarthy that the kid had a lot more stuff than many pitchers who are winners in the Heydler circuit.

In the three rounds he hurled Moss had two good sessions. The one that wasn't so good was marked by three hits and two passes. He might have avoided this flurry if he hadn't been told to confine himself to a fast ball, which is the thing he must develop. He can't control it. However, he can nail his curve through a knot hole. Moss is only a youth, so there is reason to believe he can succeed by developing and mastering a fast ball.

Grimm Is Up Early.

Because he figured the two shows at Los Angeles gave everybody a stiff workout McCarthy lightened today's program. He excused the infielders and outfielders from the usual morning drill, and they showed their appreciation by remaining in bed until noon. Capt. Grimm was the only regular who didn't figure a few hours of extra sleep was worth while. He borrowed Hack Wilson's movie camera and McCarthy's auto, and toured the island in search of interesting subjects for the film.

The pitchers were in uniform before luncheon, but weren't called upon to use their arms. The wings of the rookies were tired after the Los Angeles expedition, and the veterans preferred to wait until afternoon before warming up.

The regular camp routine was resumed in the afternoon. There was bunting and fielding for all hands. Both workouts were conducted under a scorching sun, and there was a complete absence of wind. This made perspiring a simple matter. As usual, Hack Wilson and Pat Malone excelled.

Martin Writes Name on Purdue Roll of Honor

Lafayette, Ind., March 10.—[Special.]—Not alone through its championship football and basketball teams has Purdue won glory in the Big Ten during the record breaking season, 1929-'30. The Boilermakers boast another champion in Orval Martin, long distance runner extraordinary, whose latest feat was the winning of mile and half mile events in the same night at the conference indoor meet at the University of Minnesota.

The records show that in five meets in which he has competed since he began his career as an intercollegiate athlete at Purdue, Martin has won seven Big Ten championships. This was made possible by doubling up in the mile and half mile runs as he did at Minneapolis. At the 1929 outdoor meet at Northwestern last June he won both these events. He also won the individual Big Ten cross country championship in the annual meet at Ohio State last fall.

THE GREAT ONE, LESS VOLUBLE, O. K.'S NEW BOSS

Says He and Bush "Just Like That."

Dallas, Tex., March 10.—(AP)—Art Shires is not going to become a gentleman farmer after all. He is going to play baseball, and for the Chicago White Sox.

His mouth crammed with his favorite brand of eating tobacco, a bat in his hand, and a grin on his face, the erstwhile "bad boy" of baseball confided today that he intended to sign a White Sox contract and join his teammates at San Antonio.

The pugilistically inclined Texan first said he would go to San Antonio tonight. An inning later, after mature deliberation, he had decided to remain here and work out with the Dallas Steers until his contract, which he previously had rejected, came back from Chicago.

"But I'm not a holdout," he made more or less clear. "I'm going to sign and play baseball. I'm just getting to where I can really play this game. I'd be crazy to quit now."

Loses Fly Ball.

Shires was happy when Jakey Atz, manager of the Dallas club, gave him permission to work out with the Steers and threw him a uniform. He played right field in a practice game and had more fun than anybody in the park, even though he did misjudge the first fly that came his way. It landed some ten feet behind him.

"Heck, I'm a first baseman—not an outfielder," he explained cheerfully when he came in to bat.

His first 1930 effort with the stick was equally unimpressive. Homer Blankenship, Dallas right hander, and brother of Ted, White Sox pitcher, crossed him up with a slow one and Art grounded weakly to second.

Art, less voluble than of yore and grown wary of any and all newspapermen, appeared to be in top condition. He said he was only three or four pounds over his best playing weight, the result of his ring campaign. He isn't at all worried that Bud Clancy will beat him out of his first base job with the White Sox.

BUSH CORRECTS SOX

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., March 10.—[Special.]—Donie Bush had his sprightly White Sox athletes out to Van Davis stadium today for their last routine workout of the spring season. A solid schedule of games—23, with the New York Giants included—opens tomorrow at League park here.

Donie, of course, was delighted with the results in the two games with the Giants in Houston. But even so, he had his notebook in hand while his charges were plastering the proud New Yorkers. As a consequence, the session today was a corrective drill more than a conditioning enterprise.

Comparison Is Startling.

Insofar as condition is concerned, the difference between the Sox and the Giants, as displayed in Houston, was rather startling. Rated a much better ball club than the Sox, the Giants suffered greatly by comparison with Bush's men, despite the fact the New York athletes started their training season on the same day as the Sox and, of course, under identical weather conditions. The Giants, furthermore, have had the advantage of ideal training grounds, while the Sox have been operating on an emergency lot.

The advanced state of the Chicagoans is reflected not only in the scores of the two victories. The Sox outhit the Giants in the first game, 12 to 9, and in the second game, 18 to 10. There also was a vast difference in the fielding department. The Sox had one error in the two games—a wide throw to first by Frasier in the first game—while the Giants were guilty of five misplays.

Walker Looks Best.

The Giants stress the absence of Bill Terry and Freddie Lindstrom in moaning about the trimmings they took. Lindstrom probably would have helped the team, but it is doubtful if Terry would have given much more to the team than did Pat Crawford.

As to pitching, Lyons was the only big four pitcher employed by Bush. New York used three of their big four—Fitzsimmons, Hubbell, and Walker. Walker looked in the best shape of the trio.

Jolly Still in Limelight.

Smead Jolly still holds the focus of attention in the absentee business. Those who saw Jim Moore smack out homers in successive innings in Sunday's game with the Giants, opined it would be a good idea for Mr. Smead to get on the ground if he intends to play left field in the season's opener against Cleveland.

Club officials said they haven't heard a word from Jolly. Manager Bush indicated that he's beginning to get impatient with the ponderous one and promised to raise trouble if he doesn't hear something from the former Coast leaguer by tomorrow.

Braves' Hurlers Check Other Members.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 10.—(AP)—The New York Yankees today found their war clubs silenced by two experienced pitchers, Bruce Cunningham and Ed Brandt, with the result that the Boston Braves won their first exhibition game of the season, 7 to 5. Manager Bob Shawkey chose to experiment with youngsters on the mound.

Babe Ruth, who today signed his two year contract which calls for $160,000, got a homer and a triple. The four base swat was his first in four years at the St. Petersburg park. Cooke also made a home run. Score:

CARDS BEAT MACKS, 16-9.

Fort Myers, Fla., March 10.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals today defeated the Philadelphia Athletics, 16 to 9, for the second time in two days. The Cards thus took the lead in the four game series, two to one. The final will be played at Bradentown tomorrow.

REDS HUSTLE; WEIL APPEARS.

Orlando, Fla., March 10.—(AP)—Three outstanding reasons today caused the Cincinnati Reds to dash through their spring training work with unusual vigor. One was the arrival of Sidney Weil, their president, another was the presence of a michrophone and movie camera which recorded their deeds for posterity, and the other was Dan Howley, fiery manager, who drove the squad at top speed for four hours.

MAYOR VISITS PHILS.

Winter Haven, Fla., March 10.—(AP)—Mayor Harry A. Mackey of Philadelphia visited the Phillies' camp today and watched the players work.

In the field drills both Hurst and Jack Sherlock worked at first base. Although the placing of Sherlock at first base inspired gossip, Hurst is said to be a good bet to be the regular first baseman.

LINDSTROM REPORTS.

San Antonio, Tex., March 10.—(AP)—Freddy Lindstrom, star third baseman of the New York Giants, reported for work today but still needs to be convinced he should accept a slash in the salary he drew last year. Lindstrom, who has been recuperating in Florida from a tonsil operation, has not signed a contract and will not, he maintains, until he receives the same salary he got in 1929.

ROSENBLOOM WINS FROM JOHNSON ON FOUL IN SIXTH

New York, March 10.—[Special.]—Maxie Rosenbloom, Harlem's outstanding contender for the world's light heavyweight title, won on a foul over Larry Johnson, hard hitting Chicago Negro, tonight, in the sixth round of the scheduled ten round feature bout at Madison Square Garden. The foul brought to a close a program with an unhappy share of unsatisfactory endings. Twelve thousand saw the bouts.

The disqualification of Johnson was justified. Referee Patsy Haley had no other course, since the blow was palpably erratic, although unintentionally so. The finish came after the sixth round had gone 29 seconds.

The battle started in the whirlwind fashion characteristic of Rosenbloom. The blow which brought Johnson's disqualification was a long, ill-timed affair, aimed at the body as the men left, aimed at the body as the men raced together at close quarters. Under its impact, Rosenbloom sank helpless to the floor of the ring, writhing in pain, rolling over and over.

At the time Rosenbloom held a slight lead on points.

M'Cracken Sets Scoring Mark; Indiana Loses

Minneapolis, Minn., March 10.—[Special.]—Minnesota finished its Big Ten season by defeating Indiana, 34 to 29, in an overtime contest here tonight.

After Earl Loose had tied the score at 26 all in the last two minutes of play and sent the game into the extra period, Don Bondy, Minnesota guard, broke loose for a pair of field goals to clinch the victory for the Gophers.

Branch McCracken, towering Hoosier center, broke Stretch Murphy's Big Ten seasonal scoring record by ringing up three baskets and three free shots. He placed the new mark at 147 points. Lineup:

Chicago Derby Nominations Top Kentucky

BY FRENCH LANE.

The American Derby to be run in Chicago at Washington Park June 14 has stepped on ahead of the Kentucky Derby in the number of nominations for the renewals of the two $50,000 races this year.

The American Derby entry list is not quite complete but a check on the 3 year olds named for the race late yesterday revealed that 164 colts and fillies had been made eligible. The entry list for the Kentucky Derby numbered 149. Less than 100 were nominated for the Preakness stakes, another $50,000 event to be run at Pimlico in Maryland, one week ahead of the Kentucky Derby.

Col. Matt J. Winn, who directs both the Kentucky Derby and the American Derby, found himself in a strange situation last night. His associates in the Churchill Downs track at Louisville were grieving because the American Derby had attracted more entries. His associates at Washington Park were celebrating because the American Derby had attracted more 3 year olds than the Kentucky Derby.

Col. Winn in Predicament.

Col. Winn didn't know whether to grieve with the Kentuckians or celebrate with the Chicagoans. He thinks both Derbies will be great racing spectacles but because Whichone, Boojum, Hi-Jack and Caruso are in the American Derby and are not in the Kentucky Derby there is a possibility, he believes, that the Chicago race will take on more of a championship complexion.

Fred A. Burton of Chicago who owns the crack western 3 year old Dedicate, told Col. Winn during the afternoon to remain strictly neutral. "Dedicate will win both the Kentucky Derby and the American Derby," Mr. Burton said.

Like the Old Days.

Back more than a quarter of a century ago the American Derby always attracted larger fields than the Kentucky Derby. But from the time Highball won the last American Derby at old Washington Park in 1904 until this year the Kentucky Derby stood far ahead.

Chicago and New York owners patronized the Chicago race this year more liberally than they did the Kentucky Derby.

TRIBUNE BOXERS START WORK FOR INTERCITY BOUTS

N. Y. Gets Ready

NEW YORK, N. Y., March 10.—[Special.]—New York's Golden Gloves squad today started its last days of training before heading for Chicago on Friday afternoon for the intercity fights at the Stadium March 19. A long road run through Central park in the morning and a boxing session at the Pioneer in the afternoon comprised the program.

Coach Elliott has ordered double drills for tomorrow, Wednesday, and Thursday. New York's champions will be in the finest of physical shape for the Chicago fights.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Golden Gloves amateur boxing team, which will meet New York in an intercity series of sixteen bouts at the Chicago Stadium on March 19, settled down to intensive training yesterday at the Chicago A. A.

The first meeting of the team reminded one of the opening drills for football practice. The contestants were shown the training room, dressing quarters, and assigned to lockers.

After the boys had been measured for the white uniforms which they will wear on March 19, they were ordered to the gymnasium floor, where Bennie Yanger, coach of the C. A. A. boxing team, Jabber Young, and S. H. Darwent took them in charge.

They were ordered to skip the rope, shadow box, and pull the weights. Large gloves had been purchased to be used by those who wanted to box.

The boys will go on the road this morning and will report for gymnasium drill at 2 o'clock.

Everett Reports with Cold.

Buck Everett of Gary, Ind., 175 pound champion, reported with a slight cold. He was bundled in a heavy sweater and ordered to work on the floor. He boxed three short rounds with Joe Mendoza, runner-up in the class. The bout was featured by plenty of action and both had to be warned to slow down. Jack Kranz, also of Gary, who will be the alternate in the division, came to Chicago with Everett.

Ed Steeve of Champaign, Ill., 160 pound champion, arrived in good shape and made a pleasing impression. He has decided to live at home instead of at the club. John Baima of the Lawndale gymnasium, runner-up in the division, also showed plenty of class in his workouts.

Little Joe Espinoza of Chicago Heights, Ill., flyweight champion, is in fine shape. He skipped the rope and boxed in a most impressive manner. Joe is considered one of the best boxers on the Chicago team and he can hit with either hand. He boxed three interesting rounds with Sidney Kaplan of the Opal A. A., runner-up in the 118 pound division.

Goldblatt Boxes Briskly.

Benny Goldblatt of the Majestic Radio, winner of the 126 pound title, boxed three rounds with Sammy Levine, the alternate in the 112 pound division. Judging from yesterday's performance, Benny will be a strong opponent for the New York 126 pound champion.

Carl Ogren of the Belle Plaine A. C., 147 pound champion, reported a little under weight. He says he fights best when he is three or four pounds under the welterweight limit. Coaches had a task to chase him off the floor and refrain him from working too hard. Earl Watson of Coulon gymnasium, winner of second place in the lightweight class, made an impression with the coaches because of his condition.

Paul Leberto of Barry gymnasium, winner of the 118 pound title, has decided to live at home and do his training at Barry gymnasium. Dave Barry asserted Paul will be in perfect shape when the fights are held.

HE TAKES 'EM FOR A RIDE

Col. Bradley Sells Three Louisiana Derby Eligibles

New Orleans, La., March 10.—[Special.]—Col. Edward R. Bradley today sold three of his Louisiana Derby candidates to H. C. Hatch, Canadian turfman. The colts to change ownership were Brother Bank, Bad News Bob and Black Cloud. The amount of money involved in the transfer was not announced.

MEET "SMILER" FORTNEY, GOLDEN GLOVE CHAMPION

He's Never Yet Lost an Amateur Fight.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The streets of the Negro tenement district lay deserted under dim lamplight. A cat slunk out of a shadowy alley to disappear again through a hole in a sagging and weatherbeaten fence. The windows round about were darkened, all save one through which came the low, weird throbbing of a Negro spiritual, "God's chillun lost in the land of Egypt."

A taxicab careened around a corner and jolted to a stop with a screech of brakes. A vicious looking passenger climbed out deliberately, groping for something in his pocket. An instant later the driver was looking down the muzzle of a gun.

"Why Don't You Shoot?"

The cab driver slipped his gears into first.

"Well," he laughed, "you ain't hogtied. Why don't you shoot?"

Then he was gone like the wind.

The cab driver who looked into the muzzle of a gun and drove away with a careless laugh later stepped into the fight ring at the Coliseum with his happy-go-lucky, carefree air and battered his way to the heavyweight championship in THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves tournament.

Listen for his name when he enters the Chicago Stadium ring on March 19 to battle his New York opponent in the intercity bouts. Listen for his name as the announcer shouts, "In this corner, Grant Fortney!"

Grant Fortney, the fighting cab driver, who smiles at life will answer the gong with the rollicking assurance of a young fellow who fights for fun and who never has known defeat.

Always Can Find a Job.

His has been a rough and ready existence, selling papers at the age of 6, shining shoes at 12, ushering in theaters, toiling in an iron foundry, and now at the age of 21 driving a cab.

"I never have any trouble getting a job," Grant says. "And if I were really up against it I'd never bum a dime for a cup of coffee off anybody. I'd go into a restaurant and say, 'I'm hungry. Give me a mop and I'll earn the price of a meal.'"

Life's been tough, but it hasn't beaten him. Grant's far too gay and light hearted and enthusiastic to let hard luck get under his skin.

And life hasn't cheapened him either. Grant Fortney fights, but he fights like a gentleman. He takes just so much from another driver, never calling names in return, and

Operate First Mutuels of Year in Florida.

Jacksonville, Fla., March 10.—[Special.]—The spring turf season opened at St. John's Park here this afternoon and for the first time this year pari-mutuel betting prevailed on a Florida race course.

Boris Wins Feature.

About 5,000 were in the opening crowd, and the Harned Brothers' stable of Kentucky put on most of the show when their 4 year old Boris won the Ponce de Leon handicap, the first day feature, and their aged plater, Congo II., captured the second race at a gallop of a mile and a sixteenth.

St. John's Park formerly was known as Keeney Park, the name having been changed when the track passed into the hands of a group of New York and Florida sportsmen a few weeks ago. No attempt was made to interfere with the pari-mutuel betting department, and it was reported the opening day betting handle was around $200,000.

Low Gear Takes Place.

In the Ponce de Leon handicap, which was at a mile and a sixteenth, Boris, under strong restraint, permitted Coady, an outsider, to make the pace to the head of the stretch. Boris moved up at that stage and raced Coady into submission. He went on to win by nearly three lengths from Low Gear. Coady had enough left to save third money. Boris was the odds-on choice in the betting, two dollar mutuel tickets calling for $3.40.

Smiling Grant Packs Punch of Champion

"When I get out of my cab it means a fight," he explained.

When Grant was a month old his father died. Then his mother went to work, reared the family of five boys and two girls, and helped Grant put himself through Manual Training High school, Indianapolis.

"I take care of her now," Grant says.

One thing is taboo with the fighting cab driver. When water has been spilled in the ring he'll never raise a glove until the canvas has been wiped dry and sprinkled with rosin.

"My brother Charley fought once after water had been spilled in his corner. He was battling a fellow named Roy Coygill out in Butte, Mont. As Charley side-stepped he slipped on the wet spot and struck his head on the edge of the ring. It killed him."

One day, when Grant was 14 years old, he went to a gymnasium where a fighter by the name of Jimmy Dalton was to give all boys interested in boxing a chance to show what they could do, with the idea of helping along any promising lad.

Out of the hundred boys assembled that day Grant alone was ignored. He looked so pale and puny that the gymnasium directors wouldn't let him even pull on a pair of gloves.

Grant Weighs 177 Pounds.

Then the accident occurred which in a roundabout way started Grant on the road to robust health. While working in a pulley factory at Indianapolis he was badly injured in an oil explosion, barely escaping with his life. He inhaled some of the flames and doctors later told him that if he expected to save his lungs he'd have to live in a high altitude.

Grant couldn't see his way clear to leave home, so instead he began running to and from work in an endeavor to build up his stamina. That led to rope skipping, gym work and finally boxing. Today he stands six feet tall, weighs 177 pounds and radiates the freshness of youth and vitality.

Remarkably Active for a Man His Age

"I've suffered my last spell of sour stomach," says Warren Cook of 595 W. 20Tth Street, New York. "I found out that by taking ACIDINE three or four nights a week, I never have that uncertain feeling whether my meals are going to sit right, or make me miserable from the indigestion and gas I used to have so regularly."

Sick, sour stomach, indigestion, burning sensation in the throat and gassy belching usually come from too much acid when your stomach doesn't digest the starchy food you eat. Not more than one person in a hundred has a stomach so perfect it will do it without help. That's why more than two million people are now using ACIDINE regularly, to enjoy good appetite and freedom from distress and pain after eating. You can get ACIDINE at any drug store.

CHICAGO PREP QUINTETS NEAR TITLE BATTLES

With sectional, suburban and district titles decided, the City league and Catholic league championship games will hold the interest of Chicago high school basketball fans until the opening of the national tournaments at the University of Chicago and Loyola university.

Wendell Phillips' double victory over Englewood yesterday gave Coach Harris' teams the right to compete for both City league championships. The lightweights will meet Calumet, south section champions, in the league final, while the winner of the Lane-Morgan Park battle at De La Salle today will be Phillips' opponent in the heavyweight title game. Dates for the finals have not yet been announced.

De La Salle Meets Loyola.

De La Salle, national Catholic champion, and winners of the south section race this year, will meet Loyola, north section victor, for the Catholic league heavyweight title at De La Salle's new gym Friday night. The champions, with four of last year's players returned, won 21 straight games, while Loyola lost its only league game to St. Philip.

The lightweight championship finalists in the Catholic league will be decided at St Ignatius gym tonight when St. Philip and De Paul clash for the north section crown. Both teams completed their schedules with thirteen won and one lost, having divided the two games between themselves. Tonight's victor will meet Mount Carmel, the south section's undefeated champion, for the league championship.

Three Teams Undefeated.

Wendell Phillips lightweights, De La Salle heavyweights, and Mount Carmel lightweights hold the best records of the season's teams in Chicago. All three are undefeated. Calumet lightweights and Harrison heavyweights also came through with good records. The former was defeated in early season games, but came back to win twenty straight. Harrison won 28 and lost seven of 35 games played. The Techs not only won the west section title, but also captured the Illinois Valley invitational meet at Morris, Ill., and then defended their Illinois district at La Grange last week. They will represent Chicago in the state sectional tournament opening at Joliet Thursday.

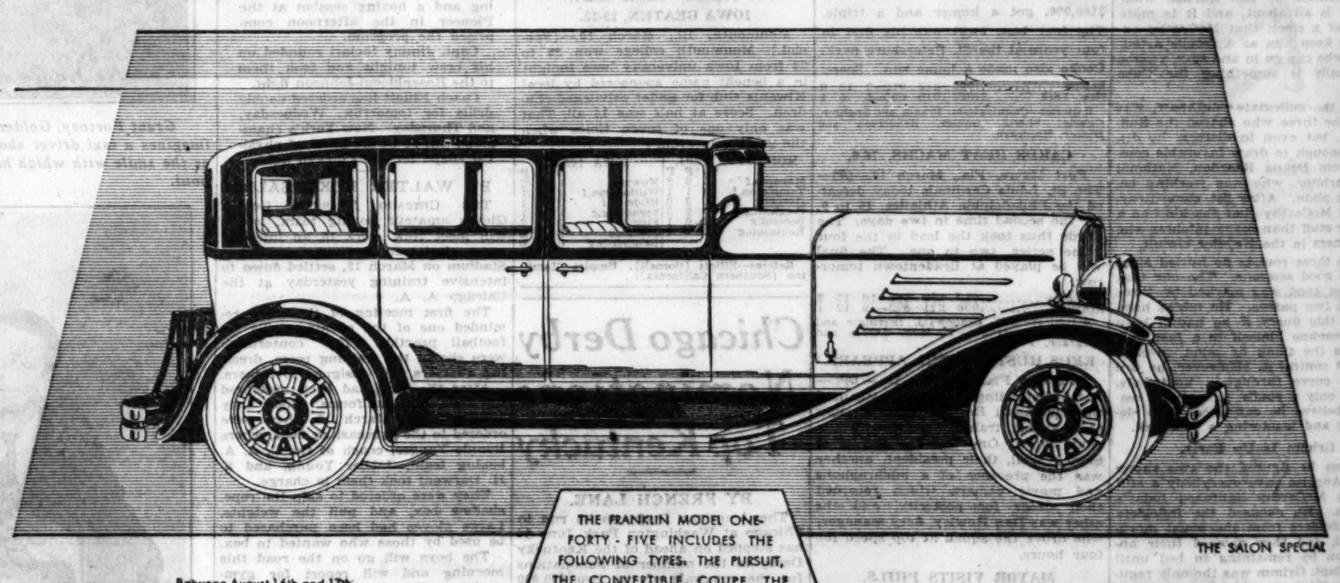
AN AIRPLANE-TYPE ENGINE WITH THE GREATEST POWER FOR CYLINDER CAPACITY OF ALL AUTOMOTIVE POWER PLANTS



THE SALON SPECIAL

Between August 16th and 17th, 1927, Arthur Goebel flew from Oakland, California to Honolulu. His plane was powered with an air-cooled engine.

THE FRANKLIN MODEL ONE-FORTY-FIVE INCLUDES THE FOLLOWING TYPES, THE PURSUIT, THE CONVERTIBLE COUPE, THE VICTORIA BROUGHAM, THE SEDAN, THE SEDAN DE LUXE, THE CLUB SEDAN, THE COUPE, THE TOWN SEDAN. THE MODEL ONE-FORTY-SEVEN INCLUDES THE SPEEDSTER, THE PIRATE TOURING, THE PIRATE PHAETON, THE SALON SPECIAL, THE SEVEN-PASSENGER SEDAN, THE ROADSTER, THE LIMOUSINE, THE SEDAN-LIMOUSINE. PRICES RANGE FROM $2585 TO $3425, F. O. B. FACTORY. PRICES OF CUSTOM CARS RANGE FROM $3725 TO $8300, F. O. B. FACTORY.

Again air-cooling engineering triumphs! A short time ago Franklin made a sensational announcement. For 1930 all models of the brilliant new Franklin would be powered by an AIRPLANE-TYPE ENGINE. Everywhere this announcement was met with great surprise, then enthusiastic approval.

Franklin progressiveness made it possible. Franklin engineers saw the great forward strides of aviation. They saw, too, the anchoring traditions that were holding back motor car design. The introduction of an airplane-type engine in a motor car is a logical step—one that begins a new era in vastly finer performance—one that definitely places Franklin in the foremost position among modern motor cars.

Delivering the greatest power for cylinder capacity of all automotive power plants, this amazing engine affords power which is typical of the airplane. Power new to motor cars. Power that remains at the peak throughout all speeds—throughout the hardest, fastest driving—FOR INDEFINITE TIME.

The 1930 Franklin masters the road as only a car with an airplane engine could. Sixty, seventy, eighty in fourth speed—with noticeably more comfort, quietness and acceleration ability. Riding is like gliding.

Franklin's distinctive lines, the exquisite appointments, and complete ensemble of beauty are as great an achievement in style as the airplane-type engine is in performance. Franklin is the vogue for 1930.

See this brilliant new car today—drive it—learn more about its remarkable airplane-type engine.

FRANKFORT FIVE REACHES HOOSIER FINAL 10TH TIME

Four Others Back from Last Year's Meet.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 10.—[Special.]—Only five teams which reached the finals of the 1929 state high school basketball tournament survived this year's sectionals and regionals, a backup of the sixteen finalists revealed today. They are Frankfort, Washington, Martinsville, Muncie, and Fortville.

Frankfort has reached each of the state final meets here and Martinsville is one. Washington and Muncie have received the regional since 1926. Kokomo was here last year after missing the championship games in 1928. Of the sixteen which remain in the tourney race all except Washington, Martinsville, Frankfort, and Greencastle were threatened by elimination one or more times during sectional and regional play.

Clamor for Tickets.

Although there are 15,000 seats in the Butler university fieldhouse, scene of the conflicts Friday and Saturday, nobody seems to have tickets. Not only are there the usual howls from the public about the dearth of standard room ducats, but the contesting schools also are complaining.

Even the sixteen schools competing in the finals cannot get more than their quota of fifty seats. "That accounts for only 800 seats out of 15,000; where have they gone?" Hoosier fans are asking.

"It's like a good theater attraction," A. L. Trester, commissioner of athletics of the I. H. S. A. A., explained tonight. "The folks who get in line first get the tickets."

May Protest Delphi Player.

Frankfort, Martinsville, Franklin, Fort Wayne, Goshen, and Kendallville tonight sent athletic representatives to Trester to see if more seats can be discovered somewhere.

Flora tonight threatened to protest Delphi's victory over Logansport in the Logansport regional Saturday. It is alleged that Perrigo, Delphi center, played more than the maximum 20 pre-tournament games. Logansport is ignoring the protest, accepting defeat. Coach Paul Lotstutter of Delphi described Flora as a jealous neighbor and said that, although Delphi played 21 games before the tournament, Perrigo did not appear against Camden, Rennselaer, or Monticello.

Chicagoan Takes Lead in A. B. C. All Events Division

Cleveland, O., March 10.—[Special.]—Chicago bowlers again crashed through with leading totals in the American Bowling Congress tourney, in session here today.

S. Satak and J. Bucz were high among the Chicagoans in the doubles division. The Windy City pair chalked up a score of 1,189 to take seventh place in the doubles.

CARNERA LOSES HEART TO LONDON ITALIAN GIRL

LONDON, March 10.—(AP)—The London Daily News today says that the Italian heavyweight boxing giant, Primo Carnera has lost his heart to Miss Emelia Tersini, a British subject, and will return here this year to marry her and settle in England.

Carnera's romance, says the newspaper, began when the heavyweight visited England for a bout with Young Stribling, the American boxer. The Daily News quotes Miss Tersini herself and her friends as authority for the story.

Miss Tersini, who is described as of typical Italian appearance but born in England, lives with her Uncle Nani, who keeps a restaurant in the west end of London. Emelia's sister, Ines Tersini, is a member of the Carl Rosa Opera company.

Sportsmen Find Florida's Black Bass Hospitable

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Prairie River, Punta Gorda, Fla., March 10.—You have to hand it to these Florida bass because they are so polite and obliging to a stranger from the north. Here are fish that, in view of the weather conditions involving a "wrong" wind and too cool weather, should not be expected to strike a lure with any degree of enthusiasm.

But they are so obliging that with a little persuasion, bang! Artificial lures are hit and everybody has a good time.

An excellent illustration of this Florida bass hospitality could be found yesterday on Prairie Creek. This stream flows into Shell creek, which in turn empties into the Peace river. It is the most beautiful small stream that we have seen in Florida and it has plenty of bass.

Yesterday in company with Kelly Day we traveled down the Prairie into a wild jungle-like country that almost defies description. The creek was so overgrown with oaks, palms moss and trailing vines and the bed of the stream so choked with trees and snags that in places it took a lot of jockeying around to get through.

Before we finished our exploring we were well down the creek. Then about 4:30 p. m. we turned around and drifted upstream with the incoming tide, casting our lures into every "den" or bass hangout.

Everything was right for a delightful boat ride and fishing trip except the weather. There was a little hangover of coolness in the air when it should have been hot, and instead of a south wind we had a breeze out of the northeast.

However, we had not reckoned with the obliging character of these southern bass. First thing we knew Day had tossed a tiny, homemade floating lure near a snag. He let it rest a minute and then gently jerked and twitched it on the surface. A bass rose, feinted at it and then stopped short.

Day repeated the trick, working the lure like a dry fly. The bass just had to give in to such an invitation accompanied by so much persuasion, doubtless feeling that it would be inhospitable to refuse. So wham! Up he came again. He weighed three pounds and in a few minutes we had company, for him.

De Vos Fight Winner to Get Walker Bout

Nate Lewis, matchmaker for Chicago Stadium, yesterday announced that Mickey Walker will defend his middleweight title against the winner of the Clyde Chastain-Rene de Vos fight Friday night.

Jack Kearns, manager of the 160 pound king, sent word that Walker is eager to have one more fight before a campaign is launched for the light heavyweight championship. De Vos and Chastain both welcome the opportunity, and the middleweight championship fight will be staged at the Stadium before the end of next month.

Earl Mastro, who will meet Fidel La Barba at the Coliseum March 21, leaves today for Peoria, where he will fight Plug Russell Thursday night. Earl will return to Chicago immediately after the contest to resume training for the Coliseum bout. It will be the third meeting of the pair. Each has won a decision.

EARL MASTRO.

Nisse Ramm, the Norwegian heavyweight, and Wyoming Warner have been signed to meet in the windup of Promoter James C. Mullen's show at White City Monday night. Four other fights will round out the card.

Otto Von Porat, Chicago heavyweight, and Angus Snyder of Minnesota will be the principals in the windup of Promoter Jerk Doran's show in St. Paul April 1. The match was closed yesterday.

Lookabaugh Wins Cue Match from Le Gros

Earl Lookabaugh defeated Charles Le Gros, 50 to 37, in 64 innings last night at Keickhefer Recreation rooms in a three cushion Chicago all star billiard league game. Lookabaugh gained undisputed possession of third place in the league by the victory. Len Kenny continues to lead, with Augie Keickhefer holding down second place.

STRETCH MURPHY MAKES PRO DEBUT HERE TOMORROW

Stretch Murphy of Purdue, who has had things pretty much his own way in western conference basketball the last three years, will have his mettle tested in a sterner field tomorrow night, when he will jump center for the Chicago Bruins against the Brooklyn Visitations at the Stadium.

Pat Herlihy, center for the Brooklyn professionals, is almost as tall as Stretch, and is of far sturdier build. He is a good jumper and an expert at the professional style of close man to man guarding, and Murphy will have his hands full maintaining his record of 10 points a game.

The Bruins have only three more games to play in the second half race for the pro title and are one and a half games behind Rochester, the leaders. Brooklyn is in second place.

Cleveland won the first half and a postseason series will determine the 1930 world champion.

Murphy will play two games for the Bruins, his second appearance being against Fort Wayne.

INVITE 4 STATE PREP CHAMPIONS TO U. OF C. MEET

Four state champions yesterday were invited to compete in the University of Chicago national basketball interscholastic by Manager H. O. Crisler. The four were Spartansburg, S. C., Braselton, Ga., White Pine county, Nev., Denton High of McAllister, Tex.

The returns from the state tournaments disclosed that two famous teams of other years failed to repeat. The great Vienna quintet of the last three seasons, riddled by graduation, failed to get anywhere in the Georgia tournament, while Athens, Tex., national champions last year, were beaten by Denton by a five point margin in the semi-finals. Athens, as defending champion, probably will be given an invitation to return.

Invitations will be sent to the winners of the Pennsylvania, Alabama, Mississippi, New Hampshire, Tennessee, and North Carolina tournaments held Saturday as soon as Crisler receives official notification.

YOUNGSTOWN CO. IS PRIZE SOUGHT IN MERGER FIGHT

Bethlehem, Republic Steel Firms at Odds.

Youngstown, O., March 10.—(AP)—A struggle of two groups of financial giants for control of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, with a third group of capitalists "watchfully waiting," was in progress tonight.

One group actively is seeking to merge this $220,000,000 corporation with the Bethlehem Steel corporation of Bethlehem, Pa. The other active group prefers to keep the Youngstown company independent. The "watchful waiters" are the heads of the new Republic Steel corporation, which the Youngstown Steel and Tube recently rejected in a merger proposal.

Merger with Bethlehem would challenge the leadership of the great United States Steel corporation. Merger with Republic would put the new company second and Bethlehem third in the steel industry.

Hold Conference Today.

Solution of the struggle probably will be attempted at a conference between the leaders of the groups tomorrow. It was believed that a majority of the directors of the Youngstown company are favorable to merge with Bethlehem. How the stockholders will stand on the proposals, however, is unknown. Directors will meet here Wednesday.

An attempt to gain the consent of Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier, who is said to control 20 per cent of the voting stock of the Youngstown company, to favor consolidation with Bethlehem will be made at the meeting, according to reports in financial circles. Eaton and his associates, however, including the powerful ore interests of the William G. Mather group, centered in Cleveland, have been trying to get Youngstown Sheet and Tube as one of the pillars of the new Republic Steel corporation.

The conference tomorrow which probably will be held in Cleveland will be attended, it is reported, by Eaton, Eugene Grace, president of Bethlehem Steel corporation; J. A. Campbell, chairman of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company board, and possibly by Henry G. Dalton, first vice president and principal representative of the sheet and tube board of the Samuel Mather interests of Cleveland.

Distribution of Stock.

As far as can be ascertained, about 35 per cent of Youngstown Sheet and Tube common stock is controlled by the Samuel Mather-Dalton interests, about 20 per cent by the Eaton interests, about 25 per cent is in the hands of Youngstown people, including officials of the company, and about 20 per cent is in the hands of outside investors, principally large insurance companies.

Of the 11 members of the sheet and tube directorate seven are Youngstown men and four Cleveland. As a rule the directorate accepts recommendations of J. A. Campbell, chairman of the board, in all important matters and during the more than 25 years of his successful leadership of the company the large Cleveland interests have invariably submitted to his wishes.

RAILROAD NOTES

Gross of the Chicago and North Western railway in February will be about $900,000 less than it was in February, 1929, according to Fred W. Sargent, president. The decline in net operating income will be between $100,000 and $400,000.

A faster Chicago and Alton freight schedule through St. Louis and Kansas City to the southwest, permitting a time saving of about twenty-four hours on merchandise, has been announced. Deliveries to points in northern Texas from Chicago have been reduced from fourth to third morning, according to Vice President S. G. Lutz.

During the period March 1 to March 7, inclusive, the Chicago and North Western handled 33,743 loaded cars of all commodities, excluding ore, as compared with 39,661 loaded cars for the same period last year, a decrease of 5,218.

KEMPER RISK FIRMS SHOW GAIN IN ASSETS

Nearly $18,000,000 in cash assets is shown by the financial statements of the group of insurance companies of which James S. Kemper is president. This represents an increase of $3,137,727 over cash assets at the end of 1928.

The Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty company, largest of the Kemper fleet, has assets of $11,638,980, with net cash surplus of $1,827,884, an increase over the previous year of $1,434,043 assets and $300,283 net cash surplus. The statement shows voluntary reserves of $1,250,000, which is an increase of $250,000 for the year. Premiums written by the Lumbermen's during 1929 totaled $12,162,720. This is an increase of 30 per cent over 1928.

The American Motorists Insurance company shows assets of $2,728,681, an increase of over $1,000,000. Premium income for 1929 was $2,517,898, an increase of $1,900,000 over the previous year.

Treasury Offering Is Heavily Oversubscribed

Washington, March 10.—(AP)—The treasury offering of March certificates of indebtedness, which totaled $450,000,000, was shown to have been oversubscribed nearly three times when books for its issue closed tonight. Secretary Mellon announced the actual subscription aggregated $1,291,000,000 for the nine month 3¾ per cent securities which the government offered last week. In view of the oversubscription, Federal Reserve banks were instructed to cut down allotments on a basis of giving a subscriber for $1,000 or less the full quota, while the percentages of quotas dropped for larger amounts until subscriptions of more than $1,000,000 were accepted only to the extent of 20 per cent of their face.

STEEL'S REPORT HELPS BOLSTER FAITH IN FUTURE

Forward Orders Are Largest in 4 Years.

Leading commodity and security exchanges will close early today as a tribute to the memory of William Howard Taft, former President and chief justice of the United States. The Chicago board of trade, the Chicago stock exchange, and the New York stock exchange will close at 11:30 a. m., Chicago time. Banks will remain open.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The United States Steel corporation again bolstered faltering optimism yesterday. For the sixth consecutive month the big company reported a gain in forward orders and again it proved how closely steel production is being geared to actual demand.

The monthly report on filled tonnage showed an increase of 11,308 tons in February. It wasn't large, being by long odds the smallest gain in a year; but it was cheerful news because a small decrease had been expected. Moreover, the gain brought total unfilled orders up to 4,479,748 tons, which is the highest level in more than four years, and also 335,000 tons above Feb. 28, 1929.

The increase last month also was accomplished in spite of expansion in plant operations, although operations since last month have slackened somewhat. However, the present volume of forward business assures a comfortable back-log for the future and should prevent any drastic curtailment even though demand may taper off still further. A less favorable bit of news was a further reduction of 25 cents a ton in iron and steel scrap prices at Chicago.

Appoint Expert Committee.

Further plans to remedy over-production in the petroleum industry developed yesterday. Secretary of the Interior Wilbur, who also is chairman of the federal oil conservation board, appointed a committee of five experts to make a complete and unprejudiced analysis of the demand for petroleum products. The committee will estimate this year's demand both for refined products and the amount of crude oil necessary to fill the demand. Then the federal board will use the committee's report as a guide for future conservation measures.

President Edward G. Seubert of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana announced further plans to join other big refiners in preventing over-production of gasoline.

"Notwithstanding that the company has been running only sufficient crude oil to meet current requirements and that its gasoline stocks at the present time are less than a year ago," he said, "we now announce that we will start immediately reducing refinery operations by running materially less crude oil than we have been using. This will involve manufacturing less gasoline and thus conform in principle to the federal board recommendation of a six day week plan.

"This action is taken with the thought of contributing to the general good of the industry. The company also announces that imports of gasoline into the United States by itself and its affiliated companies will be materially less than originally planned."

Case Earnings Decline.

Development of a new line of tractors last year, with resultant factory changes and small stocks during the spring selling season, reduced earnings of the J. I. Case company, according to the annual report issued last night by President Leon R. Clausen.

Net income for 1929 was $3,403,752, equivalent after preferred dividends to $13.75 a share on 194,471 common shares. This compares with net income of $3,986,889 in 1928, which was equivalent to $25.01 a share on 130,000 common shares. The common stock was increased last October by offering stockholders one new share at $150 for each two shares held. In both 1929 and 1928 the company made special appropriations from income of $250,000 to contingent reserve. The balance sheet as of Dec. 31, 1929, shows current assets of $37,849,795, current liabilities of $3,537,423 and surplus of $14,477,682.

The Tidewater Associated Oil company also reported smaller earnings last year than in 1928. Net profit was $14,000,688, equivalent after preferred dividends to $1.75 a share on 5,560,424 common shares, compared with net profit of $14,132,542, or $2.01 a share on 4,852,519 common shares in 1928. The Fisk Rubber company reported a loss of $7,494,458 for last year after inventory adjustment, compared with a loss of $8,791,251 in 1928. Sales in 1929 were $52,790,473, compared with $60,933,841 in 1928.

Discusses Letdown in Coal, Grain Shipments

BY SCRUTATOR.

Car loading reports for the first eight weeks of the present year show that the coal passing into consumption channels in that period was less by 115,000 cars than in the similar time in 1929.

Some of this was doubtless due to mild weather. Some more of it was due to a somewhat lessened industrial activity, and some more to the constantly increasing efficiency in the use of fuel.

It might be mentioned here that another primary product of importance, grain, was likewise loaded in considerably less quantities so far this year. The falling off in eight weeks is approximately 41,000 cars. All car loading classifications show a loss, yet coal and grain alone furnish about one-third of the total decline from 1929.

Drop Only Six Per Cent.

The early part of 1929 was an exceptionally good business period. The early part of 1928 was regarded as so-so. The early part of 1930, if croakers are listened to, was quite bad. Yet cars loaded were only 6 per cent below 1929 and about 2 per cent below 1928.

Coal and grain, if loaded in the quantities of 1929, would almost have leveled the 1930 loadings to equality with 1928.

The reasons why grain shipments are low have been much discussed of late. It may be significant that the organized miners of the United States are taking somewhat the same road toward remedial process for their industry that the grain growers already have taken. The United Mine Workers of America at Indianapolis yesterday received a report from their officers urging that legislation be passed to "emancipate bituminous coal miners from barbaric mismanagement."

The specific complaint is that the operators of mines have not taken steps to control production but have preferred to keep wages low and to flood their markets with cheap coal to keep going.

As a consequence, it is asserted by the miners' leaders, 400,000 American miners have to live on half time employment or less and at wages that on a full time basis would be less than enough for even a reasonable standard of living. Two and a half million Americans depending on this occupation are held to be barely existing.

Both Have Problems.

These last statements are in large part true. Mining for the worker and the operator is bad enough. But there is grave doubt that federal control and overlordship is the correct solution. The coal business cannot be divorced, for relief purposes, from other business any more than farming can be. Both industries have problems in human labor. Establishment of higher wage scales will have to be accompanied by greater efficiency. If this does not occur, the coal men will have to meet the stiffer competition of fuel oil and hydro-electricity.

Mining is overmanned. Better management would mean the dismissal of more labor and the substitution of better machinery in the digging of coal. It is agreed, or should be, that every man in mining should have a living wage. But it cannot be had by tinkering with prices or by trying to divide a hundred jobs into twice as many.

Chicago Stores Merge to Form Slumberland, Inc.

Merger of the Dixie Bedding Stores and the L. Rubin Furniture company, which operates the Slumberland Stores, was announced yesterday. The merged company will be known as Slumberland, Inc., and will operate three stores on the north side and one on the south side of Chicago.

WORK ON PLAN FOR MERGING ROCK ISLAND AND FRISCO RAILROADS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 10.—The St. Louis-San Francisco and the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railways are working out a merger that will conform as nearly as possible with the interstate commerce commission's plan, J. M. Kurn, president of the Frisco, announced today.

The consolidation will create a company with assets of more than $1,000,000,000. The Frisco in 1926 acquired a large stock interest in the Rock Island, which for years was controlled by the Gould family. The two are among the most important lines serving the southwest.

Under the interstate commerce commission's plan the Frisco and Rock Island are grouped together along with several short lines.

Farmer Unhurt in Slump; Farm Board Losses Denied

(Government crop report page 27.)

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 10.—The belief that wheat farmers, generally, were unhurt by the recent market slump was borne out today by the official crop report of the department of agriculture showing that an unusually large part of the wheat crop was sold before March 1.

Commenting upon the crop report, Chairman Alexander Legge of the federal farm board declared that the wheat situation was not unexpected. Representatives of the grain cooperatives, meeting in Chicago last week, estimated the amount of wheat on the farms even lower than the official reports, he said.

"It simply means," he said, "that a larger percentage of the wheat farmers hauled their wheat to town this year than before. It will have no effect upon the wheat policies of the farm board."

Denies Large Paper Losses.

In reply to questions, Mr. Legge denied reports that the farm board has incurred large paper losses in its wheat buying activities. Barring a "terrific slump" on the market today, he said, the farm board has lost nothing either actually or on paper. He also put an end to a rumor that the board is buying large quantities of wheat at seaports with the intention of unloading it abroad at reduced prices.

"It is true that the stabilization corporation has bought two million odd bushels at ports," he said, "but it is not a part of our plan to ship it to Europe at a lower price than it can be bought by American millers. No one need worry about that."

How long the farm board will hold the wheat it has purchased on the market is problematical, Mr. Legge said, adding that "the very purpose of our buying it is to take it definitely off the market."

"Our aim is to stabilize prices, not to fix them," he continued. "During the last few months the wheat market has fluctuated as much as $0 per cent. Such a fluctuation in any other business would be looked upon as ridiculous.

Says Condition Is Abnormal.

"Just now the price of wheat is the lowest it has been in thirteen years with two exceptions. The exceptions were following the panic of 1921 and for a short time last May. Today wheat is 50 cents a bushel lower than it was a year ago, notwithstanding the fact that the world crop for 1929 diminished probably as much as 575,000,000 bushels. That certainly is not a normal condition."

Asked what the farm board proposes to do with the additional $100,000,000 appropriation it is now asking from its revolving fund. Mr. Legge explained that it will go for "general operations" with the possibility of a cotton stabilization program in the offing. With its original $150,000,000 appropriation he said the board has extended lines of credit amounting to about $125,000,000 and has paid out in cash approximately $60,000,000. Of the latter sum $6,000,000 has been repaid.

LONE STAR GAS BOOSTS COMMON DIVIDEND RATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 10.—Lone Star Gas company common stock was placed on an annual dividend basis of $1 today with the declaration of a quarterly dividend of 25 cents. Previously 80 cents was paid annually.

The Singer Manufacturing company declared an extra dividend of $4.50 a share and the regular quarterly dividend of $2.50 a share on the common stock. In September and December last year the extra dividends were $3.50 a share, while in June the extra dividend was $4.50 a share.

New York, March 10.—In the heaviest turnover in a month numerous issues were carried to new high price levels for the recovery from the 1929 crash in today's operations on the New York stock exchange.

Star performers included such favorites as Radio, United Aircraft, Eastman Kodak, Reynolds Tobacco B, Allis Charlems, and Radio-Keith-Orpheum.

The so-called pivotals, like American Can, General Electric, Consolidated Gas, and New York Central, were inclined to lag behind the procession. United States Steel displayed reactionary tendencies in the early trading, but turned upward around noon, with the publication of its unfilled tonnage report disclosing another increase, and finished the session showing a net gain of a point.

CHICAGO STOCK PRICES PUT ON GOOD SHOWING

Volume Expands; Exceeds 500,000 Mark.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Stocks put on a good show on the Chicago board yesterday. To those with the will to believe it was the initial exhibition of a revival billed for a long run. To others more skeptical by nature or experience it was something less, but yet nothing unpleasant.

Sales passed the half million mark for the first time this year. Spectacular gains were made, but not as a rule by the issues most actively traded in. The utility group, made up largely of Insull issues, furnished the leadership and a number of industrial specialties showed a ready willingness to follow.

Middle West was the pacemaker for the market. On sales exceeding 130,000, shares of the key Insull holding company edged up 2 points to establish a new 1930 high at 35½.

Gains 17 Points.

Midland United and Central and Southwest, less actively traded in, closed with slightly smaller gains. Public Service no par, which has a reputation for unusual performances, scooted up 17 on a turnover of about 650 shares. Edison closed 2½ points higher.

Great Lakes Dredge took off at 171 and landed at 196. The significance of the flight was lessened by the fact that sales in the issue amounted to less than 600 shares.

Other specialties which made substantial improvement on more representative turnover included A. M. Castle, up 6¼; Associated Apparel, 3; Super Maid, 2; Kalamazoo Stove, 1¼, and Brown Fence A, 1.

Automotive shares lagged. Cord corporation continued active but sales in the issue, which amounted to about 28,000 shares, were considerably smaller than on one or two days last week. Auburn with its 10 point gain was not representative of the rest of the group. Borg Warner and Bendix were moderately lower on fairly active turnover. A three point advance was registered by Noblitt Sparks.

Grigsby Regains a Point.

Realizing in Grigsby, which forced the stock down in the Saturday session, was absent yesterday and the price snapped back more than a point. Atlas Stores improved a fraction to 30.

With one or two exceptions the investment issues showed little pep. Burnham was the outstanding exception, climbing 4 points to a new high for the year at 40½. Insull Utility was more active and improved along with other stocks in its group.

Bond trading was the largest in the history of the exchange. Par value of issues transferred amounted to $568,000. The amount was largely accounted for by transactions in Insull Utility debentures, which gained 1⅜ to finish at 109½.

CONFIDENCE IS LACKING ON PART OF GRAIN BUYERS

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A lack of confidence on the part of buyers of agricultural products is apparent the world over and prices continue on the downgrade. As many observers see it, only government influence prevents a decline in wheat to a new low for the crop year.

All deliveries of corn and rye, however, sold at a new low yesterday for the season, with fairly general liquidation under way.

There was local and commission house selling of wheat futures here early, with the deferred futures off as much as 2¾c from Saturday's finish, but short covering toward the last caused a rally, with March and May finishing at a loss of only ¾c, while the new crop months were 1⅞@2¼c lower. March closed at $1.06⅝; May, $1.11⅝@1.11⅞, and July, $1.07¼ to $1.07⅜@1.07¾.

The upturn in the old crop wheat months was due largely to local short covering, while the government bought on the dips. The bulk of the new business is going into the July with sentiment bearish. Support came largely from holders of bids and from elevators, although a little attention was paid to increasing complaints of dry weather from the southwest and to high winds in parts of Kansas and Nebraska.

Europe Fears Dumping.

Foreign buyers of wheat fear that the American government will start to dump some of the hard winter wheat abroad it has secured of late and there was selling of futures at Winnipeg during the day on rumors that 40,000 bu wheat would be loaded at the gulf for shipment to Europe. The Chicago trade had this report on Friday. Winnipeg finished ⅞c lower with May there going to 3⅜c under Chicago at the last, the widest discount of the season, while Minneapolis was 1½c under. Liverpool lost ½@⅝d, with May there only ½c over Chicago at the time the former market closed. Buenos Aires finished unchanged to ⅛c higher and Rosario ½c lower.

Cables from abroad were not optimistic as to a resumption of general buying of North American wheat on the part of the continent, as financial conditions and reduced consumption makes it unnecessary. An increase of 179,000 bu was reported in the domestic visible supply, making the total 155,729,000 bu, against 123,937,000 bu last year.

There is around 150,000,000 bu wheat still available in Canada for export, according to an official estimate, of which 20,000,000 bu is in farmers' hands.

Liquidation in Corn.

Liquidation was on in corn with prices dropping 1¾@2¾c from Saturday's finish to a new low for the season on all deliveries. The break brought in an aggressive cash demand with sales of 245,000 bu, and futures rallied toward the last, closing 1⅝@1½c lower with March 77c and May 80⅝@80¾c. Low grade cash corn was quoted as much as 10c lower with No. 6 grades selling down to 55c and sample grade to 35c, while some cars of extremely poor received bids of only 25c per bu. No. 2 yellow sold at 4c under May.

New Brunswick, Canada, finds that it can buy British, Dutch, and German oats on a more profitable basis than grain shipped from Fort William, and little business is being done from the west in consequence. Chilean oats are being imported into Cuba at a lower price than American. Futures closed ¾@1c lower with March 41⅜c and May 42½@42⅝c.

March rye sold down to 64¼c, the lowest figure since May, 1924, when the May delivery dropped to 63c. GOV'T FARM RESERVE GRAIN FIGURES EXCEED TRADE EXPECTATIONS

Government farm reserve figures on grain were somewhat larger than anticipated by the trade, wheat showing 17,000,000 bu in excess of the private returns; corn, 16,000,000 bu, and oats, 14,000,000 bu.

Using the government farm reserve figures as a base and adding the grain at terminal market and private estimate on country mill and elevator tracks, there is 372,000,000 bu of wheat available for the balance of the season against 355,000,000 bu a year ago and a 10 year average of 290,000,000 bu. Available supplies of corn are 1,014,000,000 bu, or 44,000,000 less than a year ago, and of oats, 422,00,000 bu, or 92,000,000 bu less than in 1929.

About 560,000,000 bu of wheat will be shipped out of the country where grown during the crop year against 672,000,000 bu the previous season, while corn shipments should be around 443,000,000 bu against 538,000,000 bu last year, and oats, 249,000,000 bu against 308,000,000 bu in 1928-29.

Wheat	129	151	152	142
Oats	399	497	471	487
Rye	5	6	8	....
Barley	73	97	48	50

There was 77 per cent of the 1929 corn crop of merchantable quality, compared with 83.1 last year and a 10 year average of 80.2.

Traders who expected another week of small supplies were surprised when yesterday's receipts were posted at 60,000, which compare with 45,143 the previous Monday and with 33,005 a year ago.

The market weakened as the day progressed, the extreme top resting at $11.10, against $11.25 last Friday, while the general average declined 20c at $10.45. Quality was poor for initial day of the week, and hogs of choice quality averaging less than 225 lbs in weight sold freely at the early 10@20c lower prices, few of these being included in the 8,000 left at the close. All interests bought more freely when a 25@30c lower basis had been established in 250@300 lb butchers in mid-session. Armour, Swift, and Wilson handled a total of about 25,000 head. Shippers bought 15,000. Five western markets expect 63,000 hogs today, against 61,100 the previous Tuesday.

Cattle Prices Dip.

Cattle prices took a 15@25c dip at the opening, when 18,900 cattle were unloaded on the market, but there was a better undertone in the trade at the finish, when some sales of choice grades were steady to strong with the close of last week.

Quality graded better than usual for Monday, which partly accounts for the sharply higher bulk of sales. Nine prime 1,600 lbs steers arrived on a motor truck from a near by feed lot and raised the top to $15.75, the highest paid for this weight since last October. They had been "fed" for 17 months and were strictly finished. Yearlings averaging 964 lbs sold at $15.25. Nebraska and South Dakota sent in a good many choice steers. Bulk of sales at $11.50@14.25 compare with $10.75@13.75 the previous Monday. Cows and heifers were steady to 25c lower. Calves slumped 50@75c. Stockers and feeders were slow and steady.

Lambs Advance.

A bulge in the lamb market carried prices to the highest level since Feb. 25 yesterday, prime handy weights to packers on shipping account reaching $11.50, with bulk of wool lambs at $10.50@11.25. Best light shorn lambs sold at $9.75@10.25, and 112 lb averages rejected from load lots sold at $8.75. Top prices are exactly $1.00 above the low spot about two weeks ago, and some medium and heavy lambs show more gain since the low point of the season. Aged sheep were firm, with top ewes at $6.00. Yearlings and feeding lambs showed little change.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 7,000 cattle, 21,000 hogs, and 13,000 sheep, against 6,444 cattle, 18,914 hogs, and 14,125 sheep the previous Tuesday, and 8,257 cattle, 10,131 hogs, and 16,029 sheep a year ago.

COTTON IN NEW YORK 14C; NEW ORLEANS 13.80C

Cotton prices dropped to new lows with spots in New York 14c, and in New Orleans 13.80c, said to be the lowest since December, 1926, when New York sold at 12.15c and New Orleans 11.84c. The market was erratic with an advance early in the day of around $1 a bale, which, although maintained for a time, brought in large offerings and a decline.

Exports for the season to March 7, were 5,557,499 bales, against 6,443,078 bales for the same time last year. Prices follow:

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

Wall Street Wonders.

Wall street was wondering just how much of a factor selling to raise funds for defraying income tax payment would prove this week. Such selling it was argued, would probably not come until the latter part of next week, but it was believed that the market would have to contend with more of such liquidation in the instance than it had in the last few years. Moreover, there is a growing feeling that the tax returns, on which figures will not be available for some time, may prove rather disappointing. But for the moment the speculative fraternity is confident that prospects for a bank rate reduction on Thursday will be found a strong offsetting influence to such tax selling as may develop.

Show Caution.

Traders are still using a great deal of caution in any commitments they make in aeroplane or issues of affiliated companies. They apparently feel that this department of the general list has not yet shown enough sustained power to warrant orders of more than a trading nature.

Should Do Well.

Goodyear Tire and Rubber is expected to earn as much this year as it did in 1929, when it showed $10.25 a share for its common stock. Despite the general weakness in commodities, Goodyear is thought to have no particularly important inventory problem. Rubber is now below the cost of production and is not expected to decline much further.

HOG FUTURES LOWER

Tendency in the hog futures market was lower yesterday, with actual sales 20c under the close of last week. Activity was centered on light weights mostly, although bids and offers as a rule, were 15@20c apart. Trading in medium and heavy grades was slower than usual, due to the unsatisfactory condition of the cash trade lately. Bids for March and April delivery in heavy grades were 10@25c below offers.

Active future prices established on the Chicago live stock exchange clearing house for uniform car lots of 16,500 pounds, with 1,500 pounds variation:

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, March 10.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was less active today and the only sale reported was 14,000 bags of uncontrolled Cuban from store at 3.61c duty paid, a decline of 1-16c from the last previous sale. Nearby duty frees and for March shipment were offered at 3.64c, but refiners were showing no interest. Circulation of 100 March notices had a depressing effect in the No. 1 raw futures contracts, with the close 4 points lower on March and net unchanged to 2 lower on later deliveries. Approximate sales were 38,050 tons. In the No. 2 contract prices were steadier, closing 1 to 2 points higher. Closing prices No. 1 follow:

LABOR MINISTER RAPS ADVICE OF LONDON FIRM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 10.—The London stock brokerage firm which last week circularized its clients advising them to sell their British industrial stocks and invest the proceeds in the United States and Canada, came in for strong denunciation by the minister for unemployment, J. H. Thomas, in the house of commons tonight.

Mr. Thomas declared: "I am not one of those who, despite the unemployment figures at this moment, are going to despair. I admit frankly that there are a number of factors, some of which I have given, which have contributed to this position. But I also admit that there is a mean attempt by some people to exploit the situation.

"Any one guilty of such conduct ought himself to leave the country, because the country would be better without him."

A New Trick For an Old Dog

One of the country's most important producers of transmission gears found it necessary to greatly speed up production, and he put the task in the hands of his plant metallurgist, who collaborated with Interstate Metallurgists.

These men proceeded to develop a new annealing cycle which gives these forgings the best possible microstructure for mass production of cut gears. Their development has proved so practical that this cycle has been adopted by others in the industry.

Interstate Metallurgists will welcome any task suggested by your needs or problems. There is no cost or obligation.

The City of Racine, the second largest city in Wisconsin, is located on Lake Michigan, about 60 miles north of Chicago. It is one of the most important manufacturing cities in the State, containing more than 175 factories with an annual output, estimated in 1927, in excess of $150,000,000. Being strategically located between Milwaukee and Chicago, it enjoys an admirable outlet for the many manufactured products which have made the city famous. Racine-made products include automobiles, tires, boats, food products, pianos, threshing machines and farm implements. Seven banks with deposits of over $20,000,000 serve the financial needs of the City, while two steam railroads and two electric lines furnish excellent transportation facilities. In addition Racine has one of the best harbors on the Great Lakes.

These bonds, issued for the purpose of constructing a breakwater, are a direct obligation of the entire city and are payable from an unlimited ad valorem tax levied upon all the taxable property therein.

If that sounds like a paradox, let's see what that $16,000 will buy.

First of all, it will buy a color page more than twice as big as any other magazine page, giving the advertiser the opportunity to tell his whole story in a dramatic way.

Next, it will buy the attention of nearly 6,000,000 families located in the richest buying areas of this country; more than one-fourth of all the English speaking families in the United States.

Third, it will buy admission into the homes of these people at the lowest cost per home; actually at a cost of less than ⅓ cent per family.

The advertiser in The American Weekly not only enjoys these three great advantages, but he also has the advantage of advertising in the most interesting magazine on earth.

The one reason for the steadily growing circulation of The American Weekly, now twice that of its nearest competitor, is that The American Weekly is editorially more interesting than any other magazine.

Imagine an advertising medium that is anticipated eagerly in nearly 6,000,000 homes every week.

The great national influence of The American Weekly starts with its concentration and domination in 536 of America's 812 towns and cities of 10,000 population and over.

In each of 185 cities it reaches one out of every two families.
In 132 more cities it reaches 40% to 50% of the families.
In an additional 102 cities it reaches 30% to 40%.
In still another 117 cities it reaches 20% to 30%.

But even that is not the whole story.

Nearly 2,000,000 additional families in thousands of other communities buy The American Weekly regularly, making the unprecedented total of 6,000,000 families who read this, the greatest of all magazines.

If you have merchandise which enjoys national distribution and want to bring it prominently to the attention of the most buyers at the lowest cost per buyer, where can you spend your advertising dollar more effectively?

The Ace of Spades

By WILLIAM MACLEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS.

Jim Rutledge, accompanied by Sim Hart, is sent out with a herd of cattle to fulfill a contract made by his father, Chandler Rutledge. On the trail they are overtaken by men from the Moss outfit, enemies of Rutledge. The Moss men start a stampede and drive off some of the Moss cattle. Jim recovers them, but in doing so shoots and injures one of the Moss raiders. The men of the Moss outfit swear to be revenged for the injury and pursue him. Jim takes refuge in a ranch house, where he finds Ellen Lawson alone in the house. She hides him when the Moss gang comes to the house looking for him and sends them off on another trail, even though she learns that he has injured her brother. Jim rides on into the town after saving Ellen from the unwelcome attentions of Pete Moss. Shear, the town marshal, threatens to arrest him for the killing of Steve Lawson, but Harrison Pendleton, an old trail driver, arrives on the scene in time to save him from arrest. Shortly afterward Shear kills Doc Brown, who, he claimed, had threatened his life. This causes a great deal of excitement in the little cattle town. Jim goes into the local gambling den and is astonished to find Ellen Lawson there. She tells him she has come to speak to her brother, Steve. Jim guides her to where Steve is sitting in a poker game with Shear, Buck Roe and others. As they reach it the lights go out and when the room is again lighted Shear is found crumpled in his chair dead with Jim's knife in him. Ellen's right hand is covered with blood. She and become separated from Jim in the dark and some one had jostled her. In putting out her hand for support she had touched the crumpled figure. Jim and Ellen are confronted by the sheriff, Manders, and Jim is arrested, but is later released. Jim is determined to find the murderer to clear himself. Ellen arranges a meeting to warn him against Dave Moss and Jim learns that Moss is trying to force her to marry his son, Pete. He suggests that she marry him. They are quietly married and Jim goes on with his investigation.

INSTALLMENT XXXVIII.

A SIGNIFICANT COSTUME.

Manders looked at Pendleton with dogged anger. "Still running my business. You're about as bad as that young pup who is egging you on. But since you want arrests so bad I'll make you a proposition. I figure there's a bit more evidence against your smart young friend Rutledge than against Hart. But I'll be a sport if you insist. I'll arrest 'em both."

Jim grinned. It was a good comeback.

"I don't insist on arrests if Mr. Pendleton doesn't," he said.

Pendleton grumbled, but gave up the point.

"Anything more, gentlemen?" Manders asked ironically.

"Not just now," the big cattleman said.

As the Texans and Dr. Aubrey walked downtown they discussed the affair from various angles. Jim alone said nothing.

Roundtree asked him at last why he was so quiet.

"I've been wondering how many shoemakers there are in town," he answered.

"Shoemakers? What's that got to do with the price of yearlings?" Garrick wanted to know.

"Well, I notice the sheriff has had a new pair of heels put on his boots. It kinda interests me."

"You get interested in the darnedest things, Jim," growled Pendleton. "If you'd keep yore mind on important matters. But I reckon you got to be a kid half the time an' a man the other half."

It was a signal. From the shadow of a house the roar of a gun shattered the quiet.

Jim accepted the rebuke meekly.

"It says in the good book that when you become a man you've got to put away childish things," the big man roared genially at him.

"That's sure enough so," Jim agreed. "I'll begin to act grown up tomorrow morning. I reckon I'll be a kid tonight an' go see a show that's been recommended to me." He looked at his watch in the moonlight. "I'm in time to see the last half of it, anyhow."

"You'll do no such a thing," the big Texan told him brusquely. "I never did see such a fellow. Have you forgot you were married today? You go right back to that little girl an' don't go hellin' around to any the-ay-ters. The night air of this town is poison for you, an' first thing you'll get bumped off an' Ellen will be a widow. If you had a lick of sense you'd know that. I'll take in that show at the Elkhorn an' find out what Manders meant."

"Yes," Jim assented.

He said good-night and moved up the street.

Five minutes later he was at the ticket window at the Elkhorn theater exchanging a dollar for an admission slip.

The last act of a wild melodrama of the old fashioned type was drawing to a close at the Elkhorn theater when Jim slipped into his seat. It was apparently a stage play. Mamie Dugan, costumed as a dancing girl to represent the ace of spades, sat in her dressing room, presumably after the performance. The door opened and a man walked in. He wore a cloak over evening dress and was clearly the villain. Stroking his imperial, he gloated over her.

"Have you made up your mind?" he asked in deep chest tones.

She clasped her hands in agony and looked up at him. "Spare me if you have a heart," she moaned.

He had none. From an inner pocket of his coat Lord Winton drew a paper. "You shall be mine tonight," he hissed, "or——"

"The mortgage," he echoed. "Your mother and five fatherless children will be flung into the street tomorrow to perish, unless——"

"Is there a God in heaven?" she begged.

Once more the door had opened to let in a man. "There is," he said in a clear, ringing voice. "And he has heard your cry."

He drew a dagger and leaped at the hero. There was a struggle. Winton gave a cry, the shriek of a lost soul, and fell to the floor, clutching at his side.

"I have killed him," the stalwart youth murmured. "So be it. I shall be charged with murder, but——"

"Not so. I have seen all." From behind a screen stepped the dwarf whom the virtuous dancing girl had always befriended. "You struck in self-defense."

Jim passed out of the building with the crowd. His eyes were open for enemies, but he saw none among the hundreds of men present. As fast as he could he disengaged himself and moved down the street toward Mrs. Gim's house. A girl was waiting anxiously for him. He had done enough for one night. Just now he wanted to escape from an atmosphere of intrigue and danger to one where he could let down and not be on his guard. He walked fast as he left Front street and started to climb the hill.

Scudding clouds raced across the sky and hid the moon. There was a promise of rain in the air.

It was a signal. From the shadow of a house the roar of a gun shattered the quiet. It was the first of a fusillade. Flashes of light flung out momentary beacons warning Jim of the positions of his enemies. He dived across the street to a lumber pile, dragging out a .45 as he ran.

An excited voice raised a question. "Did we get him?"

Rutledge blazed at the spot from which it had come. As ragged clouds chased heavier ones across the face of the moon, Jim made out figures closing in. He guessed they were circling around to surround him and cut off escape.

Twice he fired, then ran back of the lumber pile, came to a fence and vaulted it. Without warning, he found himself hurled to the ground. He had collided with another running figure. For an instant they lay breathless. As Jim scrambled to his feet he could see the other man rising and could hear a cry lifted for help. The fellow closed with him.

Rutledge had no time to lose. He knew that in a few seconds they would be on him. The slap of running feet sounded louder. He wrenched his right arm free and struck his opponent's forehead with a barrel of the revolver as it swung down. The blow staggered the man. He stumbled back drunkenly.

Into the darkness Jim plunged, running low and fast. The crash of a shot told him that a wild bullet had been flung into the night after him. He dodged it for his life.

It was Ellen, driven from the house into the street by her fear for him. His arm swept around her waist. "Come," he cried, hurrying her down the walk toward the house.

Good Morning!

Leisurely and quite engaging is this third—and musical—screen edition of the story about the honest Mississippi river boat gambler whose adventures and romance form the subject matter.

The first "Cameo Kirby" was made in 1915, and starred Dustin Farnum. Several years ago Fox presented John Gilbert in the title rôle. Now comes the blonde J. Harold Murray singing in the sunshine and the rain, of the events that spell experience, remorse, sorrow and, finally, joy, for a gay and gallant gentleman of questionable calling.

The time of the story is about 1850 and the action opens at Mardi Gras in New Orleans where Kirby meets, fleetingly, the girl of his dreams. He loses her in the mad crowds.

Later, on a river boat, he joins a dishonest gambler who is fleecing her father [unknown to Kirby at the time] for the purpose of protecting the old man. Tragedy follows and the picture will tell you the rest of the story.

Most of the acting is good, but Myrna Loy is not well cast and speaks her lines stiffly and with hesitation. All of the characters are supposed to be southerners. All try, but fail, to speak like southerners—with the possible exception of Robert Edeson as the heroine's father. He, and Douglas Gilmore as the villain, and Stepin Fetchit as a tired butler, do the most creditable work.

There are a number of pleasing songs and choruses. Scenery, sets and costumes please. Direction and sound are all right.

THE CAST.

Boyd Milburn	Henry B. Walthall
Dorothy Milburn	Ricardo Cortez

Peggy Milburn	Thomas A. Curran
Judge Thompson	Jack Curtis
"Biffer" Bill	John Elliott
Police Captain

"The Phantom in the House" is very welcome for one reason. It brings back Henry B. Walthall in a sympathetic rôle that serves to remind us of the fine work done by this veteran actor in an earlier day, and reveals him as a still poised and polished player whose instinctive feel for what is right and natural lifts him head and shoulders over the story in which he is cast, and over the players and director associated with him who, like himself, are at the mercy of a mediocre yarn and most commonplace of dialogue.

As hero of the piece he is an inventor who spends fifteen years in jail to save the honor of his wife, who has killed a man in self-defense, and for the sake of his baby daughter.

He returns home to find this wife and daughter living lavishly on the income from his inventions which have been patented in the former's name. Mrs. Milburn has grown hard, cold and mercenary. The daughter is just her daddy's own sweet girl—though she doesn't know the quiet man who has come to live in the house is her parent. She believes him to be just a Mr. Boyd who knew and loved her father, who, she thinks, died overseas during the war.

Daughter is in love with a poor youth to whom mother objects, she having a title in view for her offspring. But dad, perpetually heroic and self-sacrificing, being on the job, all ends well, after a period crammed with luridly melodramatic events.

The story is this film's thorn in the flesh. Overlook that and "The Phantom in the House" will hold your interest.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Question.

Would you care to be married to a genius?

The Answers.

Miss Christine Hansen, 814 Lawrence avenue, hotel manager—I believe I am too practical to be married to a genius. I probably couldn't put up with the usual eccentricities. But it would be wonderful to be married to a genius who otherwise was about as reasonable as an ordinary person is supposed to be.

Miss Mary Dimtelman, 4630 Beacon street, nurse—It depends on the kind of genius. Some one like Col. Llindbergh would be fine. If he was selfish, unreasonable, too much devoted to his profession, that would not make marriage a fifty-nifty proposition, for I certainly am not a genius.

Mrs. Susan M. Thumel, 2155 Pierce avenue, bookkeeper—What could be better than to have as a companion one who you know is destined to accomplish something out of the ordinary, one whom the world would know and admire. What an impoverished world this would be without geniuses.

Mrs. Alice Schmoeger, 6919 South Bishop street, widow—I wouldn't mind. I would be willing, even consider it a privilege to help and encourage him in his work. That would mean that he must show consideration for me and our home.

Mrs. Bertha Koehler, 6919 South Bishop street, housewife—Yes. But what genius would want to marry me? It would be something to marry a genius like Rockefeller for making money, or one of the greatest thinkers of all time like Einstein, or a genius who could create a style in women's clothes.

Kinley Resents Court Fling at State Schools

U. of Illinois Head Censures Judge Young.

Urbana, Ill., March 10.—(AP)—The opinion of a justice of the United States Customs court that privately endowed institutions give better instruction than state institutions, contained in an official court decision in October, 1928, was severely criticized by President David Kinley of the University of Illinois in his annual report, issued today.

Justice George M. Young made the statement in a decision against the protest of the University of Illinois relative to difficulty in importing scientific equipment that cannot be had in this country.

"Up to and beyond the time when the constitution was originally adopted, higher eduction was entirely within the field of private enterprise, and it does not appear that there was any failure upon the part of the privately conducted colleges to meet the requirements of the republic for higher education," Justice Young declared in his decision. "Indeed, then, as now, they furnished instructions of better quality than that furnished by state institutions, and if they had been allowed to occupy the higher educational field without interference or competition from the state institutions, they might now be furnishing instruction at the same or even lower cost than that furnished to the students at the state colleges."

Dr. Kinley declared that he "had no hesitation in saying that a justice sitting on the bench of a court of the United States went far beyond his rightful prerogative in thus attacking state universities and other publicly supported educational institutions, in an official opinion."

"A judge may, of course," Dr. Kinley said, "take judicial notice of certain historical facts. Justice Young's statement, however, that up to and beyond the time of the adoption of the constitution higher education was entirely private and met all the requirements of the republic is simply not true."

Dr. Kinley said that the College of William and Mary, founded in 1692, received as a donation from the king, "the quit rents due in the colony, amounting to nearly two thousand pounds," and that for its further support, "twenty thousand acres of land were set apart."

Air Line Reports Business Tripled After Cut in Fare

A total of 3,013 passengers were carried over the lines of the Universal division of American Airways, Inc., during the last 30 days as compared with 1,060 passengers flown during the previous thirty day period, according to a report made public yesterday by Col. Halsey Dunwoody, vice president of Universal. At many air terminals on the line the planes have been filled for as far as four days in advance and on one day recently 63 passengers were turned away, Col. Dunwoody said. He ascribed the increase to the new air fares.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

A CHOICE old museum piece called "The Fortune Teller" is in performance at the Majestic theater as the third of the Victor Herbert revivals, and after you have seen it you will have a clear and jolly idea of what the old timers mean when they say "comic opera." For this show is the ideal type of the species; it is a perfect fossil of the American lyric stage in the period of President McKinley, the Spanish-American war, and The Bostonians.

Every burlesque of comic opera that you have seen stems from "The Fortune Teller." Its libretto contains these infallible ear marks of a vanished school of entertainment: [1] Overstuffed hussars, [2] underfed gypsies, [3] twins who can't be told apart although one is a girl and the other a boy, [4] a lady of passion with a dagger in her garter, [5] a ballet dancer who is a missing heiress, and [6] a Polish count who wants to marry for money. First staged before the turn of the century, "The Fortune Teller" is really older than its thirty-two years. As shows go, it is as ancient and as fascinating as a dinosaur's egg.

The plot of this diverting relic seems to be a blend of "Twelfth Night" with "Il Trovatore," than which nothing could be more incredible. For example, the heroine masquerades as her twin brother and a gypsy girl passes for both of them. All three rôles are played by the same singer, who was Alice Nielsen in the days gone beyond recall, and is now Eleanor Painter, herself no novice in soprano alpinism. A triple rôle—that is a record—one of the minor championships held by this famous amusement.

But Victor Herbert's score to "The Fortune Teller" has survived, even though Harry B. Smith's book has gone into the curio shops. About half a dozen of these lovely numbers have passed into the permanent repertory of American song. "Little Gypsy Sweetheart," for one; "Romany Life," for another. They still live in café music and the radio catalog; they have been kept fresh; they are contemporary. The generation that is now fifty years old danced to them; and any alumni reunion of the class of 1900 will soften into freshman sentimentality at their tunes. The classes of 1933, also, are finding them a sweet relief from the hot stuff of the boop-a-doop composers.

Mr. Herbert was so profligate of melody when he poured out the score of "The Fortune Teller" that he put two song-hits into the opening chorus. That's another record. He was so keen for high-flown orchestration that he shot two finales into the first act. And he kept right on going until he had out-Straussed the Viennese, in Number 14 of Act III, with "The Lily and the Nightingale." Yes, it's a minor classic, right enough—the work of a genius in theater music mated with the unimaginative pun-mongering of a hack librettist.

Miss Painter, who has been in the grand opera of European capitals since her last appearances here, sings the rôle of the three-headed heroine beautifully, and plays it with enough dash to recall the blithe traditions of Miss Nielsen. Her soubrettishness, however, is somewhat forced; grand opera seems to ruin the romps. Eric Titus, as the flamboyant hussar, and Philip Conyers, as the gypsy basso [Paging Eugene Cowles] also do justice to Herbert's memory. Sara Bair, emerging as the mysterious Pompom, gartered with a poignard, in the second act, reveals coloratura style. Nothing much can be said for the comedians—but then, think of the material that was written for them!

Women Talk of Voters and Officeholders

And Whether It Pays to Be Independent.

Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill of Downers Grove had the last word yesterday when the Woman's City club discussed whether independence in politics is possible or profitable from the voter's standpoint.

She cited her own career in upholding the affirmative view, describing it as expensive at times but worth while in the long run. Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank offered as her own impression of the political scene that the independent voter may be more secure in his personal honor, but that independence costs him much at the polls.

"Experience has led me to be intensely weary of people who sell their political souls for a mess of concrete," the woman legislator declared. "My record is being attacked in this campaign because I voted against the Small $100,000,000 bond issue that was to put hard roads in many districts. I voted against it, because it was asking too much money for too few roads—not because I am opposed to hard roads. Roads have no business in politics, anyway—they belong in a separate division, as Gov. Emmerson maintained in his campaign.

"Time after time I have been accused of 'not going along' with various people at Springfield, and that made it difficult for me when I had bills to introduce. Again and again I refused to vote for a bad bill merely to gain votes for one of my own. But I find it better to stay in a position to appeal to the entire electorate than to be subservient to a political party that at any time may decide some one else can do my job better."

"Are women really as great a power in politics as they think they are?" Mrs. Fairbank questioned. "Women have been credited with electing Hoover. I believe if every woman had stayed at home, Hoover would probably have been elected anyway, as the Democratic candidate, my own choice, was susceptible to prejudice on three counts, and in addition, the most independent politician I believe the world has ever seen.

"Women must get into the active party work before they can expect to figure on the party ticket and to have a voice in naming the type of candidate they want. They must attend the little precinct organization meetings, the larger ward meetings, and even hold office in those divisions before they can be put on the ticket, because they are politicians and not merely because some women candidates seem advisable."

Miss Harriet Vittum and Mrs. Catherine Waugh McCullough also spoke, both advocating political independence, to some extent.

"Women should show their independence by voting for the best, most honest candidate on the whole ticket," Mrs. McCullough insisted. "She should use as much sense electing a city or state treasurer as in selecting her private banker. No ignoramus, no insolvent person, no trickster should ever hold office."

Mrs. Charles S. Deneen and all three of her daughters—Mrs. Allmand M. Blow, Mrs. Carl Birdsall, and Miss Bina Day Deneen—attended a luncheon meeting of 200 women ward leaders at the Morrison hotel yesterday. Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blacklidge, collector of internal revenue, turned over the leadership of the Deneen forces women's central committee to Mrs. Helen Mehrle, explaining that as Senator Deneen was responsible for her appointment she wished no reflection on him in the campaign.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

A widow and her mite are soon parted. Financial statistics so educate us to believe, and observation supports statistics.

What with the easy money gentlemen so profusely afloat in a day of twisted morals about money getting, women appear badly in need of bigger and better hang-on-to-your-money propaganda. They prove such ridiculous victims — imbecilic, unintelligent victims. It is difficult to keep from getting out of patience with such a woman as one who reported the other day the loss of several thousands she could ill afford to a scheme so palpably fraudulent that a child could detect the false note.

But then, weren't we all candidates for the zaney brotherhood not so many moons ago when we believed all you needed to make a million was the first five hundred? Time has not yet reinstated that glorious self-esteem that permits man to take up the first stone and throw it at a weak sister or brother.

But here's a widow, by name Mrs. Anne J., with a child to support. She opens a boarding house. In comes a husky boarder with an eye on a neighboring garage. He would buy semi-ownership in the garage if he had the money. Not having the money, next best it to look around for a gullible female from whom he can get the money.

He does not have to look far. The widow came forward with her mite and the deal was closed, no lawyers present, no written document to prove the loan, no interest on the money.

Having got away with that bit of salesmanship, the boarder ran up his board bill. He couldn't take money out of the business to pay board. What money he got his hands on must go back into the business, the intention being to work the garage up for a quick sale, at which time the widow would get her money back with a substantial additional sum by way of appreciation.

More months went by without board. An illness descended upon the man. The widow, who claims not to be or ever to have been in love with him, looked after him, bought him food, medicine and extras. Then one day after his recovery when she was out shopping the star boarder removed his belongings and decamped.

The sale of the garage, as planned, was effected. Boarder pocketed the money and disappeared to parts unknown. And this is but another reason why we think women, widows and single, should be sent to school and taught how to hold their purses so the contents won't be jumping up and out at the feet of every fraudulent male with a scheme to sell.

Cape Coat Dress Is Chic for All Day Wear

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special Correspondence.] —The newest thing in Paris is the cape-coat dress. You can wear it with or without the dress beneath. It can, in a pinch, come up to the requirements of chic for all day long. Mme. Vallet of Martial et Armand, who is a wizard, first brought out the idea and her original model is shown in the large figure of our sketch.

It is made of black, basket-weave woolen with a crêpe surface and is just a simple coat with a cape cut in one piece with the coat body. It fastens ostensibly with one button at the belt, but down the front are invisible snaps that hold the skirt together if you want to wear it for a dress instead of a coat. In that case you wear a rose-colored crêpe blouse beneath; or a vestee, if that suits you better.

The simple expedient of leaving the snaps down the front of the coat-dress unfastened transforms it into a wrap that can be worn over a one-piece dress or a waist and skirt. There is an inverted, split box plait near the bottom of the front closing of the skirt of this coat-cape dress which can be unsnapped also.

With a couple of waists or vestees and a dress like the Irene Danna model shown in our smaller sketch this wrap may become several ensembles. The dress to be worn under this model when it is a coat is made of black crêpe marocain, a rough, heavy crêpe. It has a bolero front, so that its high waistline isn't difficult to wear. A pink crêpe de chine collar passes under a band across the front, emerging in two tabs that reach almost to the waistline. The skirt is flared well below the hipline by knife-plaided panels set in at the sides of the front, and much lower at the actual sides of the skirt.

Sun Tan Is Passe; Perhaps Dead White Powder Will Be Next

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I read reports fro mthe Riviera and our own southern camps, where fashions are given birth one season and strangled to death the next, that the sun tan vogue is being measured for the noose, if it's head hasn't gone through it laready. Curious. Last summer it looked as if the sun courting episodes were due for a long run. And now they tell us that the Samoan tint is not the latest season's tempting bait.

Maybe it was the nature faking that killed it. One did see some girls painted up as no nut brown maid or a good Hiawatha ever did look. They were mussy, smudgy looking mustard complexions like nothing ever grown in an incubator or a regular nursery. However, even the latest season approval still holds for the lucky sister who tans becomingly and under nature's own rays. She can look brown and healthy and lend her own chocolate tone to a brown and white ensemble.

The change in taste, however, gives rise to questions about whence women are being directed in matters of make-up. I believe the new styles have affected the athletic brown look. Somehow, it is contradictory to see a maid whose voluminous skirt has to be taken in both hands to make a taxi entrance with face, back and arms looking like a freer female agent.

Maybe we are on the way back to a pale and languishing cheek adornment. Once we go helpless in clothes [or look it], it is a safe guess that a pale and interesting cheek will follow. I am only guessing, of course.

There is no authority for the belief that one of these days we'll be asking for dead white powder. But who would have thought we'd jump so quickly out of the well tanned camps? It does set you to wondering where the next leap will lead. Keeping up with momma and the girls and their complexions gets to be a terribly busy little industry, doesn't it?

One thing you can count on, though. There will be something startling to supplant the last startle. Another thing of interest to the great majority of us is that the conventional manage to remain pretty much that way regardless of the latest wrinkle.

Potter Palmers Due on Sunday from Florida

BY THALIA

Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer and their daughter, Miss Bertha Palmer, are to return next Sunday from Sarasota, Fla., where they have been for the last month or so.

The decisions and problems incident to the dismantling of the famous Palmer residence, 1350 Lake Shore drive, and to the moving of the family to the Gold Coast they have purchased for their future dwelling still are in an unsolved state, although there are rumors aplenty concerning the prospective activities of the Palmers.

Ever since the sale of the historic residence was made public it has been rumored that the Palmers were on the point of moving. There are those who have heard that after the various branches of the Palmer family have selected the furnishings they desire the remainder is to be put on sale. It is to be supposed that some of the art treasures in the house will be presented to the Art institute, of which Mr. Palmer is president.

The Association of Chicago Painters and Sculptors will have Frederic Clay Bartlett as the principal guest of honor and speaker at their largest yearly dinner, to take place on Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock in the clubroom of the Palmer house.

Mr. Bartlett, who is an important patron and authority on artistic matters, is to speak on "The Modern Art Movement." Other distinguished guests of the evening, besides all the prominent artists, will include Dr. and Mrs. Robert M. Hutchins, Dr. and Mrs. Shapley of the University of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Harshe, Arthur T. Aldis, and Mr. and Mrs. Chris Camp.

Among the women who have made reservations for boxes and seats for the annual concert of the Florence Nightingale chorus of the Presbyterian school for nurses to take place at the Blackstone on March 25 are Mrs. C. Frederick Childs, Harold H. Swift, Mrs. William E. Casselberry, Mrs. J. Paul Welling, Mrs. James A. Patten, Mrs. Robert A. Stuart, Mrs. Theodore A. Shaw, Mrs. D. Mark Cummins and Mrs. Ralph C. Otis.

Thomas Coyne of Kenilworth has taken the honors of the season as most successful fisherman at Nassau in the Bahamas. His catches have included a 46 pound kingfish, the largest caught in several years; an 80 pound bonita mackerel, very rare, and the largest ever caught in the waters of southwest bay; a 35 pound grouper, and a big rockfish.

Mr. Coyne's friends won't have a chance to scoff "fish story" at him, because he has movies of the various catches to prove his veracity. Mrs. Coyne accompanied him on several of his expeditions in the Dove, captained by Capt. Bernice Higgs, who mapped the Bahamas out-islands for the British government. He used garfish bait and a 27 string line, if any anglers are interested in the technical details.

Mr. and Mrs. William Burry Jr. of Lake Forest leave on Saturday for a two months' trip to Europe. While Mr. Burry tends to some business matters, Mrs. Burry plans to visit her mother, Mrs. Arnold Klebs, at Les Terrasses at Nyon, Switzerland.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Truesdale of Winnetka have been at Edgewater Park, Miss., for a few days.

Mrs. Hannibal Chandler and her daughter, Miss May Chandler of Highland Park have gone to California for a couple of months to visit their son and brother, H. H. Chandler, who now resides there.

Mr. and Mrs. Burridge Butler of Rhinedale were at the El Mirador hotel in Palm Springs last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Baker of the Hotel Windermere East have as their guests their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Krakeur and their daughter, Joan. They are to be in Chicago for a month.

Fan Shows Wedding of Marie Antoinette to Dauphin of France

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Art institute has several announcements of interest. A rare fan has just been placed on exhibition in the main corridor of the Hutchinson wing, painted on it is a charming scene depicting the marriage of the Austrian Princess Marie Antoinette and the Dauphin, who later was Louis XVI. of France. The fan is one of two given to the museum by Mrs. Martin A. Ryerson. In this fan the carved ivory sticks are encrusted with gold and silver and tiny oval mirrors are set in the top of the guards.

The most important fans of the 18th century are known as the "Vernis Martin" fans. They were made by the Brothers Martin through the use of a special varnish which they invented. They approximated the translucent enamel like varnish employed by the Chinese and Japanese artists.

Beginning March 19, an unusual exhibition is scheduled for the Art institute. It will consist of a collection of contemporary rugs and glass, gathered by the American Federation of Arts. The exhibit has already been successfully shown in Boston, New York and Philadelphia. The collection was assembled in Europe for "the purpose of bringing to the American public and to American manufacturers, merchants and designers, the best foreign achievements in a particular field of applied art side by side with our own creations, in the hope that thus we may be able more readily to estimate our own position and to take advantage of whatever suggestions the contemporary work of their people may hold for us."

Glass and rugs were chosen for the reason that in home decoration they occupy a very prominent place at present. Artists from Austria, Belgium, Czecho-Slovakia, England, France, Germany, Holland, Italy, Sweden and the United States will be represented.

The tenth international water color exhibition will open at the Art institute on Thursday, March 20, and continue until April 20. The jury has already sat and made their selections. On the jury were Jean Crawford Adams, John Whorf and Allen St. John.

Mrs. H. R. Kurrie, president of the La Rabida Jackson Park sanitarium, turned the first spade of earth at the ground breaking ceremonies of the new children's hospital held yesterday afternoon in Jackson park. Physicians and society women of the south side who aided in raising funds for the sanitarium, took part in the exercises.

The ground breaking was followed by a reception at the sanitarium headquarters in the Del Prado hotel.

A petition filed last week, protesting against the erection of the hospital within the park area, will not be considered by the south park commissioners until the next regular meeting on March 19, Milton E. Connelley, secretary of the board, said last night.

The petition, signed by sixty-seven residents of the park district, states the permit for the erection of the building was granted without authority by the commissioners.

VINCENT of Paris

warns against the wrong kind of soap

. . . "you should use Palmolive"

Beauty experts recognize the need for a soap containing olive oils to keep skin fresh, smooth and lovely.

"WE particularly stress to all our clients," says Vincent of Paris, "the importance of skin cleansing. That means keeping the skin free of impurities and ready for our special treatment. And for this purpose we recommend just one soap—Palmolive."

Vincent administers to the beauty needs of world travelers and women of fashion in Paris. And he warns them of the dangers in using the wrong kind of soap.

"You should use Palmolive," he insists, "which is made of pure vegetable oils."

Why skin needs soap and water

Unless impurities and daily accumulations of oil and dirt are removed from the pores, you soon discover blackheads, pimples, and enlarged pores, which are some of women's chief beauty grievances. Palm and olive oils cleanse the pores without irritation. That is, undoubtedly, why these fine cosmetic oils have been used by lovely women since Cleopatra's time.

Here is the famous treatment

With both hands work up a fine lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water. Work this tenderly into the skin of face and throat, massaging for about two minutes. You can actually feel the impurities being carried away from under the surface of the skin. Rinse first with warm water, then with cold. That is the basis of the home beauty treatment recommended by more than 19,800 beauty specialists.

For special treatments, you will have, of course, to consult your own expert. But for day in and day out care of the skin, nothing is quite so effective as this simple Palmolive treatment. And since Palmolive costs no more than ordinary soap, millions allow it to do for their entire body what it does so well for the face. Why don't you begin to use it tomorrow?

Vincent superintending a facial treatment in his beauty salon on the Rue Royale, Paris. He advises Palmolive, as do so many of his famous colleagues.

"An irritated skin—you are using the wrong kind of soap, perhaps. Use Palmolive. Its color is the color of palm and olive oils. It has a fresh natural odor. It not only keeps the skin free of irritations, but it leaves the complexion refreshed and beautiful."

Vincent

NEW THINGS OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

"My China Sparkles Like Jewels"

"my hands look like strangers to the dishpan"

A Simpler Way to Wash Dishes

To have them—impeccable and flawless—and, at the same time for the housewife to have caressing, white hands is a problem that has now been solved an interesting, new way.

Use any kind of soap, soap powder or soap flakes, in washing dishes. But add a teaspoon of CLIMALENE to the water.

This enables you to use ONE-FOURTH the usual quantity of soap. For it softens the water instantly so that far less soap is needed.

Being a GREASE SOLVENT in itself, it DISSOLVES grease instantly; and eliminates ALL FILM or scum from glassware. Makes it sparkle like rare jewels.

Containing superlative SKIN WHITENING and SKIN SOFTENING ingredients — used by scores of beauty specialists—it leaves the hands soft and lovely beyond words.

Women are flocking to it. It costs only a dime at grocers. Try it. Just ask for Climalene.

Women of Indian Descent Campaign to Change Views

A new patriotic organization has been formed by women of Indian blood, it was disclosed at the county recorder's office yesterday. The group is to be known as the First Daughters of America.

The society, according to the charter, plans "to discourage the unfair portrayal of the American Indian by wild west shows, the state, or motion picture, and to eliminate from text books all matters tending to race prejudice; to preserve and perpetuate the primitive arts, crafts, and music of the American Indian, and to emulate the supreme qualities of the American Indian womanhood."

The group plans entrance into the Chicago and Cook County Federation of Women's clubs, according to Attorney Charles F. Fitzgerald, husband of a board member.

Temporary headquarters have been established at 4610 North Damen avenue, at the home of Mrs. Fitzgerald. The society was organized largely through Miss Tsianina Blackstone, also a board member, who toured the country with the party of Vice President Curtis during the last presidential campaign.

CARDINAL OF NAPLES CALLS STAGE, MOVIES EVIL TO CHRISTIANITY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

ROME, March 10.—Echoing Pope Pius XI.'s invective against foreign morality last week, Alexius Cardinal Ascajesci, archbishop of Naples, today issued a pastoral Lenten letter vigorously inveighing against immorality and modern "idols."

"Theaters, newspapers, picture shows and concerts, despite existing legislation, have become means to incite vice and offenses against Christian ideals," says the letter.

Continuing, the cardinal attacks modern newspapers and magazines with especial vehemence as conveyors of pornography. He condemns printing any news about what takes place in secret sessions of law courts, such as divorce hearings and special kinds of crimes.

Insull and Polacco Abroad, Seeking New Opera Singers

New talent and ideas for the Chicago Civic Opera company will be sought in European opera centers during the spring and summer by Samuel Insull and Giorgio Polacco, musical director of the Civic opera. They will meet in Rome on March 26 to begin a tour of the continent. Mr. Insull is in Europe and Sig. Polacco will sail next Saturday. They will be joined in Berlin by Herbert Johnson, stage director of the Civic opera.

God of Speed Has Tired Worshippers, So Bishop Wilson Says

The 20th century speed god has tired of worshipers, according to the Rt. Rev. Frank E. Wilson, Episcopal bishop of Eau Clair in a sermon yesterday at the Garrick theater. Bishop Wilson is the preacher for the second week of lent at the noon day services under the auspices of the Episcopal Church Club of Chicago, conducted each noon at 12:10.

Bishop Wilson declared that the present speed mania is tending to supplant spiritual serenity and that the lack of serenity is the cause of most of our current ills.

"The world is full of tired people," said Bishop Wilson. "Doubtless, it is the pace at which we live that wears us down. We have crowned the god of speed and activity, and we have taught ourselves that the object of life is to be busy. Relaxation is a lost art. The world should be busy but not strained. Christ was always in demand, yet was never in a hurry. He proclaimed the quiet gospel of 'Come unto me and I will give you rest,' which bids people to be active but never upset and flurried."

Age Shows in Three Places

If there are lines at your eyes and mouth, the slightest drooping of your underchin, or a faint crepy texture at your throat, telephone for an appointment at the Dorothy Gray Studio. There, after a personal analysis, you will receive that special treatment devised by Dorothy Gray to correct and prevent your condition.

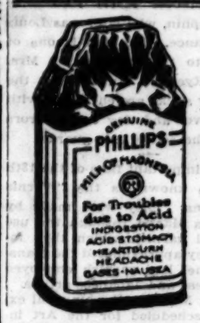
King George, Stamp Fan, Pays $9,700 for Collection

MELBOURNE, Australia, March 10.—(AP)—King George, who is an ardent stamp collector, has purchased the famous Purves collection of commonwealth stamps which was awarded the gold medal at the 1928 International Philatelic exhibition at Melbourne. The price is believed to have been $9,700.

Pipe Coolidge Puffed with Indians Is Lost

Florence, Ariz., March 10.—(AP)—The peace pipe which Calvin Coolidge smoked last Tuesday with Pima and Apache Indians at the dedication of Coolidge dam in Arizona has disappeared. A $25 reward has been offered for its recovery. The Arizona Pageantry association, custodian of the prized pipe, believes some "souvenir hunter made away with it."



When You Over-indulge

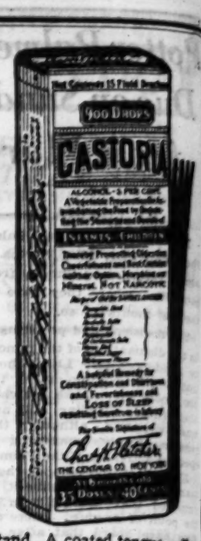
Every man, woman and child will occasionally over-indulge. But don't suffer for all your indiscretions. It's folly to do so. You can so easily sweeten and settle a sour, upset stomach with a little Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

Hearty eaters have long since learned the quick comfort this perfect anti-acid brings. Smokers know how it neutralizes nicotine; brings back a sweet taste; guards the breath. Women know what it does for nausea—or sick headache. And when children have over-eaten—are bilious, constipated or otherwise upset—give them a little of the same, pleasant-tasting and milky-white Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

You'll be through with crude methods once you learn the perfect way. Nothing else has the same quick, gentle effect. Doctors prescribe it for sour stomach, indigestion, heartburn, gas, nausea, headache. It has been standard with them for over 50 years. Insist on genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. A less perfect product doesn't act the same.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.

Restless Children



Children will fret, often for no apparent reason. But there's always one sure way to comfort a restless, fretful child. Castoria! Harmless as the recipe on the wrapper; mild and bland as it tastes. But its gentle action soothes a youngster more surely than some powerful medicine that is meant for the stronger systems of adults.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given the tiniest infant—as often as there is any need. In cases of colic, diarrhea, or similar disturbance, it is invaluable. But it has everyday uses all mothers should understand. A coated tongue calls for a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset—this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed to set everything to rights. Genuine Castoria has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. Doctors prescribe it.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., 2 DAYS BY CAR FROM CHICAGO

Whiskered Mountaineers Seen Along Route.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Asheville, N. C., March 10.—[Special.]—Two days' motoring from Chicago is this fashionable resort city in the Appalachian mountains. It is 32 miles of pleasant driving.

The "season," as the social register folks know it, opens on March 15 and lasts two months. The season for the motoring masses of the north, hungry for the open road after a hard winter on slippery streets, already has arrived.

The route from Chicago goes through Indianapolis and Cincinnati to Lexington, Ky., 410 miles. From Lexington here is 292 miles, using U. S. 25 to Corbin, Ky., U. S. 25 east to Cumberland Gap, Tenn., 32 to Newport, Tenn., and U. S. 70 to Asheville. On this second day out of Chicago there are 66 miles of gravel and 115 miles of macadam. But it is all fair going. Three mountains are crossed. The grades demand second gear on occasion.

Follow Trail of Boone.

The highway from Lexington to Asheville is named Boone way. It is over the trail opened by Daniel Boone and followed in the pioneer migration from the coast to the western wilderness, now Tennessee and Kentucky.

Along the road are low log cabins where live the hill people, descendants of the early pioneers. A century of isolation is being broken by the automobile. Looking like characters from books of the feuds, whiskered men, singly or in groups of two or three, are seen sitting beside the highways, aloof from any settlement, watching the passing cars as though still bewildered by this modern distance eliminator.

The mule apparently is still the favorite conveyance of these rustic people, although the towns have a fair motor registration. Near London, Ky., THE TRIBUNE car passed a mannish white woman astride one of the animals and in Tennessee there were two young women riding double.

Road Winds Over Hills.

From Lexington to Cumberland Gap, the highway winds through the hills known as knobs and crosses gushing streams fed by mountain springs and snow. The Cumberland passes at the corner of three states, Kentucky, Virginia and Tennessee, are now a scenic hour's drive in contrast to the days of struggle they represented to the settlers in the eighteenth century.

The Clinch mountains are as scenic but not as pleasant for motorists, because of loose gravel that slows travel to twenty miles an hour. The Pisgah national forests, with thousands of acres of preserves, are crossed, as are the northern ridges of the Smoky mountains, a new national park.

For several miles a modern concrete pavement follows the French Broad river, leading tributary of the Tennessee. Some historians believe that De Soto's hunt for Eldorado led through this pass and down this stream to the Mississippi.

Asheville Ready for All.

Asheville, with a population of 95,000, has accommodations for the driver of a second hand car, as well as for the man with two chauffeurs. The chamber of commerce reports that the tourist trade is the city's leading industry.

A new tourist attraction this year will be the opening for public inspection, beginning next Saturday of the famous George W. Vanderbilt estate. The Chateau, finished in 1895, holds a rare collection of art and antiques.

Radio Offers Music to Suit Tastes of All

Metropolitan Opera Baritone Is the Feature.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

Everything was to the good in the United System of Radioland last evening. The evening's star was Mario Basiola, a Metropolitan baritone not before heard on the air, on the Family Party orchestral concert from New York, through W-G-N, 8:30 to 9. All routine rules were broken by assigning the first number on the program to the soloist instead of to the orchestra, and, thus overtaken, I failed to note the title of Mr. Basiola's longest and most important number. The balance of his program consisted of short songs. Mr. Basiola's voice is heavy, very full toned, and of pleasing quality. Only, as with most baritones and bassos of thick, heavy voice, there is not much variety in vocal color. The orchestra's selections were enjoyable.

W-G-N's own "Modern Concert" seemed to have been designed to please the tastes of everybody at one or another stage of the 9 to 10 hour. The station's symphony orchestra alternated with the station's dance orchestra; Lawrence Salerno, baritone, catered to those who fancy vocal music with a Latin coloring in it, and Victor Young, violinist, pleased the ear, sometimes rather teasingly, of—well, I guess most everybody.

The Rochester Civic orchestra, through KYW, 9 to 9:30, had a program up to its usual high standard in quality and enjoyableness.

Marie Studholme, Toast of London 25 Years Ago, Dies

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 10.—Marie Studholme, a quarter of a century ago London's most popular actress, died of heart failure at 54 today at her Hampstead home. Early in the nineteen hundreds, when the old Gaiety theater was in its heyday, she was considered the loveliest of the beauty chorus, many of whom married peers. Miss Studholme started the picture postcard rage, and during the height of her popularity tens of thousands of postcards bearing her photo were sold.

WALTER SCOTT PATON, 1540 East 66th place, for 25 years an employé of the Boston store, will be honored at funeral services at 2 p. m. tomorrow at his residence, with burial at Oakwoods cemetery. Mr. Paton died suddenly at his home on Sunday. He was a Mason, a Shriner, and a member of the Hamilton and Olympia Golf clubs. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Barbara Paton.

JURY CALLS FOR REMOVAL OF I. C. GRADE CROSSINGS

A coroner's jury composed of south side business men yesterday recommended the elimination of grade crossings on the South Chicago branch of the Illinois Central railway and a program for the safeguarding of the crossings until they are removed. The jury was called by Coroner Bundesen to investigate the death of George Berger, who was fatally injured by an Illinois Central train at 71st street and Jeffery avenue on March 5.

"The solution of grade crossing accidents lies in the elimination of those crossings," read the jury's verdict. "We urge that the railroad officials, the coroner and the proper city authorities confer and adopt measures to remedy this situation." Changes in signal lights and crossing gates and other preventive measures were recommended by the jury.

A meeting of the council track elevation committee has been called for next Monday to consider an ordinance for the elevation of the Illinois Central tracks. Members of a subcommittee, headed by Ald. Frank Sloan [26th], visited the vicinity last week and were informed by business men that a depression of the tracks is preferred.

7 OF 9 SEIZED IN BOMB FIASCO FREED BY STATE

Seven of the nine men arrested last week through the efforts of Joseph Altmeier, State's Attorney Swanson's bomb investigator, an ex-butcher who admits he has been adjudged a bankrupt, were released yesterday without any charges being placed against them. Two of the men were taken before Justice of the Peace W. W. Ward of Morton Grove and charged with having possession of explosives and carrying concealed weapons.

Tony Caliendo, owner of what Altmeier called the bomb farm near Melrose Park, which was the scene of the spectacular midnight raid conducted by Altmeier, was charged with possessing explosives. Several sticks of dynamite were found in his home. He said that he had a right to the dynamite under his permit allowing him to manufacture fireworks. Tony Gianinni, who was found with a revolver, was charged with having concealed weapons.

GERMANY BURIES VON TIRPITZ WITH IMPERIAL FLAG

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUNICH Germany, March 10.—His coffin decked with the old imperial flag he fought under and which he never forsook for the republican banner, Admiral Alfred von Tirpitz was carried to his grave today with great military pomp. The entire population of the Isar valley participated.

Airplanes droned overhead as the cortege moved from Ebenhausen to Munich. Every German naval unit, in whatever port, flew its flag at half mast. Six horses drew the hearse with its ebony casket with the admiral's hat and sword on top. Officers carried his decorations, and then followed a troop of Reichswehr cavalry, a batallion of infantry, a battery of field artillery, a drum corps, a navy contingent, and civil and military officials. Thousands of war veterans, belonging to the Steel Helmet and other nationalist organizations, made up the bulk of the cortege.

Wreaths were presented by the former kaiser, laid by his son, Prince Oscar, President Von Hinderburg, Japan's naval minister, Prince Ernst Heinrich, Field Marshal Mackensen, and the former Bavarian Crown Prince Rupprecht.

4 FINES LEVIED FOR VIOLATION OF ANTI-SMOKE LAW

Judge Arnold Heap fined four smoke violators yesterday, declaring that, as a health measure, all must coöperate to eliminate the smoke pall in Chicago.

Those fined were the Del Prado hotel, 5301 Hyde Park boulevard, $50 and court costs; Morris May, 2327 South Dearborn street, $20 and costs; Allyn & Bacon company, 2231 South Park avenue, court costs; and the Michaelson Furniture and Clothing Credit house, 4237 Indiana avenue, $10 and costs. Evidence was produced to show that the smoke nuisance at the Allyn & Bacon building had been abated.

Officials of the Palmer house, 17 East Monroe street, were granted a continuance for thirty days in which time they promised to install smoke prevention devices. Carl A. Erickson, who has seven former cases pending for jury trials, was granted another jury trial for violation at 1004 North Clark street.

Baby Derives Comfort from Thumb Sucking

By Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans

A "Sex Education Booklet," by Mrs. Bevans, will be sent free on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

This is a continuation of the subject of thumbsucking. With this habit, as with every other, we want first to look for the cause.

Any one who has ever cared for young babies knows the almost ludicrous speed with which their crying will stop when food is supplied. Presto! Quiet reigns, and an almost funny look of satisfaction comes into their faces.

Sucking being associated with comfort in their minds, thumbsucking is considered to be an unconscious attempt to derive similar comfort in time of need. One of the most frequent comments I read in letters on this subject is: "My little girl only sucks her thumb when she is in pain or tired or unhappy about something." This is obviously a direct comforting for a visible cause.

Sometimes a lack of attention, of understanding, of love, of interesting and normal activity and playthings, and companionship will drive a child to finger sucking for a less obvious need of comfort or satisfaction. These same sorts of causes have been observed for nail biting and at all ages, too.

Occasionally a baby or a little child will thrust his fingers into his mouth or chew on them when teething. But, as soon as the tooth is through, his fingers stop going into his mouth. A little observation through one or two teething periods will show a mother whether this is the real cause of the apparent finger sucking. If it stops when the discomfort and nervous tension that sometimes accompany teething subsides, then it should be let alone.

There is no more normal, harmless object for a child to bite on or rub his gums with occasionally than a nice, soft little knuckle—it is better than the teething rings and "such like" which some babies will never use. This sort of thumbsucking is not in the same class with the other, and if it is spasmodic or temporary, and only connected with the appearance of a tooth, need not be interfered with.

Tribune Cook Book

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Egg as Flavor.

Primarily egg is a food, but it may be of enormous worth in fine cooking as a flavor. To this type belong the custards, some of the ice creams, cake and an egg bread.

In such cakes as sponge cake and sunshine cake, the egg is not only a flavor but a leaven.

When they are used for flavor, or cooked so as to be most attractive, we can not treat them thus roughly. If we consider the thousand and one ways of cooking eggs, we must admit that the largest number of these ways are those which bring out what seems to be the characteristic flavor of an egg, which, at its worst, is rather insipid as a food.

There is a difference of opinion about the egg breads, but there is no question about the egg breads having the egg flavor, which some people like and some dislike. For instance, for a long time I liked best a crisp white flour and cornmeal quick bread which contained one cup of white flour, a scant tablespoon of sugar, a teaspoon of salt, one cup of sour milk beaten with the egg beater and a scant teaspoon of soda or simply enough to neutralize the sour in the milk. Freshly soured milk requires no more than half a teaspoon of soda per cup. But to this recipe we may add an egg and still get a bread which some people would like next to the more positively egg breads, or quite as well.

Lately, because the frozen eggnog is being used so much, I tried out this tiny recipe: One egg yolk, two tablespoons sugar, about one-eighth teaspoon salt, one-half cup top milk, one white of egg stiffly beaten and added last, and about one-fourth of a teaspoon of vanilla. A few drops would have been sufficient. In this case the egg flavor was exceedingly pronounced, but when, instead of using top milk, I used double cream in this combination, the egg flavor had practically disappeared, and I had an ice cream as smooth and velvety perhaps as any of all cream. With milk it was an eggnog whether frozen or not frozen.

War Maimed Will Have Exhibit at Flower Show

More than 1,200 hundred trees up to twenty-five feet high will be required to form the background for the full size gardens at the Central West Garden and Flower show which opens at the Chicago Stadium on April 5 under the auspices of the Garden Club of Illinois. With the help of the Rainbow Division war mothers, alling and maimed veterans at the Edward Hines Jr. Hospital memorial have become expert gardeners. They now have a greenhouse and are making a large American flag of carnations for the flower show.

Fixing of Teeth Expected to Improve School Work

Believing that health may do much toward reinstating truant boys at school, the Chicago Medical society has opened a free dental clinic in the Montefiore school, 461 North Sangamon street. The school recently was established for truants by the board of education. According to L. W. Morrey, chief of the bureau of dental hygiene of the health department, about 95 per cent of the boys received at that school have defective teeth and about 65 per cent other physical defects. Dr. B. J. Neiman is in charge of the clinics.

A Steady Growth in Popularity

EVERY year since 1921 the Chicago Surface Lines have carried more passengers than in the preceding year.

In the fiscal period ended January 31, all previous records for revenue and earnings were broken. Rides on the Surface Lines reached the huge total of 1,629,663,572, a substantial increase over the previous year.

In no other large city in the United States has there been an increase in street car riding consistently during the past nine years.

This popularity of the Surface Lines is due principally to the fact that the property has been maintained at a high state of efficiency and service has been increased and improved to meet growing demands.

Last year there was an increase in service of 941,776 passenger car miles. One hundred new cars were added and schedules were rewritten to meet changing conditions on the various lines. Cars are being operated where and when they are needed.

A total of almost $12,000,000 was expended for maintenance and equipment renewals in the twelve months.

There is no substitute for street car service
